Said notice shall be mailed to the last known address of such owner, and if such owner shall fail to pay the amount so expended by the county within thirty days of the time such notice is sent, then, and in that event, the county treasurer shall add the amount so expended to the taxes upon said property, and shall collect the same as provided by law for the collection of taxes for state and county purposes, except that such owner may, within thirty days from the time such notice is sent, appear before the county commissioners and show cause why such sum should not be paid; provided, however, that if such owner shall feel aggrieved by the decision of the county commissioners, such owner may appeal to the district court, and such appeal shall be perfected and prosecuted in the same manner as appeal in justice courts.

It shall be the duty of all local, county, and state health officers, or their authorized deputies, within their respective jurisdictions, to investigate sources of infection of venereal disease, to co-operate with the proper officials whose duty it is to enforce laws directed against prostitution, and otherwise to use every proper means for the repression of prostitution.

History: En. Sec. 3, Ch. 106, L. 1919; re-en. Sec. 2566, R. C. M. 1921.

Operation and Effect

The legislature under its police power may enact laws authorizing the establishment of quarantine regulations and requiring the detention of persons affected with contagious diseases dangerous to the public health without resort to a preliminary judicial proceeding to determine the character of the disease and the facts constituting the danger to public health. In re Caselli, 62 M 201, 202, 204 P 364.

Id. A person placed in quarantine because affected with a communicable disease may, on habeas corpus, challenge the right of the authorities to continue his detention if the facts upon which the order was made no longer exist.

Id. The provisions of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States, and of sections 6 and 7 of article III of the state constitution, to the effect that no person may be deprived of his liberty without due process of law, have no application to the case of one detained in quarantine because affected with a dangerous communicable disease.

Id. Evidence showing that a woman had been plying her trade as a prostitute within a short time prior to her arrest by the county health officer under chapter 106, laws of 1919, and detention in quarantine on the ground that she was affected with gonorrhea, was a constant associate of prostitutes, etc., held sufficient to warrant her detention until such time as it was safe to allow her to go at large.

2567. Isolation hospitals. The county board of health of each county shall provide an isolation hospital for the care and treatment of all persons within the county suffering from venereal diseases, and shall make all necessary rules and regulations for the conduct and management thereof; provided, however, that the county board of health of any county may, in its discretion, if no isolation hospital has been established in such county, contract for the care and treatment of persons suffering from said diseases, with any county of the state that maintains an isolation hospital for the care and treatment of such diseases, or may contract with any private institution for the care and treatment of any such patients.

2568. Pay patients. Every person who is committed to, detained, or treated in such isolation hospitals, and who is financially able, shall be required to pay all expenses for care and treatments while detained in such hospital, and the county board of health is authorized to maintain a civil action in the name of the county to recover therefor.

History: En. Sec. 5, Ch. 106, L. 1919; re-en. Sec. 2568, R. C. M. 1921.

2569. Examination and treatment of prisoners. All persons who shall be confined or imprisoned in any state, county, or city prison in the state shall be examined for, and if infected, treated for venereal diseases by the health authorities or their deputies. The prison authorities of any state, county, or city prison are directed to make available to the health authorities such portion of any state, county, or city prison as may be necessary for a clinic or hospital, wherein all persons who may be confined or imprisoned in any such prison, and who are infected with venereal disease at the time of the expiration of their terms of imprisonment, and, in case no other suitable place for isolation or quarantine is available, such other persons as may be isolated or quarantined under the provisions of section 2566 shall be isolated and treated at public expense until cured: or, in lieu of such isolation, any of such persons may, in the discretion of the local, county, or state health officer, be required to report for treatment to a licensed physician, or submit to treatment provided at public expense as provided in section 2567. Nothing herein contained shall be construed to interfere with the service of any sentence imposed by a court as a punishment for the commission of crime.

History: En. Sec. 6, Ch. 106, L. 1919; re-en. Sec. 2569, R. C. M. 1921.

2570. Quarantine of infected persons. Local and county health officers are authorized and directed to quarantine persons who have, or who, after examination, are reasonably suspected of having syphilis, gonorrhea, or chancreoid, whenever in the opinion of said local or county health officer, or the state board of health or its secretary, quarantine is necessary for the protection of the public health. In establishing quarantine the health officer shall designate and define the limits of the area in which the person known to have, or reasonably suspected of having, syphilis, gonorrhea, or chancreoid, and his or her immediate attendant are to be quarantined, and no other person than the attending physician shall enter or leave the area of quarantine without the permission of the local or county health officer. No one but the local, county or state health officer shall terminate said quarantine, and this shall not be done until the diseased person has become non-infectious, as determined by the local, county, or state health officer or his authorized deputy, through the clinical examination and necessary laboratory tests, or until permission has been given by the state board of health or its secretary.

History: En. Sec. 7, Ch. 106, L. 1919; re-en. Sec. 2570, R. C. M. 1921.

Operation and Effect

The legislature under its police power may enact laws authorizing the establishment of quarantine regulations and requiring the detention of persons affected with contagious diseases dangerous to the public health without resort to a preliminary judicial proceeding to determine the character of the disease and the facts constituting the danger to public health. In re Caselli, 62 M 201, 202, 204 P 364.

2571. Instruction of patients in disease. It shall be the duty of every physician, and every other person who examines or treats a person having syphilis, gonorrhea, or chancreoid, to instruct such person in measures for preventing the spread of such diseases, and inform such person of the necessity for treatment until cured, and to hand such person a copy of the circular of information obtainable for this purpose from the state board of health.

History: En. Sec. 8, Ch. 106, L. 1919; re-en. Sec. 2571, R. C. M. 1921.

2572. Duty of physician or other person consulted concerning disease. When a person applies to a physician or other person for the diagnosis or treatment of syphilis, gonorrhea, or chancreoid, it shall be the duty of the physician or person so consulted to inquire of and ascertain from the person seeking such diagnosis or treatment, whether such person has theretofore consulted with or has been treated by any other physician or person, and, if so, to ascertain the name and address of the physician or person last consulted. It shall be the duty of the applicant for diagnosis or treatment to furnish this information, and a refusal to do so or a falsification of the name and address of such physician or person consulted by such applicant shall be deemed a violation of these regulations. It shall be the duty of the physician or other person whom the applicant consults to notify the physician or other person last consulted of the change of advisers. Should the physician or person previously consulted fail to receive such notice within ten days after the last date upon which the patient was instructed by him to appear, it shall be the duty of such physician or person to report to the local or county health officer the name and address of such venereally diseased person.

If an attending physician or other person knows or has good reason to suspect that a person having syphilis, gonorrhea, or chaneroid is so conducting himself or herself as to expose other persons to infection, or is about so to conduct himself or herself, he shall notify the local or county health officer of the name and address of the diseased person, and the essential facts in the case.

2573. Druggists and unlicensed persons prohibited from prescribing—duty of druggists. No druggist or other person, not a physician licensed under the laws of the state, shall prescribe or recommend to any person any drugs, medicines, or other substances to be used for the cure or alleviation of gonorrhea, syphilis, or chaneroid, or shall compound any drugs or medicines other than proprietary for said purpose, from any written formula or order not written for the person for whom the drugs or medicines are compounded, and not signed by a physician licensed under the laws of the state. All druggists are required to keep a record of the names and addresses of all persons to whom proprietary or patent medicines, commonly or presumably used in the treatment of venereal diseases, are sold or supplied to, and shall forward a report to the proper health officer at the end of each week, giving the names and addresses of such persons and the remedy sold in each case.

2574. Certificates of freedom from disease. Such certificates shall not be used or exhibited for solicitation for immoral purposes.

All such rules and regulations so made shall be of force and binding upon all county and municipal health officers and other persons affected by this act, and shall have the force and effect of law.

The term “drug,” as used in this act, shall include all medicines or preparations recognized in the United States Pharmacopoeia or National Formulary for internal or external use, and any substance or mixture of substances intended to be used for the cure, mitigation, or prevention of disease of either man or animals. The term “food,” as used in this act, shall include all articles used as food, drink, confectionery, or condiment by man or animals, whether simple, mixed or compound.

Nature of Action

A charge in a complaint that defendant sold and delivered to plaintiff's husband, for immediate use in his family, including plaintiff, adulterated meat containing “diseased, infected, putrid, decomposed, poisonous acid and animal matter,” sufficiently charged defendant with a violation of the pure food act, and with a breach of duty constituting legal negligence. Kelley v. John R. Daily Co., 56 M 63, 72, 181 P 326.

Id. Liability under the pure food act arises from a violation of the statute, and it is immaterial whether the foundation of an action based upon such violation is laid in negligence or warranty.

Id. The seller of food products is made insurer of their purity, and guilty knowledge on his part is not an ingredient of the offense prohibited; the obligation is personal, and cannot be avoided by showing that the impure food was purchased from a foreign concern and bore the stamp of approval by the government inspectors.

Id. A complaint alleging that, at the time of the sale of impure food by defendant to plaintiff, defendant was engaged in selling at retail, to the public generally, meat and meat products for human consumption, was sufficient to bring the case within the statute, and disclose the duty defendant owed to the public, including plaintiff, to see that its food products offered for sale were not adulterated within the meaning of such statute.

Id. It is not necessary for a plaintiff to refer to the pure food and drug act in order to recover damages for injuries arising from a violation of it. The courts take judicial notice of the general and public domestic statutes, and they need not be specially pleaded.

Police Regulation

The pure food and drug act is a general police regulation, which recognizes the fact that the sale of adulterated food-stuff is a constant menace to the health of the consuming public, and the duty enjoined by it upon the seller is such that a violation of it can affect the public health only through the individuals who are injuriously affected by partaking of such food. The duty imposed upon the vendor is one which extends to the public considered as a composite of individuals, and if a consumer sustains some special injury by reason of defendant's violation of the act he has a right of action against the latter. Kelley v. John R. Daily Co., 56 M 63, 71, 181 P 326.

2579. What deemed adulterated. For the purposes of this act, an article shall be deemed as adulterated, in case of drugs:

First. When a drug is sold under or by a name recognized in the United States Pharmacopoeia or National Formulary, if it differs from the standard strength, quality, or purity, as determined by the test laid down in the United States Pharmacopoeia or National Formulary, official at the time of investigation; provided, that no drug shall be deemed to be adulterated under this provision if the standard of strength, quality or purity be plainly stated upon the bottle, box, or other container thereof, although the standard may differ from that determined by the test laid down in the United States Pharmacopoeia or National Formulary.

Second. If its strength or purity fall below the professed standard or quality under which it is sold.

In the case of foods:

First. In the case of confectionery, if it contains terra alba, barytes, talc, chrome yellow, or other mineral substance or poisonous color or flavor, or other ingredient deleterious or detrimental to health, or any vinous, malt, or spirituous liquor or compound or narcotic drug.

Second. If any substance or substances have been mixed with it so as to reduce, or lower, or injuriously affect its quality or strength.

Third. If any substance has been wholly or in part substituted for the article.

Fourth. If any valuable constituent has been wholly or in part abstracted from it.

Fifth. If it contains any proportion of a filthy, diseased, decomposed, putrid, or rotten animal or vegetable substance, whether manufactured or not, or in the case of milk, if it is the product of a diseased animal.

Sixth. If it is mixed, colored, coated, polished, powdered, or stained in a manner whereby damage or inferiority is concealed, or whereby it is made to appear better or of greater value than it really is.

Seventh. If it contains any added poisonous or other added deleterious ingredient.

Eighth. Said guarantee to afford protection must contain the name and address of the party or parties making the sale of such article to such dealer, or of the manufacturer thereof as herein specified, and in such case said party shall be amenable to prosecution, fines, and other penalties which would attach in due course to the dealer under the provisions of this act.

Failure to Procure License as a Defense

Offered evidence to show that plaintiff did not have the license required by this section authorizing him to conduct his restaurant business, at the time he was evicted by his landlord before expiration of the lease, was immaterial, since the fact alone would not tend to prove that he could not have procured one upon placing the premises in a sanitary condition. Quong et al. v. McEvoy et al., 70 M 99, 105, 224 P 266.

The following is the method which shall be adopted as the standard for the operation of the Babcock Test for the state of Montana and shall be used by persons, firms, or corporations paying for milk or cream on the basis of the butterfat content of such commodity or commodities.

TESTING MILK. The milk from which the sample to be tested is taken shall be thoroughly mixed by pouring from one vessel to another three (3) times. The sample to be tested shall consist of eighteen (18) grams by weight or seventeen and six-tenths ($17\frac{6}{10}$) cubic centimeters, as measured in a standard pipette. The standard strength of the acid used for all testing of milk or cream shall be indicated by the specific gravity, which shall not be less than one and eighty-two hundredths, ($1\frac{82}{100}$) nor more than one and eighty-three hundredths, ($1\frac{83}{100}$) as determined by a standard hydrometer. After properly mixing the sample of milk and acid in the test bottle, centrifuging shall be for periods of five (5) minutes, two (2) minutes, and one (1) minute. After the first period of centrifuging, water shall be added, sufficient to fill the test bottle up to the base of the neck and after the second centrifuging, water shall be added sufficient to raise the fat in the neck of the test bottle to near the top of the graduation. The water used to fill the test bottles shall be at a temperature of one hundred and forty degrees (140°) Fahrenheit or more. After the last period of centrifuging, the test bottles shall be immersed in a bath prepared for the purpose, which shall consist of water at not less than one hundred and thirty degrees (130°) nor more than one hundred and forty degrees (140°) Fahrenheit, and they shall remain immersed for at least ten (10) minutes, and the temperature of the bath shall be kept between the temperature before named for the full period of immersion. The test shall be read immediately after the test bottles are taken from the bath. Dividers shall be used to determine the length of the fat column in the neck of the test bottles. The reading shall be from the bottom of the lower meniscus to the top of the upper meniscus of the fat column.

TESTING CREAM. The method of testing cream shall be the same as for milk, except that all samples of cream tested shall be weighed by either the nine (9) or eighteen (18) gram method, and the reading of the fat column in the neck of the test bottle shall be from the bottom of the lower meniscus to the bottom of the upper meniscus. History: Sec. 2138, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 2658, R. C. M. 1921.

Held, that under sections 2658-2671, R.

C. M. 1921, reservoirs may be constructed for the purpose of storing flood water, in the course or at the headwaters of an adjudicated stream, provided their construction does not interfere with the use by prior appropriators of the natural flow in the stream to the extent of their appropriations. Donich et al. v. Johnson et al., 77 M 229, 240, 250 P 963.

2659. Dams and dikes to be constructed in a secure manner—proceedings upon complaint of insecurity. No person, association, or corporation shall construct, or cause to be constructed, a dam or dike for the purpose of accumulating, storing, appropriating, or diverting any of the waters of this state, except in a thorough, secure, and substantial manner.

Upon complaint on oath being made to the state engineer by three or more persons residing or having property in such location, that their homes or property would be in danger of destruction or damage in event of flood occurring on account of the breaking of any dam or dike of any reservoir within the state, and that they have reason to believe said reservoir is in an unsafe condition, or that it is being filled with water to such an extent as to render it unsafe, it shall be the duty of the state engineer to forthwith examine, or cause to be examined, the said reservoir. If, upon such examination, the state engineer shall find that said reservoir is unsafe, or is being filled with water to such an extent as to render it unsafe, it shall be his duty to notify the county attorney of the county in which the reservoir is located, setting forth his findings, and the county attorney shall immediately take the necessary steps to abate the danger and make the structure safe.

In the event of either party being dissatisfied with the findings of the state engineer, he may take an appeal to the district court of the district wherein the reservoir is located, and said court shall hear and determine the matter at the earliest practical time, subject to the right of either party to take an appeal as in other civil cases; provided, that the judgment of the state engineer shall control until the final determination of the case.

2660. Complaint against filling unsafe reservoir—duty of court to order examination. Upon complaint on oath made by any person or persons, and filed in the district court, that a person, association, or corporation is filling or proposing to fill with water a reservoir, or has filled or gathered water in a reservoir, and that life and property are thereby endangered, the judge must appoint three disinterested persons, at least one of whom must be a resident of the county in which the dam or reservoir is situated, and one of whom must be a competent and experienced civil or hydraulic engineer, each of whom must take an oath that he will examine the dam and reservoir to determine as to its security to the best of his ability.

History: En. Sec. 2140, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 2, Ch. 168, L. 1917; re-en. Sec. 2660, R. C. M. 1921.

2661. Examination and report. It is the duty of the person so appointed to make a thorough examination of the dam or reservoir, and if, upon examination, they find that persons or property are endangered by reason of the dam or reservoir, and it is not secure against the pressure of the water confined therein, or the water that may be confined therein, or against rains and freshets that may occur, and if they find that the same is secure against the occurrence of the casualties mentioned, or any of them, they must make a report in writing to the judge, which must be entered of record as a proceeding in court.

History: Sec. 2141, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 2661, R. C. M. 1921.

2662. Withdrawal of water from unsafe structure. If, upon such examination as to the safety of such reservoir, they consider such reservoir insufficient and insecure, they must further inquire whether the danger to be apprehended is imminent, and if they are of the opinion that such danger is imminent, and that destruction of life or property may result from delay, it is their duty forthwith to draw from such reservoir the waters therein, or so much thereof as will insure safety, and they must make return of their action to the judge; and in the discharge of such duties, the persons so acting are peace officers.

History: Sec. 2142, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 2662, R. C. M. 1921.

2663. Proceedings when dam or reservoir is insecure. If, upon examination, they are of opinion that such dam or reservoir is insecure and insufficient, but that the danger therefrom is not immediate or imminent, they must so state in their report to the judge, who must thereupon cause a copy of the report to be served on the owner or person in charge thereof, with a notice requiring him to make the same secure, or to draw the water therefrom without delay; and unless such order is complied with after hearing, the judge may order the sheriff to draw from said dam or reservoir the waters thereof.

History: Sec. 2143, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 2663, R. C. M. 1921. For earlier history, see Sec. 2658.

2664. Issues and trial. The owner of the dam or reservoir may answer the complaint, and an issue may be joined at the hearing, and the question of the security and sufficiency of the dam or reservoir may be tried before the court or jury as in other cases.

History: Sec. 2144, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 2664, R. C. M. 1921.

2665. Judgment. If the jury find the dam or reservoir insufficient or insecure, judgment must be entered thereon, declaring such dam or reservoir a nuisance, and that all the water be drawn therefrom. Costs may be taxed as in other cases to the losing party.

History: Sec. 2145, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 2665, R. C. M. 1921.

2666. New trial and appeal. Any party to the proceedings may move for a new trial and appeal as in other cases.

History: En. Sec. 2146, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 2666, R. C. M. 1921.

2667. Water may be drawn off pending an appeal. The judge may, after the verdict of the jury, and pending an appeal, order that the water be drawn from the reservoir so as to make the same secure and safe until the final determination of the proceedings.

History: En. Sec. 2147, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 2667, R. C. M. 1921.

2668. Board of county commissioners may appoint experts to examine dam. Whenever any person is constructing a dam or reservoir, and complaint is made to the board of county commissioners that the same is being built in an insecure and unsafe manner, and dangerous to life or property, or that when constructed will be insecure and dangerous, it is the duty of the board to appoint three experts under whose supervision the dam or reservoir must be constructed, and such reservoir must not be filled with water, nor shall any water be allowed to flow therein, until the owner thereof has filed in the office of the county clerk a certificate, signed by a majority of the persons so appointed, to the effect that such dam or reservoir is constructed in a proper manner and is safe and secure.

Any guy wire attached to any pole or appliance on which is run, placed, erected, or maintained any wire or cable used to conduct or carry electricity for the purpose of light, heat, or power, or used jointly with telephone, telegraph, or other signal wires, shall be permanently and effectively insulated at all times, by the insertion of at least two strain insulators. The upper of these insulators shall be inserted in the guy so as to be at least six feet in a horizontal line from the pole itself, and the second strain insulator shall be inserted in the guy so as to be not less than eight feet in a vertical line from the surface. In short guys in which the two insulators are required, and which will be located at the same points or near each other, two insulators may be coupled in series and put into the guy together. All strain insulators shall be so constructed and maintained that the guy wire or guy cable holding the insulator in place shall interlock in case of failure or breakage thereof. The above shall not apply to railway electrification, where at least one insulator shall be inserted in each end of every auxiliary cross-span, and one in each auxiliary guy.

2687. Trolley and "span" wires. Trolley wires must readily stand the strain put upon them when in use, and shall have a double insulation from the ground. In wooden-pole construction the pole shall be considered one insulation. In all cases where "span" wires are attached to grounded supports, or on buildings or other structures, there shall be provided and maintained at least two approved insulators in any such "span" wire between the trolley and any such other structures. The outer insulators shall be placed at a distance equal to that of the curb. 2711.2. Notice, when and how given. The person, firm or corporation moving any house, building, derrick or other structure shall give to the person, firm or corporation owning or operating such wire or poles at their nearest office, and also at their principal office within the state, not less than three days' written notice of the time and place, when and where the removal of said poles or the cutting, raising, moving or otherwise interfering with said poles or wires will be necessary.

History: En. Sec. 2, Ch. 55, L. 1929.

2711.3. Duties of the owner in such case. 2712. Appointment, term and compensation of boiler inspectors. The industrial accident board shall appoint not to exceed four inspectors of boilers and shall prescribe their term of office and fix their compensation.

History: En. Sec. 550, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 1639, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 30, L. 1913; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 12, L. 1921; re-en. Sec. 2712, R. C. M. 1921.

2713. Qualifications of boiler inspectors. No person is eligible to hold the office of inspector of boilers and steam-engines who has not had at least ten years of actual experience in the operation of steam-engines, steam-boilers, and steam machinery, and who has not held for at least five years immediately preceding his appointment a first-class stationary engineer's license of the state of Montana, or who is directly or indirectly interested in the manufacture or sale of boilers or steam machinery, or any patented article required to be sold relating thereto.

L. 1913; re-en. Sec. 2713, R. C. M. 1921.

2714. Inspection of boilers. The inspector of boilers must inspect all steam-boilers and steam-generators before the same are used, and all persons who bring into this state any boiler or boilers must notify the boiler inspector stating the number and kind of boilers, where they had heretofore been located, and where they are to be located and operated in this state, and must secure from the boiler inspector a certificate of inspection before said boilers are placed in operation, except in the case of new boilers, which must be inspected within ninety days after they are put in use, and all boilers must be inspected at least once in every year. Any person failing to give notice to the boiler inspector as herein provided, or who operates such boilers without a certificate from the boiler inspector, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars for each offense, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than thirty nor more than ninety days, or by both such fine and imprisonment. The inspector of boilers must subject all boilers to hydrostatic pressure, which hydrostatic pressure must be thirty-three and one-third per cent. greater than the steam pressure allowed on the boilers, providing there are no such leaks on such boilers which prevent the inspector from applying such hydrostatic pressure. And the inspector must satisfy himself by a thorough interior and exterior examination that the boilers are well made and of good and suitable material; that the openings for the passage of water and steam, respectively, and all pipes and tubes exposed to heat, are of the proper dimensions and free from obstructions; that the flues are circular in shape; that the fire line of the furnace is at least two inches below prescribed minimum water line of the boilers; that the arrangements for delivering the feed water is such that the boilers cannot be injured thereby, and that such boilers and the steam connections may be safely employed without danger to life.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 554, Pol. C. 1895;	References

1919; re-en. Sec. 2714, R. C. M. 1921.

2715. Same—further requirements in making inspection. The inspector must also satisfy himself that the safety-valves are of suitable dimension, sufficient in number and area, and properly arranged, and that the safety-valve weights are properly adjusted so as to allow no greater pressure in the boilers than the amount prescribed by the inspection certificate; that there are a sufficient number of gauge-cocks properly inserted to indicate the amount of water, and suitable gauges that will correctly record the pressure of steam; and adequate and certain provisions for an ample supply of water to feed the boilers at all times, and that suitable means for blowing out are provided, so as to thoroughly remove mud and sediment from all parts of the boilers when they are under pressure of steam, and any renter, user, or owner of a boiler, or any person or persons who tamper with the safety-valve to allow the boiler to carry greater pressure than is allowed by the inspection certificate, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

In subjecting the boilers to the hydrostatic test, the test applied must exceed the working pressure allowed in the ratio of one hundred to sixty-six and two-thirds, provided the valves and other conditions of piping on the boiler will allow the inspector to make such test. But where there are leaks on the boiler which make it impossible to apply such hydrostatic pressure, or where the water cannot be procured with which to make such test, the inspector may make a hammer test of said boiler and inspect same closely and give to such boiler a rating for steam pressure as its condition will warrant. In all cases the inspector must use judgment in the steam pressure allowed on boilers. Where a boiler is constructed with lap horizontal seams on boiler, dome, or drum, a factor of four and one-half shall be used in determining the safe working pressure allowed on such boiler. But where the boilers are constructed with butt-strap horizontal seams, a factor of four may be used in determining such safe working pressure. But in any case the inspector may use a higher factor if the conditions are such as to warrant it. If boiler rests on side wall on lugs, or is hung by I-beams, or is in any way set up so that the weight of the boiler is pulling against the horizontal seam of rivets, a factor of five must be used to determine the safe working pressure allowed on boiler. Where the horizontal lap seams of boiler are exposed to the fire, a factor of five must be used to determine the safe working pressure to be allowed on such boiler. On stay bolts, if new, seven thousand five hundred pounds pressure per square inch shall be allowed. If such stay-bolts are corroded or defective, the inspector must determine the pressure to be allowed on same. On braces made of solid material, eight thousand pounds pressure per square inch shall be allowed. On welded braces or braces with only one crow-foot, six thousand pounds pressure per square inch shall be allowed. No cast-iron shall be used in the construction or reinforcements of any boiler where the pressure allowed on said boiler is more than one hundred pounds per square inch.

2716. Same—material to be used. No boiler or steam pipe, nor any of the connections thereto, must be approved which is made in whole or in part of bad material, or is unsafe from any cause. Nothing herein shall be construed to prevent the use of any boiler or steam-generator which may not be constructed of riveted iron or steel plates, when the inspector has satisfactory evidence that such boiler or steam-generator is equal in strength to and as safe from explosion as boilers of the best quality, constructed of iron or steel plates.

2717. Examination may be made at any time. In addition to the annual inspection, it is the duty of the inspectors to examine at proper times, when in their opinion such examination is necessary, all such boilers as shall have become unsafe from any cause, and to notify the owner or the person using such boilers of any defect and what repairs are necessary to render them safe.

History: En. Sec. 557, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 1646, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 2717, R. C. M. 1921.

2718. Duty of owner to permit inspection—sealing of fire-box—costs and expenses. It is the duty of the owners or managers of steam-boilers to allow the inspector free access to the same. In case the owner or manager of any boiler is notified by the inspector to have said boiler ready for inspection on a day certain, and fails to have such boiler ready for inspection at such time, the inspector shall at once seal up the firebox in such boiler, and such seal must not be removed from the firedoor without a written order from the inspector. Any person tampering with or removing said seal shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than two months nor more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment. If the owner or manager of any boiler that has been so sealed desires to have the same inspected before the next regular visit of the inspector to the district where said boiler is situated, he must pay all transportation and hotel expenses of the inspector who makes the inspection, in addition to the inspection fee provided by law. It shall be the duty of the engineer operating any boiler or boilers to assist the inspectors in their examination of the same, and point out any defects known to him in the boilers or machinery under his charge. Any engineer not complying with this section shall have his license revoked or suspended.

2719. Licenses required—penalty for operating without license. No person must be granted a license to operate steam-boilers or steam machinery under the provisions of this article, who has not been examined by the inspector and found competent to perform the duties of an engineer, and received from such inspector a written or printed license so to act. Any person who operates any steam-boiler or steam-engine without first obtaining a license from the inspector is guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than sixty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

2720. Classification of engineers. Engineers intrusted with the care and management of steam machinery as specified in the preceding section must be divided into four classes, namely, first-class engineers, second-class engineers, third-class engineers, and low-pressure engineers. No license shall be granted to any person to perform the duties of a first-class engineer who has not taken and subscribed an oath that he has had at least three years' experience in the operation of steam boilers and steam machinery, or whose knowledge and experience is not such as to justify the belief that he is competent to take charge of all classes of steam-boilers and steam machinery. No license must be granted to any person to act as a second-class engineer who has not taken and subscribed an oath that he has had at least two years' experience in the operation of steam-boilers and steam-engines, and is, on examination, found competent to take charge of all classes of steam-boilers and steam machinery not exceeding one hundred horsepower. No license must be granted to any person to act as a third-class engineer who has not served at least one year under a competent engineer, and is found, upon examination, to be sufficiently acquainted with the duties of an engineer to be intrusted with the care of steam-boilers, and of steam machinery not exceeding twenty horsepower. All firemen who have charge of steam-boilers, as to the regulation of feed-water and fuel, where the boilers are so situated as not at all times to be under the eye of the engineer in charge, are required to pass a third-class engineer's examination and procure the same kind of license. All firemen who operate boilers where over thirty pounds pressure per square inch is allowed must hold at least a third-class license. All persons who operate heating boilers or plants, in public buildings where the steam pressure allowed on such boilers is thirty pounds per square inch or less, must procure from an inspector a low-pressure license. Applicants for this grade of license must have at least six months' previous experience in the care and management of low-pressure boilers, and must be found competent, on examination, to hold such grade of license. Such license shall not entitle the holder thereof to operate steam-boilers or steam machinery where the boiler pressure allowed is over thirty pounds to the square inch. Engineers holding third-class or higher class of license may operate boilers in heating plants where thirty pounds pressure or less, per square inch is allowed, without obtaining a low-pressure license. All applicants for license as stationary engineers or firemen must be at least eighteen years of age. None of the licenses in this section above named shall entitle the holder thereof to operate a traction-engine, but all persons who are intrusted with the care and management of traction-engines, or boilers on wheels, are required to pass an examination as to their competency to operate such class of machinery and to procure a license to be known as a traction license. Such traction license shall not entitle the holder thereof to operate any other class of steam machinery specified in the preceding section. No license shall be granted to any person to act as a traction engineer who has not had at least six months' experience as fireman on traction-engines, and who is not found, upon examination, to be sufficiently acquainted with the duties of a traction engineer to be intrusted with the care of traction engines. Applicants for traction license must be at least eighteen years of age.

2721. Complaints and revocation of license. Whenever complaint is made against an engineer holding a license from the inspector that he through negligence, want of skill, or inattention to duty, permitted his boiler to burn or otherwise become in bad condition, or that he has been found intoxicated while on duty, it is the duty of the inspector or assistant inspector to make a thorough investigation of the charge, and upon satisfactory proof of such charge to revoke the license of such engineer.

M. 1921.

2722. Certificate of inspection—penalty for wrongfully issuing certificate of inspection or licenses. In making an inspection of the boilers and machinery herein provided for, the inspectors may act jointly or separately, but the inspector or assistant inspector making such inspection must in all cases certify the same under the seal of the boiler inspector's office. Any inspector or assistant inspector who wilfully and feloniously certifies regarding any steam boilers or their attachments, or grants a license to any person to act as engineer contrary to the provisions of this article, is punishable under the provisions of section 11198 of the penal code.

2723. Fees for inspection or examination. The inspector of boilers is authorized to charge a fee of ten dollars for the inspection of each steam-boiler and its steam connections, and five dollars for each additional boiler when connected. The fee for the inspection of each traction-engine or boiler on wheels shall be ten dollars. The fee for the inspection of boilers in incorporated cities shall be five dollars. Such fees shall be payable at the time of the inspection. In case of the failure of the owner, manager, or person in charge of any boiler to pay such fee upon the demand of the inspector, said inspector is authorized to seal the fire-box of said boiler, and said seal shall not be removed until said fee is paid and the written order of the inspector authorizing its removal is received by said owner or manager. Any person who tampers with or removes such seal without such written order shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and punished as provided by section 2718. The fee for the examination of applicants for engineer's license is seven dollars and fifty cents for first-class engineer; five dollars for second-class engineer; three dollars for third-class engineer; two dollars for low-pressure engineer, and three dollars for traction engineer, to be paid at the time of application for license. In case of the failure of any applicant to pass a successful examination, ninety days must elapse before he can again be examined as applicant for license. But the inspector may grant to the applicant a lower grade of license than that applied for upon such examination. All certificates of inspection and engineers' licenses must be displayed in a conspicuous place in the engine room.

History: En. Sec. 4, Ch. 32, L. 1905; re-en. Sec. 1652, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 12, Ch. 30, L. 1913; amd. Sec. 3, Ch. 32, L. 1919; re-en. Sec. 2723, R. C. M. 1921.

2724. Re-examination for license. If any person who has applied for a license as a first or second or third-class engineer, under the provisions of this article, and has been rejected, feels aggrieved, he may at any time after the lapse of ten days, and within ninety days after the date of his rejection, by petition in writing set forth the causes of his grievance and demand another examination. Such petition must be addressed to and served upon the inspector, and shall be duly verified by the rejected applicant, and accompanied by the required fee for a second examination. Within two days after receiving such petition and fee, it is the duty of the inspector to notify the applicant in writing that on a day certain, which shall not be less than five nor more than forty days after the date of the service of the petition upon such inspector, he will be ready to grant him another examination. At least two days before the day set for examination the applicant must designate in writing to such inspector the name of an engineer holding a certificate of equal grade with the one applied for, and such engineer may present himself upon the day and at the hour fixed for the re-examination.

History: En. Sec. 564, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 1653, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 2724, R. C. M. 1921.

2725. Board to re-examine applicants. Upon the same day, or any day prior to the date set for such examination, the inspector and selected engineer must in writing agree upon, and designate and notify a third disinterested engineer holding a license equal in grade to the license applied for by the rejected applicant, to sit with them. On the day and hour set for such examination all three of such board, that is, the inspector and the engineer selected by the applicant, and the engineer agreed upon by them, must proceed to carefully re-examine such applicant, and fully and fairly test his qualifications and capabilities to receive a license such as he has applied for. After such examination is completed, if a majority of such board decide that such applicant is entitled to the license he has applied for, or any license of any inferior grade, the inspector must without delay issue a certificate accordingly, but if a majority of such board reject the applicant, it is a final rejection, and he must not be granted another examination for the space of ninety days after such last rejection, when he may again apply to the inspector or assistant inspector as provided by section 2723 of this code, and no person must be granted more than one re-examination before a board under the provisions of this article. One-half of the fee which may have accompanied any rejected applicant's petition for re-examination must be awarded by the inspector to each of the engineers who sit on any such examining board, and in case the applicant is granted a license, the fee paid when he was first rejected is the fee for the issuing of such license granted by any board. In any case any engineer selected or agreed upon as by this section is provided fails or neglects to appear or serve, another may be selected in his place in the manner herein provided.

2726. Boilers exempted from provisions—duty of owner of traction engine—notice of purchase of boiler. Boilers used for heating purposes in private residences, low pressure cast iron sectional boilers carrying not to exceed fifteen pounds steam pressure, and locomotives used on railroads conducting a general business in hauling passengers and freight do not come under the provisions of this article. But locomotives, commonly known as dinkey-engines, used in operating logging or mining railroads, or any similar work where such locomotives are owned, leased or operated by any individual, company, or corporation and are used in the business of such individual, company, or corporation, and not for general commercial purposes, shall be classed as traction engines and be subject to inspection as are other traction-engines, and the persons operating or firing such dinkey locomotives shall be required to hold traction licenses. Nor are locomotive engineers, save as herein provided, or persons operating any of the engines or boilers herein, exempted from the operation of this article, required to procure license from the inspectors. It shall be the duty of the owner and user of any traction engine or boiler on wheels to notify the inspector of the location of such boiler on or before the first day of June of each year. Any owner or user of such traction engine or boiler on wheels who shall fail to notify the inspector as herein provided shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor. Any person purchasing any steam boiler, whether traction or stationary boiler, shall be entitled to receive from the seller the certificates of inspection issued on such boiler and any person purchasing any steam-boiler, whether traction or stationary, not exempted by the provisions of this section, shall, within ten days after such purchase, report the fact of such purchase to the boiler inspector and notify such inspector where he intends to locate or operate said boiler. Any person failing to comply with the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor. All other steam-boilers and steam-engines, save as herein exempted, come under the provisions of this article and persons operating same are required to hold the proper grade of license.

All moneys collected by virtue of the provisions of this article must be paid into the state treasury once in each month and credited to the industrial accident board administrative fund as other inspection fees of the industrial accident board are now paid and credited.

2728. Operation of boiler or steam-engine without license. It is unlawful for any person in this state to operate a stationary boiler or steam-engine, or any boiler or steam-engine other than railroad locomotives or other engines and boilers exempted by the provisions of section 2726 of this code, without a license granted under the provisions of this charter. The owner, renter, or user of any steam-engine or boiler is equally liable for the violation of this section. But in case of accident, sickness, refusal to work, or any unforeseen prevention of the licensed engineer employed by any owner, renter, or user of a steam-engine or boiler operated in remote districts, which would retard the work to be performed, the owner, renter, or user may, for the space of fifteen days, employ any person of the age of eighteen years whom he may consider competent to run the engine or boiler, although such person so employed may not be the holder of an engineer's license. The person so employing the unlicensed engineer must immediately notify the inspector or assistant inspector. But no owner, renter, or user of steam machinery shall be allowed to so employ unlicensed engineers for more than fifteen days in any one calendar year. And it shall be unlawful, except as stated in this section, for any person, firm, or corporation to employ any person not duly licensed as an engineer, within the meaning of this act, to run or operate any of the boilers or engines subject to the provisions of this act.

If the state fire marshal, a deputy state fire marshal or any officer mentioned in the preceding section, upon an examination or inspection, finds that a building or other structure, which for want of proper repair, by reason of age and dilapidated condition, defective or poorly installed electric wiring or equipment, defective chimneys, defective gas connections, defective heating apparatus, or for any other cause or reason, is especially liable to fire, and which building or other structure is so situated as to endanger other buildings or property in the vicinity, such officer should order such structure to be repaired, torn down or demolished, all materials removed and all dangerous conditions remedied.

Notice

The rule that notice to one to appear and answer in a proceeding taken against him must be reasonable as to time to constitute due process of law, means notice suitable to the particular case; and under that rule, held, that the notice of not less than five nor more than ten days required to be given to defendant in a proceeding for the condemnation of a fire hazard under this chapter where he resides in or near the city in which the objectionable structure is situated, is reasonable, that it is clear that it was the legislative intent that in every case of that nature at least reasonable notice shall be given and that "the intention of the lawmaker constitutes the law." (Construed before amendment Ch. 139, L. 1929). State ex rel. Brooks v. Cook, 84 M 478, 276 P 958.

2753.1. Answer of owner or occupant—affirmation of order—judgment. The owner of any building so condemned, or any occupant or lessee upon whom such notice or order shall be served, within twenty days from the date of such service, as herein provided, may file with the clerk of the district court and serve upon the said state fire marshal, a deputy state fire marshal or any officer mentioned in section 2752, written objections to said order in the form of a verified answer, denying the existence of any of the facts therein cited which he desires to controvert. If no answer is so filed and served the owner and all other persons in interest shall be deemed to be in default and thereupon the court shall affirm the order of condemnation and direct the state fire marshal to proceed with the enforcement thereof; but if an answer be filed and served as herein provided the court shall hear and determine the issues so raised and give judgment thereon as herein provided.

If, upon such trial the order shall be sustained judgment shall be given accordingly and a time shall be fixed within which the building or structure shall be altered, destroyed or repaired, as the case may be, in compliance with such order, but otherwise the court shall annul or set aside the order of condemnation.

2753.3. Proceedings on failure to comply with order. If the owner or other party in interest shall fail to comply with the order of condemnation of a building or structure, as herein provided, within the time fixed by the court, in case a trial is had therein, then the state fire marshal shall proceed to cause such building or structure to be altered, repaired or demolished in accordance with the directions contained in such order; and where a building or structure is demolished in accordance with such order he may sell or dispose of the salvaged materials therefrom at public auction upon five days posted notice. He shall keep an accurate account of the expenses incurred in carrying out the order and shall credit thereon the proceeds of such salvage sale, if any, and shall report his action thereon with a statement of said expenses or the balance thereof, the expense incurred by him and the amount, if any, received from such salvage sale, to the court for approval and allowance; and thereupon the court shall examine, correct if necessary and allow said expense account; and said amount so allowed shall constitute a lien against the real estate on which said building or structure is or was situated, and if the amount thereof is not paid by the owner or other party in interest within six months after the account has been examined and approved by the court as aforesaid the real estate upon which said building or structure is or was situated shall be sold under proper order of court by the sheriff of the county in which the same is situated in the manner provided by law for the sale of real estate upon execution and the proceeds of said sale shall be paid into the state treasury and credited to the fund of the state fire marshal. If the amount received as salvage or on sale shall exceed the expense incurred by the state fire marshal the court shall direct the payment of the surplus to the owner or the payment of the same into court for his use and benefit.

after the date of a written order to remove such slash hazards forwarded by registered mail to the person, firm or corporation required by this act to remove said slash hazards, by the state forester or his authorized representative, the state forester may procure the removal of the slashings, or such part thereof as he shall deem necessary and he shall immediately afterwards notify the person, firm or corporation that had failed to remove the slash hazards of the cost of their removal and demand payment of the cost thereof, which shall not be in excess of fifteen (15) cents per thousand (1000) feet board measure, or equivalent thereof, of any merchantable timber cut plus ten (10) per cent to cover additional costs incurred by the state. If payment of the sum demanded be not made to the state forester within thirty (30) days after the date of such demand, the state forester must transfer all papers relative to the unsatisfied demand for payment to the attorney general of the state, who shall bring legal action on behalf of the state to recover the debt. If the amount expended by the state forester for the removal of the slashings be not paid within the time herein required, a lien as security for the amount of the debt shall attach to the land on which the slashings were created and or the timber or other forest products cut or produced from such land from and after the date that notice of such lien shall be filed by the state forester in the office of the clerk and recorder of each county in which said land is situated.

The lien shall be known and recorded as a "slashings lien."

Upon the filing of such notice in the office of the clerk and recorder of the proper county it shall immediately and thereafter constitute a lien upon said land and or timber or other forest products until it shall have been released or satisfied.

area covered by such building; provided, that any building six or more stories in height shall have at least two such fire escapes to each five thousand square feet of lot area covered by such building; provided, that where the area and height of any building is such that the construction of one fire escape will meet the requirements of this act, and it is elected to construct an interior stairway-type escape, then, in such case, there shall be provided at least one other exit from each floor of said building, which exit shall be placed as remote from the entrance to the fire escape as is consistent with the construction of the building; and provided, further, that all fire escapes possible, consistent with accessibility, from stairways, elevator hatchways, and other openings in the floors, and as far apart as is consistent with the construction and location of the buildings; provided, that it shall be the duty of the owner entitled to the beneficial use, rental or control, or if such owner be a non-resident, the occupant or lessee, of any building two stories in height, already erected or which may hereafter be erected and used in whole or in part as a hotel, school, dormitory, theater or hospital, to cause to be erected an adequate number of stairways, or fire escapes which, in no case, shall be less than one, and one additional stairway or fire escape for each five thousand square feet of lot area covered by such building in excess of ten thousand square feet, which stairways or fire escapes shall be located as remote from each other as possible, and be easy of access from all parts of the building. A basement of any building that extends five feet or more above grade line shall be considered a story within the meaning of this act.

2780. Adequate fire escapes defined. An adequate fire escape, provided for in the preceding section is defined to be a concrete stairway, an iron or steel stairway, an iron or steel straight chute, or which may be constructed of other fireproof material of equal strength, to which there shall be free, unoccupied and unobstructed passage, and free, unoccupied and unobstructed egress and ingress to and from the interior of the building, and may be erected on the exterior or interior of any building requiring fire escapes; provided, however, where outside stairways do not reach the ground, same must have an iron stairway from the lowest balcony to the ground, counter-balanced so that same shall remain in a horizontal position when not in use. This stair must be constructed in the same manner and of the same material as those of the upper balconies. When a suspended weight is used as a counter-balance, proper guides or places must be provided. It is hereby made the duty of the state fire marshal to prepare and promulgate minimum specifications for the construction and erection of each type of fire escape authorized by this act, which specifications shall be based upon a working stress of not less than sixteen thousand pounds to the square inch for steel, twelve thousand pounds to the square inch for wrought iron, and seven hundred pounds to the square inch for concrete; provided, that specifications for interior fire escapes shall require that they be inclosed with non-combustible material, and that all door and window openings be properly protected with self-closing, fire-proof shutters and that all stairway escapes, interior and exterior be continuous and suitably connected with the roof of the building. No fire escape shall be approved as complying with the provisions of this act, the material and erection of which are not at least the equivalent of the minimum specifications promulgated by the state fire marshal as herein provided. It shall also be the duty of the state fire marshal to prepare and promulgate minimum specifications for the construction of stairways required for buildings two stories in height, as set forth in the preceding section, which stairways may be constructed of wood or other material and located on the interior or exterior of the building, but shall not be required to be inclosed.

In case of buildings within the terms of this act, that are managed and controlled by a board of trustees, board of commissioners, or other governing body, notice may be served on the president, secretary, or treasurer of such board of trustees, board of commissioners, or other governing body, to cause the erection of fire escapes on said buildings, as may be required; provided, that the occupant or lessee of any building is required to erect fire escapes under the provisions of this act, shall be entitled to reimburse himself for the cost and expense of erecting said fire escapes out of the rent or lease money of said premises, and such reimbursement shall not be construed to be a breach of any existing lease, contract, or any covenant thereof nor grounds for any action or damages ouster.

In addition to the other remedies and penalties herein provided, upon the failure of any of the parties charged with the duty so to do to erect fire escapes in accordance with this law, the attorney general of the state, or any county attorney of the county where any such building is located, shall bring an action against the owner, lessee, and occupants of any such building for an injunction enjoining the further occupancy of such building until compliance with this act. Such action may be brought in the county where such building is located.

2789. Maximum allowed for storage or keeping in building or magazine. No quantity in excess of three hundred thousand pounds, or in case of blasting caps no number in excess of twenty million caps, shall be had, kept or stored in any factory building or magazine in this state.

History: En. Sec. 4, Ch. 129, L. 1917; re-en. Sec. 2789, R. C. M. 1921.

2790. Reduction of distances. Whenever the building, railroad or highway to be protected is effectually screened from the factory, building or magazine, where explosives are had, kept or stored, either by natural features of the ground or by an efficient artificial barricade of such height that any straight line drawn from the top of any side wall of the factory building or magazine to any part of the building to be protected, will pass through such intervening natural or efficient artificial barricade, and any straight line drawn from the top of any side wall of the factory building or magazine to any point twelve feet above the center of the railroad or highway to be protected will pass through such intervening natural or efficient artificial barricade, the applicable distances given in columns 2, 3 and 4 of the quantity and distance table may be reduced one-half.

History: En. Sec. 5, Ch. 129, L. 1917; re-en. Sec. 2790, R. C. M. 1921.

2791. Containers. Except only at a factory building, and except while being used, no person shall have, keep or store explosives at any place within this state unless such explosives are completely enclosed or encased in tight metallic, wooden or fibre containers, and, except while being transported or used or in the custody of a common carrier awaiting shipment or pending delivery to consignee during the time permitted by federal law, explosives shall be kept and stored in a magazine constructed and operated as provided in the following section, and no person having explosives in his possession or control shall, under any circumstances, permit or allow any grains or particles to be or remain on the outside or about the containers in which such explosives are held. All containers in which explosives are held shall be plainly marked with the name of the explosive contained therein.

2792. Magazines—classes and specifications. Magazines in which explosives may lawfully be kept or stored shall be of two classes, as follows:

(a) Magazines of the first class shall consist of those containing explosives exceeding fifty pounds, and shall be constructed of brick, concrete, iron, or wood, covered with iron, and shall have no openings except for ventilation and entrance. The doors of such magazine must at all times be kept closed and locked, except when necessarily open for the purpose of storing or removing explosives therein or therefrom, by persons lawfully entitled to enter the same. Every such magazine shall have sufficient openings for ventilation thereof, which must be screened in such manner as to prevent the entrance of sparks of fire through the same. Upon each end of such magazine, above the side walls thereof, or upon its barricade, there shall at all times be conspicuously posted a sign with the words "Magazine—Explosives—Dangerous" legibly printed thereon in letters not less than six inches high. No matches or fire of any kind shall at any time be permitted at any such magazine. No package of explosives shall at any time be opened within fifty feet of any magazine, nor shall any explosives be kept therein except in the original containers. Magazines in which more than fifty pounds of explosives are kept and stored must be detached from other structures, and magazines where more than five thousand pounds of explosives are kept and stored must be located at least two hundred feet from any other magazine, and magazines where quantities of explosives over twenty-five thousand pounds are kept and stored must have an increase over two hundred feet of two and two-thirds feet for each one thousand pounds of explosives in excess of twenty-five thousand pounds stored therein; provided, that where magazines are protected one from the other by natural or efficient artificial barricade, the distance above specified may be reduced one-half.

(b) Magazines of the second class shall be made of fire-proof material or wood, covered with sheet iron, and no more than fifty pounds of explosives shall at any time be kept or stored therein, and except when necessarily opened for use by authorized persons, shall at all times be kept securely locked. Upon each magazine there shall at all times be kept conspicuously posted a sign with the words "Magazine—Explosives—Dangerous" legibly printed thereon, and not more than two such magazines shall be had or kept in any building.

2793. Blasting caps, storage of. No blasting caps, or other detonating or fulminating caps, or detonators, shall be kept or stored in any magazines in which other explosives are kept or stored.

History: En. Sec. 8, Ch. 129, L. 1917; re-en. Sec. 2793, R. C. M. 1921.

2794. Certificate of compliance. All persons engaged in keeping or storing explosives on the date when this act takes effect shall within sixty days thereafter, and all persons engaging in keeping or storing explosives after this act takes effect shall, before engaging in the keeping or storing of explosives, make a report in writing, subscribed to by such persons, or his agent, to the state fire marshal stating:

- (a) The erection of buildings nearer said magazine,
- (b) The construction of railroads nearer said magazine, or

(c) The opening for public travel of highways nearer said magazine, then the amounts of explosives which may be lawfully had, kept or stored in said factory or magazine must be reduced to conform to such changed conditions in accordance with the quantity and distance table notwithstanding the certificate of compliance, and the state fire marshal shall modify or cancel such certificate in accordance with the changed conditions. No person, company or corporation shall store, deposit or keep in any mine a greater quantity than three thousand pounds of blasting powder, giant or Hercules powder, or other highly explosive substance, and no explosives named in this section shall be stored, deposited, or kept in any place where its accidental explosion would cut off the escape of miners working in said mine. *

History: En. Sec. 708, Pen. C. 1895; Sec. 8546, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 2807, R. C. M. 1921.

Negligence Per Se

An allegation of negligence in storing dynamite in a mine, in a quantity greater than three thousand pounds, or in storing that or any other explosive in a mine where, should an explosion accidentally take place, escape by those working in the mine would be cut off, charges the violation of a specific duty imposed by this section, and such a violation is negligence per se. Westlake v. Keating Gold Min. Co., 48 M 120, 128, 136 P 38.

Id. Plaintiff who, at the time of the explosion of a quantity of dynamite stored at a place in a mine contrary to the provisions of this section, was not so situated as to have his escape from the mine cut off by it, could not charge as an act of negligence the storage of the powder in a place where, in case of accidental discharge, escape by those working in the mine would be cut off, since the causal connection between his injuries and the stoppage of egress from the mine would be lacking.

2808. Storage of explosives in cities, etc. No person, company, or corporation shall store, deposit, or keep within one mile of the limits of any city, town, or village any powder, gunpowder, giant or Hercules powder, or other highly explosive substance, in greater quantities than one hundred pounds, or more than one thousand giant caps, at any one time, nor shall such explosives be stored, deposited or kept in any quantities whatever within one mile of such city, town, or village, except in a magazine constructed as hereinafter described; provided, that this section shall not be construed to prevent any person, company or corporation, operating a mine within one mile of the limits of such city, town, or village, from storing powder for use in such mine in the manner prescribed in sections 2807 and 2809 of this code; provided also, that this section shall not prevent the keeping of a reasonable amount of gunpowder, not exceeding fifty pounds, in a safe place for sale.

History: En. Sec. 709, Pen. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 8547, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 2808, R. C. M. 1921.

Use of the Term City or Town

An illustration is found in this section and the next succeeding section of the frequent legislative use of the term "city or town" without any definite prefix, but under circumstances which would render it absurd to hold that only incorporated cities and towns are meant. State ex rel. Powers v. Dale, 47 M 227, 230, 131 P 670.

2809. Construction and location of magazines. It shall be unlawful to store, deposit, or keep any powder, gunpowder, giant or Hercules powder, giant caps, or other highly explosive substance, in amounts exceeding one hundred pounds, elsewhere than in storehouses or magazines constructed as follows:

The walls of such storehouses and magazines shall be constructed entirely of stone or brick. There shall be no opening in such magazine except necessary ventilation, and one entrance not exceeding thirty inches in width. There shall be two doors to such entrance, an outer door opening outward and an inner door opening inward. The said doors shall be of plank not less than two inches in thickness, and both doors shall be entirely covered with one-eighth inch iron, and shall be hinged upon two or more iron hooks securely anchored in the walls of such magazine. Both said doors shall be kept securely locked at all times when powder is stored therein, except when it is necessary to store therein or remove therefrom such powder or other explosives. Such storage room or magazine shall be well and securely roofed with fire-proof and bullet-proof material. Such magazine shall not be constructed within less than one-fourth of a mile of any human habitation except by the permission of the county commissioners, nor shall any magazine constructed within one mile of the limits of any city, town, or village be constructed within one hundred feet of any building owned by any other person.

History: En. Sec. 710, Pen. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 8548, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 2809, R. C. M. 1921.

2810. Magazines, etc., to bear warning signs. Every storehouse or magazine constructed as provided in the foregoing section, in which shall be stored, deposited, or kept any powder, gunpowder, giant or Hercules powder, giant caps, or other highly explosive substance, shall at all times have posted above the entrance thereof a sign-board on which shall be painted in conspicuous letters not less than four inches in length the words "explosives—dangerous." Every dray, wagon, freight car, or other vehicle in which shall be transported, transferred, or delivered any of the said explosives, shall bear on each side thereof a similar sign with conspicuous letters not less than two inches in length.

2812. Careless use of explosives a misdemeanor. Every person who shall recklessly or maliciously use, handle, or have in his or her possession any blasting powder, giant or Hercules powder, giant caps, or other highly explosive substance, whereby any human being is intimidated, terrified, or endangered, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

History: En. Sec. 713, Pen. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 8551, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 2812, R. C. M. 1921.

Operation and Effect

Alleged defect in the title to the original act relating to the handling of explosives, of which this section and section 2813 were a part, and which act was carried forward in three subsequent codifications of the laws, held cured by the adoption of such codes by the legislature. Cashin v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 96 M 92, 113, 28 P 2d 862.

Id. Contention that this section, dealing with reckless handling of blasting powder, by the enactment of chapter 129, laws of 1917 (now sections 2736-2804), has been repealed by implication, held not meritorious, that chapter not dealing with the subject matter of this section.

2813. Penalties. Any person, or association of persons, violating any of the provisions of this act, shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding five years, or by fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

The provisions of this act dealing with the importation, sale and disposition of liquor within the state through the instrumentality of a board and otherwise provide the means by which such state control shall be made effective, and nothing in this act shall be construed as forbidding, affecting or regulating any transaction which is not subject to the legislative authority of the state.

objectionable on the ground that it discriminates against either employer or employee.

Absolute Remedy

It is competent for a party to waive his right to have a cause of action determined by a court before it actually arises, especially where the legislature has provided a substitute remedy, as under the compensation act, which renders his right to relief absolute. Shea v. North-Butte Min. Co., 55 M 522, 536, 179 P 499.

Construction of Act

In the construction of the workmen's compensation act, all of its sections, as originally enacted or amended, must be considered together in such manner as to give effect to the act as a whole. State v. Industrial Acc. Board et al., 94 M 386, 387, 23 P 2d 253.

Applicable to County Employees

The workmen's compensation act is applicable to counties and county employees, and as such it is not class legislation, nor is it in violation of the constitutional prohibition against donations to individuals. Lewis and Clark County v. Industrial Accident Board, 52 M 6, 12, 155 P 268.

Theory of Act

The theory of the workmen's compensation act is that loss occasioned by injury to the workman shall not be borne by him alone, but directly by the industry and indirectly by the public, the same as is the deterioration of the buildings, machinery and other appliances necessary to enable the employer to carry on the particular industry. Murray Hospital v. Angrove, 92 M 101, 10 P 2d 577.

Constitutionality

The workmen's compensation act is not repugnant to the state constitution. Shea v. North-Butte Min. Co., 55 M 522, 179 P 499.

Id. The rule, that a statute will not be declared invalid on constitutional grounds unless its invalidity is made to appear beyond a reasonable doubt, applies with peculiar force where, as in the case of the workmen's compensation act, the statute seems to have been found satisfactory after a four-year period of operation, by those directly affected by it, namely, the employer and the employee.

Id. Inasmuch as the workmen's compensation act becomes binding upon the employer and the employee only at their election, neither may thereafter object to its enforcement, and the fact that the modes in which they may indicate their election are different, does not make it

To accomplish the purpose for which the workmen's compensation act was passed, to-wit, that the loss occasioned to an employee by reason of an injury, shall not be borne by him alone but directly by the industry and indirectly by the public, its provisions must be liberally construed, but in so construing it the industrial accident board and the courts may not disregard its plain provisions or award compensation in a case for which no provision is made therein. Kerns v. Anaconda Copper Min. Co., 87 M 546, 549, 289 P 563. See, also, Betor v. National Biscuit Co., 85 M 481, 280 P 641, and Dosen v. East Butte Copper Min. Co., 78 M 579, 254 P 880.

In an action to recover damages for personal injuries sustained by an employee in the course of his employment, or for death resulting from personal injuries so sustained, it shall not be a defense:

(1) That the employee was negligent, unless such negligence was wilful;

(2) That the injury was caused by the negligence of a fellow employee;

(3) That the employee had assumed the risks inherent in, incident to, or arising out of his employment, or arising from the failure of the employer to provide and maintain a reasonably safe place to work, or reasonably safe tools or appliances.

Operation and Effect

Under the provisions of the workmen's compensation act, negligence of the employer is not an essential element of his liability for injuries sustained by the employee arising out of his employment, nor are the defenses of contributory negligence and assumption of risk available to the employer in avoidance of compensation. Nicholson v. Roundup Coal Min. Co. et al., 79 M 358, 376, 257 P 270.

Where a dentist also operated for gain a large apartment house, in the construction of an addition to which plaintiff employee was injured, the former's contention, in an action for damages, that the latter's employment was "casual," i.e., not in the usual course of trade, business or profession of defendant, and that therefore the provision of this section making unavailable certain defenses to an employer, did not apply to him, held not maintainable, since a person may be engaged in more than one business, trade or profession; the building of the addition to the apartment house business, plaintiff's employment was in the usual course of that business. Nelson v. Stukey, 89 M 277, 285, 300 P 287.

2837 Defenses not excluded in personal injury action against employer in non-hazardous occupation and certain other occupations. The provisions of section 2836 shall not apply to actions to recover damages for personal injuries sustained by household and domestic servants or those employed in farming, dairying, agricultural, viticultural, and horticultural, stock or poultry raising, or engaged in the operation and maintenance of steam railroads conducting interstate commerce, or persons whose employment is of a casual nature.

NOTE.—For cases citing workmen's compensation act (secs. 2816-3033, inc., R. C. M. 1921) as an entirety, see references under section 2816.

Casual Employment

An employer who elects not to come under the provisions of the workmen's compensation act, may, under this section, invoke the common-law defenses of contributory negligence, negligence of a fellow-servant and assumption of risk in an action for personal injuries sustained by an employee, if the injuries were sustained while the latter was engaged in an employment of a casual nature, even though such employment was hazardous within the meaning of the act. Miller v. Granite County Power Co. et al., 66 M 368, 372 et seq., 213 P 604.

Employment is not "casual," within the meaning of the workmen's compensation act (sec. 2888 and secs. 2837 and 2863, as amended, Ch. 121, laws of 1925), in the sense that injuries sustained during the course of such employment are not compensable, if the employment was in the usual course of trade or business of the employer. Industrial Acc. Board v. Brown Bros. Lumber Co. 88 M 375, 380, 292 P 902.

Id. An injury is received in the course of employment, under the above rule, when it occurs while the workman is doing the duty which he is employed to perform, though the employment be but temporary or casual.

Id. A truck driver was directed by his employer to deliver a load of cement in a neighboring town; on his return the truck became mired in a mud-hole from which, without help, he was unable to extricate it; he so informed the employer by phone, who advised him that the truck was needed in his business and to procure help. The person procured to assist him was injured in an attempt to extricate the truck. Held, under the above rules, that under the circumstances the helper was employed to work for the truck driver's employer in the course of the latter's business, that the fact that the helper's employment was but temporary or casual was, therefore, of no importance, and hence that the injury sustained by the helper was compensable under the provisions of the workmen's compensation act.

Where a dentist also operated for gain a large apartment house, in the course of an addition to which plaintiff employee was injured, the former's contention, in an action for damages, that the latter's employment was "casual," i.e., not in the usual course of trade, business or profession of defendant, and that therefore the provision of section 2836, R. C. M. 1921 (workmen's compensation act), making unavailable certain defenses to an employer, did not apply to him, (this section), held not maintainable, since a person may be engaged in more than one business, trade or profession; the building of the addition to the apartment house having been in furtherance of defendant's apartment house business, plaintiff's employment was in the usual course of that business. Nelson v. Stukeley, 89 M 277, 285, 300 P 287.

2838. Employers not liable for death or injury other than herein defined—employees who elect not to come under law. Any employer who elects to pay compensation as provided in this act shall not be subject to the provisions of section 2836, nor shall such employer be subject to any other liability whatsoever for the death of or personal injury to any employee except as in this act provided; and, except as specifically provided in this act, all causes of action, actions at law, suits in equity, and proceedings whatever, and all statutory and common-law rights and remedies for and on account of such death of, or personal injury to, any such employee are hereby abolished; provided, that section 2836 shall not apply to actions brought by an employee who has elected not to come under this act, or by his representatives, for damages for personal injuries or death, against an employer who has elected to come under this act.

NOTE.—For cases citing workmen's compensation act (secs. 2816-3033, inc., R. C. M. 1921) as an entirety, see references under section 2816.

Exclusive Remedy

That the compensation act of this state, in so far as it provides compensation to an injured employee for injuries received from an accident growing out of and in the course of his employment is exclusive of all other remedies is unquestionable. Wirta v. North Butte Mining Co. et al., 64 M 279, 287, 210 P 332. See, also, Bruce v. McAdoo, 65 M 275, 287, 211 P 772.

In an action for injuries sustained by a city street cleaner while engaged in the usual course of his employment by being run over by an automobile prior to the enactment of chapter 138, laws of 1933, (sections 2839 and 2839.1 of this code) granting an employee protected by the workmen's compensation act a right of action against a third person through whose negligence he was injured, held, under prior decisions to the same effect, that under the compensation act as in force at the time of the accident (this section and section 2839), the remedy afforded the injured employee by the act was exclusive, plaintiff's common-law right to sue such third person having been abolished. (Mr. Justice Angstman, dissenting). Clark v. Olson, 96 M 417, 426, 31 P 2d 283.

2839. Election of employer and employee to come under act—action against third party causing injury. Where both the employer and employee have elected to come under this act, the provisions of this act shall be exclusive, and such election shall be held to be a surrender by such employer and such employee, as between themselves, of their right to any other method, form or kind of compensation, or determination thereof, or to any other compensation, or kind of determination thereof, or cause of action, action at law, suit in equity, or statutory or common-law right or remedy, or proceeding whatever, for or on account of any personal injury to or death of such employee, except as such rights may be hereinafter specifically granted; and such election shall bind the employee himself, and in case of death shall bind his personal representative, and all persons having any right or claim to compensation for his injury or death, as well as the employer, and those conducting his business during liquidation, bankruptcy or insolvency. Provided, that whenever such employee shall receive an injury while performing the duties of his employment and such injury or injuries, so received by such employee, are caused by the act or omission of some persons or corporations other than his employer, and where the cause of such injury has no direct connection with his regular employment, and does not arise out of or necessarily follow as an incident thereof, then such employee, or in case of his death his heirs or personal representatives, shall, in addition to the right to receive compensation under the workmen's compensation act, have a right to prosecute any cause of action he may have for damages against such persons or corporations, causing such injury. In the event said employee shall prosecute an action for damages for or on account of such injuries so received, he shall not be deprived of his right to receive compensation but such compensation shall be received by him in addition to and independent of his right to bring action for such damages, provided, that in the event said employee, or in case of his death, his personal representative, shall bring such action, then the employer or insurance carrier paying such compensation shall be subrogated to the extent of one-half ($\frac{1}{2}$) of the gross amount received by such employee as compensation under the workmen's compensation law. All expense of prosecuting such action shall be borne by the employee, or if the employee shall fail to bring such action or make settlement of his cause of action within six (6) months from the time such injury is received, the employer or insurance carrier who pays such compensation may thereafter bring such action and thus become entitled to all of the amount received from the prosecution of such action up to the amount paid the employee under the workmen's compensation act, and all over that amount shall be paid to the employee. In the event that the amount of compensation payable under this act shall not have been fully determined at the time such employee shall receive settlement of his action, prosecuted as aforesaid, then the industrial accident board shall determine what proportion of such settlement the insurance carrier would be entitled to receive under its right of subrogation and such finding of the board shall be conclusive. Such employer or insurance carrier shall have a lien on such cause of action for one-half ($\frac{1}{2}$) of the amount paid to such employee as compensation under the workmen's compensation act, which shall be a first lien thereon.

Actions Against Third Parties

Where a coal mining company and its employees had elected to operate under plan 3 of the workmen's compensation act, and plaintiff employee received injuries in the course of his employment at the company's plant because of a defective brake on a car furnished his employer by defendant railroad company, held, prior to amendment of 1933, the remedy afforded him by the provisions of the compensation act was exclusive, depriving him of the right to maintain action for damages against the railroad company for its negligent failure to have the car equipped with a reasonably safe appliance. Black v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 66 M 538, 549, 214 P 82.

Exclusive Remedy

When an employee has elected to become subject to the provisions of the workmen's compensation act, neither he nor his personal representatives in case of the former's death may thereafter prosecute an action for damages against the employer for an injury suffered by him during the course of his employment. Shea v. North Butte Min. Co., 55 M 522, 532, 179 P 499.

The workmen's compensation act, in so far as it provides compensation to an injured employee for injuries received from an accident growing out of and in the course of his employment, is exclusive of all other remedies. Wirta v. North Butte Mining Co. et al., 64 M 279, 285, 210 P 332.

Plaintiff's intestate, an employee at a coal mine tippie, was killed on the premises of his employer, while assisting to move a box-car on a spur-track leading to the tippie for the purpose of loading, the accident having been caused by the sudden stopping of the car due to a brake-shoe becoming loose and falling on the track in front of the moving car. His widow claimed and was paid compensation for his death under the provisions of the workmen's compensation act. His administrator thereupon brought action against the director-general of railroads to recover damages for negligence in furnishing the coal company a defective car. Held, prior to amendment of 1933, that the action did not lie, the provisions of the compensation act with relation to compensation being exclusive of any other remedy, except where the injury was caused by the negligence of a third person away from the plant of the employer, in which case alone the employee or his beneficiaries in case of death are given the right of election whether to take under the act or seek damages from such third person. Bruce v. McAdoo, 65 M 275, 287, 211 P 722.

Silence Presumes Election to be Bound

The silence of an employee, when given an opportunity to elect whether he will be bound or not bound by the provisions of the workmen's compensation law, establishes a presumption that he elects to become subject to it. Shea v. North Butte Min. Co., 55 M 522, 536, 179 P 499.

2840. Compensation plan No. 3 exclusive, etc., when a public corporation is the employer—duty of governing body of corporations. Where a public corporation is the employer, or any contractor engaged in the performance of contract work for such public corporation, the terms, conditions, and provisions of compensation plan No. 3 shall be exclusive, compulsory, and obligatory upon both employer and employee. Any sums necessary to be paid under the provisions of this act by any public corporation shall be considered to be ordinary and necessary expense of such corporation, and the governing body of such public corporation shall make appropriation of and pay such sums, into the accident or administration fund, as the case may be, at the time and in the manner provided for in this act, notwithstanding that such governing body may have failed to anticipate such ordinary and necessary expense in any budget, estimate of expenses, appropriations, ordinances, or otherwise. Whenever any contractor engaged in the performance of contract work for any public corporation is the employer, such public corporation upon final settlement with the contractor shall deduct for the benefit of the industrial accident fund the amount of all premium assessments necessary to be paid by such contract under the provisions of this act. Whenever any public corporation neglects or refuses to file with the industrial accident board monthly payroll report of its employees, the board is hereby authorized and empowered to levy an arbitrary assessment upon such public corporation in an amount of twenty-five dollars for each such assessment, which assessments shall be collected in the manner provided in this act for the collection of assessments.

National Forest Service Not a Public Corporation

The national forest service is not a public corporation within the meaning of the workmen's compensation act and is not covered by this section, providing that where a public corporation is the employer, or any contractor doing contract work for such corporation, the provisions of compensation plan No. 3 shall be exclusive and compulsory upon employer and employee. *Loney v. 2843. Failure to elect—time for which election binds employer. If the employer shall fail to make the election herein provided for, at the time and in the manner herein prescribed, such employer shall be presumed to have elected not to be bound by the provisions of either compensation plan number one, or compensation plan number two, or compensation plan number three for that fiscal year, unless such employer shall elect to become subject to or bound by this act in the manner provided for such election in the first instance. After having once elected to be bound by one or the other of the compensation plans provided in this act, such employer shall be bound by such election, except as hereinafter provided, for said first fiscal year and each succeeding fiscal year, provided however that such employer may at any time upon thirty days written notice to the insurer or the board, as the case may be, elect to be bound by a different compensation plan than the one by which he is then governed. Such election must be made in the manner provided for in reference to the first election of such employer under this act.

2847. Act applies to all inherently hazardous occupations as enumerated. This act is intended to apply to all inherently hazardous works and occupations within this state, and it is the intention to embrace all thereof in the four following sections, and the works and occupations enumerated in said sections are hereby declared to be hazardous, and any employer having any workmen engaged in any of the hazardous works or occupations herein listed shall be considered as an employer engaged in hazardous works and occupations as to all his employees.

If Any Employees of Concern Covered by Act, All Are

Under this section, held, that where an employer has any of his workmen covered by the protection afforded by the workmen's compensation act, all his employees will be held to come within its provisions. Williams v. Brownfield-Canty Co. et al., 95 M 364, 371, 26 P 2d 980.

Nonhazardous Occupations

Held, that the operation of an electric passenger elevator is not a hazardous employment within the provisions of the workmen's compensation act. Page v. New York Realty Co., 59 M 305, 310 et seq., 196 P 871.

Held, that the duties of a member of the board of county commissioners incidental to the inspection and the making of repairs of highways are not of an inherently hazardous character, do not fall within any of those occupations enumerated in the workmen's compensation act and are not of the same general character as those mentioned therein, and that therefore compensation for the death of such an officer in an automobile accident on his return from a road inspection tour was properly disallowed. Moore v. Industrial Accident Fund, 80 M 136, 138, 259 P 825.

Operation Without Limits of the State

The provisions of this section that the workmen's compensation act shall apply "to all inherently hazardous works and occupations within this state," held not necessarily to exclude its operation beyond the limits of the state where the employee meets with an accidental injury, while furthering his employer's business localized in Montana, after passing over the state line. Loney v. Industrial Accident Board, 87 M 191, 197, 286 P 408.

Question of Law

The question as to what persons or accidents come within the provisions of the workmen's compensation act is one of law rather than one of fact. Page v. New York Realty Co., 59 M 305, 310 et seq., 196 P 871.

Independent Contractor

An "independent contractor" generally speaking, is one employed to perform work on condition that he is free from the control of the employer as respects the manner in which the details thereof are to be executed. Nelson v. Stukey, 89 M 277, 292, 300 P 287.

2863. "Employee" and "workman" defined. NOTE.—For cases citing workmen's compensation act (secs. 2816-3033, inc., R. C. M. 1921) as an entirety, see references under section 2816.

Employment How Terminated

Plaintiff having predicated his cause of action upon the relation of master and servant, his contention that his detention in the mine after eight hours had expired constituted false imprisonment as well as a violation of the eight-hour law thus terminating his employment, is without merit, since his employment could not be terminated in any such manner. Wirta v. North Butte Mining Co. et al., 64 M 279, 285, 210 P 332.

Independent Contractor

An "independent contractor" (excluded from the benefits of the workmen's compensation act by this section), generally speaking, is one employed to perform work on condition that he is free from the control of the employer as respects the manner in which the details thereof

Public Officer

Industrial Accident Fund*, 80 M 136, 137, 259 P 825.

When Employment Not "Casual"

Employment is not "casual," within the meaning of the workmen's compensation act, in the sense that injuries sustained during the course of such employment are not compensable, if the employment was in the usual course of trade or business of the employer. Industrial Acc. Board v. Brown Bros. L. Co., 88 M 375, 380, 292 P 902.

History: En. Sec. 6, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2865, R. C. M. 1921; amd. Sec. 4, Ch. 121, L. 1925.

Operation and Effect

A surviving husband incapable of supporting himself, and living with or legally entitled to be supported by the deceased wife at the time of the injury sustained by the latter in an employment covered by the workmen's compensation act and from which injury she died, is a beneficiary under the provisions of the act. Kearney v. Industrial Acc. Board, 90 M 228, 233, 1 P 2d 69.

2866. "Major dependent" defined. "Major dependent" means if there be no beneficiary as defined in the preceding section, the father or mother, or the survivor of them, if actually dependent upon the decedent at the time of his injury, then to the extent of such dependency, not to exceed, however, the maximum compensation provided for in this act.

History: En. Sec. 6, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2866, R. C. M. 1921; amd. Sec. 5, Ch. 121, L. 1925; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 58, L. 1935.

Compensation How Determined

Whether a claimant for compensation is dependent upon the earnings of an injured employee and the extent of the dependency are questions determinable as of the date of the accident to the latter, and the dependent's rights are fixed as of that date under the conditions then shown to exist. Edwards v. Butte & Superior Mining Co., 83 M 122, 125 et seq., 270 P 634.

Id. Held, that the mother of a workman whose injuries received in the course of his employment resulted in his death was wholly dependent upon his earnings at the time of the accident, where it appeared that the monthly living expenses of claimant, a widow with two minor children attending school, were $100, that her only income aside from his earnings consisted of a pension of $16 per month and a sum of money intermittently earned by one of the children in selling papers occasionally, amounting to $7 a week, and that the state of her health made it impossible for her to secure employment; held, further, that she, as a major dependent, was entitled to compensation at the maximum rate.

Dependency Question of Fact

The question of a claimant's dependency upon the earnings of an injured employee is one of fact and where resolved by the industrial accident board in favor of the claimant, its finding, if based on substantial evidence, will not be disturbed on appeal. Edwards v. Butte & Superior Mining Co., 83 M 122, 125 et seq., 270 P 634.

To avail one's self of the benefit of the workmen's compensation act, actual dependency of the claimant upon the decedent is an indispensable requisite; the dependency which must exist does not include the maintenance of others whom the dependent is under no legal obligation to maintain or contributions which merely enable the donee to accumulate money; and one may not be said to be a dependent who has sufficient means at hand for supplying present necessities, judging those according to the class and position in life of the alleged dependent. Betor v. National Biscuit Co., 85 M 481, 485, 280 P 641.

Extent of Compensation

Under the workmen's compensation act, a major dependent (father or mother) is entitled to compensation for injuries to a son resulting in death, only to the extent of his or her actual dependency upon the earnings of decedent. Edwards v. Butte & Superior Mining Co., 83 M 122, 125 et seq., 270 P 634.

Quaere

Does the provision of this section defining "major dependent" as "the father and mother, or the survivor of them, if actually dependent upon the deceased" etc., contemplate that both, and not one only, shall constitute the "major dependent," or may the wife, the husband still living, claim as such dependent? Betor v. National Biscuit Co., 85 M 481, 485, 280 P 641.

2867. "Minor dependent" defined. "Minor dependent" means if there be no beneficiary or major dependent as defined in the preceding sections the brothers and sisters under the age of eighteen years, provided, however, that no invalid brother or invalid sister over the age of eighteen years shall be a "minor dependent" unless actually dependent upon the decedent at the time of his injury. Minor dependents shall be awarded compensations to the extent of such dependency, not to exceed, however, the maximum compensation provided for in this act.

Disease Aggravated or Accelerated by Accident

Held, that the death of a coal miner who was predisposed to heart disease, from shock while coming from work in the mine in which the temperature was very high and passing through an air course into which ice-cold air was being forced by means of a fan, rendering the temperature therein very low, was due to an "industrial" accident arising out of and in the course of his employment. Nicholson v. Roundup Coal Min. Co. et al., 79 M 358, 374, 257 P 270.

Id. Though death or injury resulting from disease and not proximately caused by an accident arising out of and in the course of an employment is not compensable under the workmen's compensation act, the fact that the employee at the time was suffering from disease does not preclude compensation if the disease was aggravated or accelerated by the accidental injury.

A workman is entitled to compensation under the workmen's compensation act when a previously existing latent condition or disease, not disabling, is aggravated or accelerated by some fortuitous event occurring in the course of his employment, which produces disability. Murphy v. Industrial Accident Board, 93 M 1, 10, 16 P 2d 705.

Operation and Effect

Under this section, compensation for injury to the husband may be awarded to a wife or widow only if at the time of the injury she was legally entitled to his support, i.e., if at that time she could have compelled him, under the laws of the state, to support her. Goodwin v. Elm Orlu Min. Co. et al., 83 M 152, 156 et seq., 269 P 403.

A surviving husband incapable of supporting himself, and living with or legally entitled to be supported by the deceased wife at the time of the injury sustained by the latter in an employment covered by the workmen's compensation act and from which injury she died, is a beneficiary under the provisions of this section. *Kearney v. Operation and Effect

Defendant company's business was that of generating and disposing of electric power. A watchman at its plant employed a miner to dig a well to secure water for use at the watchman's dwelling-house, and was killed while doing so. The company had elected not to come under the workmen's compensation act. Held, that the employment of decedent was not in the usual course of business of the company but was casual in its nature. Miller v. Granite County Power Co. et al., 66 M 368, 213 P 604.

Employment is not "casual" within the meaning of the workmen's compensation act (this section and secs. 2837 and 2863, R. C. M. 1921), in the sense that injuries sustained during the course of such employment are not compensable, if the employment was in the usual course of trade or business of the employer. Industrial Acc. Board v. Brown Bros. Lumber Co., 88 M 375, 292 P 902.

Id. An injury is received in the course of employment, under the above rule, when it occurs while the workman is doing the duty which he is employed to perform, though the employment be but temporary or casual.

Id. A truck driver was directed by his employer to deliver a load of cement in a neighboring town; on his return the truck became mired in a mud-hole from which, without help, he was unable to extricate it; he so informed the employer by phone, who advised him that the truck was needed in his business and to procure help. The person procured to assist him was injured in an attempt to extricate the truck. Held, under the above rules, that under the circumstances the helper was employed to work for the truck driver's employer in the course of the latter's business, that the fact that the helper's employment was but temporary or casual was, therefore, of no importance, and hence that the injury sustained by the helper was compensable under the provisions of the workmen's compensation act.

Where a dentist also operated for gain a large apartment house, in the construction of an addition to which plaintiff employee was injured, the former's contention, in an action for damages, that the latter's employment was "casual," i.e., not in the usual course of trade, business or profession of defendant, and that therefore the provision of section 2836, R. C. M. 1921 (workmen's compensation act), making unavailable certain defenses to an employer, did not apply to him (sec. 2837, R. C. M. 1921), held not maintainable, since a person may be engaged in more than one business, trade or profession; the building of the addition to the apartment house having been in furtherance of defendant's apartment house business, plaintiff's employment was in the usual course of that business. Nelson v. Stukey, 89 M 277, 300 P 287.

2889. "Plant of the employer" includes what. "The plant of the employer" shall include the place of business of a third person while the employer has access to or control over such place of business for the purpose of carrying on his usual trade, business, or occupation.

History: En. Sec. 6, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2889, R. C. M. 1921.

NOTE.—For cases citing workmen's compensation act (secs. 2816-3033, inc., R. C. M. 1921) as an entirety, see references under section 2816.

Operation and Effect

Held, that where a railroad company delivered empty cars and transported loaded ones over a spur track constructed to a point near a coal mine, and the portion of the track where the coal company placed loaded cars was indispensable to the conduct of its business, and one of the latter company's employees was injured while attempting to set a defective brake on a loaded car which he was moving while in the course of his employment, the injury occurred at the "plant" of his employer, entitling him to compensation. Black v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 66 M 538, 545, 214 P 82.

2890. "Independent contractor" defined. "An independent contractor" is one who renders service in the course of an occupation, representing the will of his employer only as the result of his work, and not as to the means by which it is accomplished.

History: En. Sec. 6, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2890, R. C. M. 1921.

NOTE.—For cases citing workmen's compensation act (secs. 2816-3033, inc., R. C. M. 1921) as an entirety, see references under section 2816.

Operation and Effect

An "independent contractor" (excluded from the benefits of the workmen's compensation act), generally speaking, is one employed to perform work on condition that he is free from the control of the employer as respects the manner in which the details thereof are to be executed. Nelson v. Stukey, 89 M 277, 300 P 287.

Id. A building construction foreman who was paid a daily wage with a promise of two per cent commission if he would speed operations and the cost of the building would not exceed a stated amount, and who was subject to the will and control of the owner as to the means of accomplishing the work, the latter exercising general supervision and issuing orders to the workmen with power in both, however, to hire and discharge men, held not to have been an independent contractor within the meaning of the workmen's compensation act.

Question of Law

It is only where the evidence is reasonably susceptible of but a single inference that the question whether one is an employee or independent contractor becomes one of law for the court's decision. Nelson v. Stukey, 89 M 277, 300 P 287.

2891. Compensation to children, brothers and sisters and invalid children—when ceases. In computing compensation to children and to brothers and sisters, only those under eighteen years of age, or invalid children over the age of eighteen years, shall be included, and in case of invalid children, only during the period in which they are under that disability, all within the maximum limitations elsewhere in this act provided, after which payment on account of such person or persons shall cease. Compensation to children, or brothers or sisters, except invalids, shall cease when such persons reach the age of eighteen years and in all cases shall cease when such person marries.

2892. When compensation to beneficiaries, major or minor dependents, or widow ceases. If any beneficiaries or major or minor dependents of a deceased employee die, or if the widow or widower remarry, the right of such beneficiary or major or minor dependent or such widow or widower to compensation under this act shall cease.

NOTE.—For cases citing workmen's compensation act (secs. 2816-3033, inc., R. C. M. 1921) as an entirety, see references under section 2816.

Operation and Effect

In determining the amount of a lump sum settlement under section 2926, R. C. M. 1921, the Industrial Accident Board must ascertain the present worth of the claimant's right to compensation, taking into consideration his expectancy of life, and in the case of a widow the added contingency of remarriage, the happening of either contingency destroying the right to continued monthly payments, and therefore the right of converting them into a lump sum. Cogdill v. Aetna Life Ins. Co. et al., 90 M 244, 252, 2 P 2d 292.

The widow of a decedent workman and her two minor children were his beneficiaries under the provisions of the workmen's compensation act. She remarried and thereafter made application for a lump sum settlement of the amounts still remaining due, in the form of a letter, signing it in her name as it was before remarriage. The board granted the request. In an action by the guardian of the minors appointed after the death of the mother to recover the amount involved in the lump sum settlement on the ground that the board acted without authority in making it, held, that the mother at the time she signed the application for conversion, having then remarried, was no longer a beneficiary, rendering the action of the board void in the absence of an application for conversion signed by a beneficiary. Davis v. Industrial Accident Board, 92 M 503, 509, 15 P 2d 919.

2893. Compensation not paid to non-resident major or minor dependents. No compensation under this act, except as otherwise provided by treaty, shall be paid to any major or minor dependents not residing within the United States at the time of the injury to the decedent.

History: En. Sec. 8, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2893, R. C. M. 1921.

2894. Compensation to beneficiary not residing in United States. Except as otherwise provided by treaty, no compensation in excess of fifty per centum (50%) of the compensation provided in this act shall be payable to any beneficiary not residing within the United States at the time of the injury to the decedent; provided, however, that no compensation shall be allowed to any non-resident, alien beneficiary who is a citizen of a government having compensation law which excludes citizens of the United States, either resident or non-resident, from partaking of the benefit of such law in the same degree as herein extended to non-resident beneficiaries.

History: En. Sec. 8, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2894, R. C. M. 1921.

2895. Compromise with non-resident. Nothing in the preceding section shall prevent the compromise of any sums due a beneficiary not residing in the United States at the time of the injury to the decedent for a sum less than fifty per centum (50%) of the compensation provided in this act, upon the approval of the board of such compromise settlement.

History: En. Sec. 8, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2895, R. C. M. 1921.

2896. No compensation to non-resident beneficiaries until when. Before payment of compensation to a beneficiary not residing within the United States, satisfactory proof of such relationship as to constitute a beneficiary under this act shall be furnished by such beneficiary, duly authenticated under seal of an officer of a court of law in the country where such beneficiary resides, at such times and in such manner as may be required by the board. And such proof shall be conclusive as to the identity of such beneficiary, and any other claim of any other person to any such compensation shall be barred from and after the filing of such proof.

History: En. Sec. 8, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2896, R. C. M. 1921.

2897. Payment to non-resident beneficiaries made to whom. Payment of compensation to a beneficiary not residing within the United States may be made to any plenipotentiary, or consul, or consular agent within the United States, representing the country in which such non-resident beneficiary resides, and the written receipt of such plenipotentiary, or consul, or consular agent shall acquit the employer, the insurer, or the board, as the case may be.

History: En. Sec. 9, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2897, R. C. M. 1921.

2898. Compensation paid to parent or guardian. Where payment is due to a child under eighteen years of age or to a person adjudged incompetent, the same shall be made to the parent or to the duly appointed guardian, as the case may be, and the written receipt of such parent or guardian shall acquit the employer, the insurer or board, as the case may be, of further liability. In other cases, payment shall be made to the person entitled thereto or to his duly authorized representative.

History: En. Sec. 9, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2898, R. C. M. 1921; amd. Sec. 8, Ch. 121, L. 1925.

NOTE.—For cases citing workmen's compensation act (secs. 2816-3033, inc., R. C. M. 1921) as an entirety, see references under section 2816.

Operation and Effect

The fact that, where a widow and child are beneficiaries under the workmen's compensation act, the compensation due to both may be paid to the former does not authorize treatment of the entire amount due them as belonging to the mother alone, nor conversion thereof into a lump sum at the latter's request, an undivided portion thereof belonging to, and being dedicated to the support of, the child. Cogdill v. Aetna Life Ins. Co. et al., 90 M 244, 257, 2 P 2d 292.

The widow of a decedent workman and her two minor children were his beneficiaries under the provisions of the workmen's compensation act. She remarried and thereafter made application for a lump sum settlement of the amounts still remaining due, in the form of a letter, signing it in her name as it was before remarriage. The board granted the request. In an action by the guardian of the minors appointed after the death of the mother to recover the amount involved in the lump sum settlement on the ground that the board acted without authority in making it, held, that the mother at the time she signed the application for conversion, having then remarried, was no longer a beneficiary, rendering the action of the board void in the absence of an application for conversion signed by a beneficiary. Davis v. Industrial Accident Board, 92 M 503, 508 et seq., 15 P 2d 919.

Id. Where, after remarriage of their mother, minors are the sole beneficiaries of a decedent workman under the workmen's compensation act, the only person authorized to sign an application for conversion of the monthly payments into a lump sum settlement is their guardian appointed under the general statutes relating to guardians (secs. 5868-5889), impliedly intended by the legislature to apply in such a situation.

2899. Claims must be presented within what time. In case of personal injury or death, all claims shall be forever barred unless presented in writing under oath to the employer, the insurer, or the board, as the case may be, within twelve months from the date of the happening of the accident, either by the claimant or some one legally authorized to act for him in his behalf.

History: En. Sec. 10, Ch. 96, L. 1915; amd. Sec. 3, Ch. 100, L. 1919; re-en. Sec. 2899, R. C. M. 1921; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 34, L. 1935.

Failure of Employer to File Answer Where Claim Not Filed—Assertion That Defense Waived Without Merit

Where claimant for compensation did not file his claim within the time required by this section, defendant employer was not required to file an answer or state a defense orally before the industrial accident board, and therefore claimant's assertion that by such failure the employer waived its right to make defense has no merit. Williams v. Anaconda Copper Min. Co., 96 M 204, 207 et seq., 29 P 2d 649.

Held, that the provision of this section making it incumbent upon a claimant for compensation to present his claim in writing under oath to the employer, insurer or the industrial accident board, within six months after the accident, or it "shall be forever barred," is mandatory, and that the liberality of construction enjoined by the act holding that because of delay in transmission of papers to and from a foreign country, where the widow of decedent employee resided, presentation of the claim after the expiration of the six-months' period was timely. Chmielewska v. Butte & Superior Min. Co., 81 M 36, 41 et seq., 261 P 616.

Compliance with the provisions of this section, requiring an injured workman seeking compensation under the workmen's compensation act to present his claim within six months from the date of the happening of the accident, is indispensable to the existence of the right to maintain proceedings to compel payment. Williams v. Anaconda Copper Min. Co., 96 M 204, 207 et seq., 29 P 2d 649.

When Estopped from Relying on Limitation

Held, in an action by a claimant under the workmen's compensation act against the insurance carrier of his employer to recover compensation for injuries sustained in the course of his employment, in which the defense was that the claim was barred by this section because not filed within the six months' period provided for therein, that under the doctrine of equitable estoppel defendant was barred from asserting the limitation by the course of conduct of a local insurance agency, clothed with ostensible authority by defendant in handling a prior claim by plaintiff, in repeatedly advising him that his claim would be taken care of, by sending claimant to a physician for the purpose of procuring an X-ray, telling him that a representative of the insurer was coming to look into the claim, who however never did come, etc., all of which justified the claimant in believing that a written claim would not be required, he not being advised to the contrary until the time for filing it had expired. Lindblom v. Employers' etc. Assur. Corp., 88 M 488, 492, 295 P 1007.

2900. Exception in case of minors and incompetents as to period of limitation. No limitation of time as provided in the preceding section or in this act shall run as against any injured workman who is mentally incompetent and without a guardian or an injured minor under eighteen years of age who may be without a parent or guardian. A guardian in either case may be appointed by any court of competent jurisdiction, in which event the period of limitations as provided in the preceding section, shall begin to run on the date of appointment of such guardian or when such minor arrives at the age of eighteen years.

NOTE.—For cases citing workmen's compensation act (secs. 2816-3033, inc., R. C. M. 1921) as an entirety, see references under section 2816.

Operation and Effect

Under this section, the limitation of six months from the date of an industrial accident within which an injured workman must file his claim for compensation does not apply where the claimant was mentally incompetent for some time thereafter; under such conditions the statute does not begin to run until he regains his competency. Maki v. Anaconda Copper Min. Co., 87 M 314, 320, 287 P 170.

Id. Held, that the provision of this section, that no limitation of time "as provided in the preceding section (2899, R. C. M. 1921) or in this act" (for presentation in writing of a claim for compensation) shall run against a workman while mentally incompetent, applies as well to the requirement of section 2933, R. C. M. 1921, with reference to service of notice of injuries received upon the employer or insurer.

2900.1. Time for filing claim in case of injured public officers. Any public officer connected with, or engaged in, a hazardous occupation, and who has been injured at any time since August 1, 1932, and any person who has been injured at any time since August 1, 1932, and who, when such injury occurred, was a public officer connected with, or engaged in, a hazardous occupation, shall have not to exceed three years from the date of the happening of the accident resulting in such personal injury to him, to present his verified claim to his employer, the insurer, or the industrial accident board, as the case may be, under the workmen's compensation act. Any claim not presented within such time shall be forever barred.

History: En. Sec. 1, Ch. 101, L. 1935.

2901. Employer liable when lets work to other than independent contractor. Where any employer procures any work to be done, wholly or in part for him, by a contractor other than an independent contractor, and the work so procured to be done is a part or process in the trade or business of such employer, then such employer shall be liable to pay all compensation under this act to the same extent as if the work were done without the intervention of such contractor. And the work so procured to be done shall not be construed to be "casual employment."

History: En. Sec. 11, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2901, R. C. M. 1921.

2902. Presumption when employer lets work by contract. Where any employer procures work to be done as specified in the preceding section, such contractor and his employees shall be presumed to have elected to come under that plan of compensation adopted by the employer, unless they shall have otherwise elected, as provided herein.

History: En. Sec. 11, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2902, R. C. M. 1921.

2903. When contractor performing casual employment becomes the employer. Where any employer procures any work to be done, wholly or in part for him, by a contractor, where the work so procured to be done is casual employment as to such employer, then such contractor shall become the employer for the purposes of this act.

History: En. Sec. 11, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2903, R. C. M. 1921.

2904. Work to be paid for in property other than money—wages. Where any employer procures any work to be done, payment for which is to be made in property other than money or its equivalent, and the value of which property is speculative or intangible, the wages of the employees receiving such compensation shall be determined by the board in accordance with the going wage for the same or similar work in the district or locality where the same is to be performed; provided, however, that where an employer procures any work to be done by any contractor, or through him by a subcontractor, the payment for which is to be made in property other than money or its equivalent, and the value of which property is speculative or intangible, then and in that event, the employer shall not be liable for compensation, but such liability shall fall upon the contractor or subcontractor, as the case may be.

History: En. Sec. 11, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2904, R. C. M. 1921.

2905. Compensation in case of death of employee—determination of beneficiary, etc. If an injured employee dies and the injury was the proximate cause of such death, then the beneficiary, or the major or minor dependents of the deceased, as the case may be, shall receive the same compensation as though the death occurred immediately following the injury, but the period during which the death benefit shall be paid shall be reduced by the period during or for which compensation was paid for the injury.

If the employee shall die from some cause other than the injury, there shall be no liability for compensation after his death.

The question as to who constitutes a beneficiary, or a major or minor dependent, shall be determined as of the date of the happening of the accident to the employee, whether death shall immediately result therefrom or not.

2906. Examination of employee by physician—request or order for—physician may testify. Whenever in case of injury the right to compensation under this act would exist in favor of any employee, he shall, upon the written request of his employer or the insurer, submit from time to time to examination by a physician, who shall be provided and paid for by such employer or insurer, and shall likewise submit to examination from time to time by any physician selected by the board, or any member or examiner, or referee thereof.

The request or order for such examination shall fix a time and place therefor, due regard being had to the convenience of the employee and his physical condition and ability to attend at the time and place fixed. The employee shall be entitled to have a physician, provided and paid for by himself, present at any such examination. So long as the employee, after such written request, shall fail or refuse to submit to such examination, or shall in any way obstruct the same, his right to compensation shall be suspended. Any physician employed by the employer, the insurer, or the board, who shall make or be present at any such examination, may be required to testify as to the results thereof.

The provision of this section requiring a claimant under the workmen's compensation act to submit to examination by a physician from time to time at the request of employer or insurer, though mandatory, at the peril of having his compensation suspended for noncompliance, held not self-executing. Burns v. Aetna Life

Id. Where a woman claimant under the workman's compensation act whose hand had been injured in a laundry had submitted herself to a number of examinations by physicians, but refused to go to a hospital for a period of from four to six days for the purpose of making experiments as to the effect of hot water on the injured hand, the court properly held that the demand was unreasonable.

2907. Contracts or agreements for hospital benefits, conditions governing. Nothing in this act shall be construed as preventing employers and workmen from waiving the provisions of section 2917, and entering into mutual contracts or agreements providing for hospital benefits and accommodations to be furnished to the employee.

Such hospital contract or agreements must provide for medical, hospital and surgical attendance for such employee for sickness contracted during the employment, except venereal diseases and sickness as a result of intoxication, as well as for injuries received arising out of and in the course of the employment.

No assessment of employees for such hospital contracts or benefits shall exceed one dollar ($1.00) per month for each employee, except in cases where it shall appear to the satisfaction of the board, after a hearing had for that purpose, that the actual cost of such service exceeds the said sum of one dollar ($1.00) per month, and any such finding of the board may be modified at any time when justified by a change of conditions, or otherwise, either upon the board's own motion, or the application of any party in interest.

No profit, directly or indirectly, shall be made by any employer as a result of such hospital contract or assessments. It is the purpose and intent of this act to provide that where hospitals are maintained by employers, such hospitals shall be no more than self-supporting from assessments of employees, and that where hospitals are maintained by other than the employer, all sums derived by assessment of employees shall be paid in full to such hospital without deduction by the employer. All contracts provided for herein shall be subject to the provisions of section 2917, in so far as the same relates to cases of inadequate medical and hospital facilities. Whenever, in the opinion of the board, it is necessary for an employee to have specialized medical and hospital service not furnished by the contracting hospital or physician the industrial accident board is authorized to direct that such specialized medical and hospital treatment be given, and to pay for the same with a properly drawn warrant on the industrial accident fund, not exceeding the sum of three hundred dollars ($300.00), where the workman is under plan three and the insurance carrier under plans one and two, provided, however, that this section shall apply only in cases where the average number of employees paying a monthly fee on the hospital and medical contract is less than two hundred and fifty employees.

All contracts mentioned herein shall be filed with the board, which shall have full power to approve or disapprove any such contract, and no payment shall be legally collectable under any such contract or incidental thereto until approval thereof by the board.

NOTE.—For cases citing workmen's compensation act (secs. 2816-3033, inc., R. C. M. 1921) as an entirety, see references under section 2816.

Operation and Effect

A contract entered into between an employer of labor and a hospital in conformity with this section, under which the hospital was bound to provide medical and surgical attendance to the employee for sickness contracted during his employment, except where chargeable to his own vice, as well as for injuries arising out of and in the course of the employment, must be construed in the light of the true intent and purposes of the act, which became a part of it. Murray Hospital v. Angrove, 92 M 101, 110 et seq., 10 P 2d 577.

Id. Contract between an employer, working under plan No. 1 of the workmen's compensation act, for hospitalization of his employees pursuant to this section, held not open to the charge that whereas under companion section 2917, R. C. M. 1921, hospitalization is intended to be free, under the contract the employer was enabled to reap a profit, this section, the provisions of which were substantially followed in the contract, in effect providing that the employer shall not retain, nor have returned to him by the hospital, any part of the money withheld from the wages of the employees for hospital purposes, and where the employer maintains his own hospital, it shall be no more than self-sustaining.

Id. Under the rule that the provisions of the workmen's compensation act must be liberally construed, held that an injury sustained by an employee while on his way to work constitutes "sickness" in its popular significance, i.e., an affection of the body which deprives it temporarily of its power to fulfill its usual functions, within the meaning of this section, authorizing a contract between the employer and a hospital for medical attendance to employees, inter alia, for sickness contracted during their employment.

2908. Hospitals to be under supervision of board. Each and every hospital maintained wholly or in part by payments from workmen, which furnishes treatment and services to employees for sickness and injury, as provided in this act, shall be under the supervision of the board as to the services and treatment rendered such employees, and shall, from time to time, make reports of such services, attendances, treatments, receipts, and disbursements as the board may require.

2909. Liability for treatment or malpractice in case of hospital service.

Neither an employer, an insurer, nor the board, shall be liable in any way for any act in connection with the treatment or care, or malpractice in treatment or care, of any sickness or injury sustained by an employee, or the beneficiary of any hospital contract, where such act or treatment or malpractice in treatment is caused, or alleged to have been caused, by any physician, hospital, or attendant furnished by such employer, insurer, or the board. In any action for malpractice arising out of the operations of this act, the merits of such action shall be investigated by the industrial accident board, and the finding of the board in relation thereto shall be filed with the clerk of the court in which such action is pending.

2910. Questions of law in certain actions. In any action to recover damages for any act connected with the treatment or care, or malpractice in treatment or care, of any sickness or injury sustained by an employee, the question of whether or not due care was given by the defendants shall be a question of law for the court.

2911. Who liable for injuries under the different plans of act, and in what amounts. Every employer who shall become bound by and subject to the provisions of compensation plan number one, and every employer and insurer who shall become bound by and subject to the provisions of compensation plan number two, and the industrial accident fund where the employer of the injured employee has become bound by and subject to the provisions of compensation plan No. 3, shall be liable for the payment of compensation in the manner and to the extent hereinafter provided to an employee who has elected to come under this act, and who shall receive an injury arising out of and in the course of his employment, or, in the case of his death from such injury, to his beneficiaries, if any; or, if none, to his major dependents, if any; or, if none, to his minor dependents, if any.

Injury Arising Out Of and in the Course of Employment

NOTE.—For cases citing workmen's compensation act (secs. 2816-3033, inc., R. C. M. 1921) as an entirety, see references under section 2816.

The phrase "injury arising out of and in the course of his employment," means that to warrant payment of compensation, the facts must disclose that the injury or death, as the case may be, resulted from an industrial accident, arising out of and in the course of the employment. These terms are employed conjunctively, and not disjunctively, and the burden of proof is upon the claimant to establish, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the three of these conditions are met. Wiggins v. Industrial Accident Board, 54 M 335, 342, 170 P 9.

Act of God

The terms of the workmen's compensation act are sufficiently comprehensive to include injury resulting from an act of God; thus, death resulting to an employee of a county, from lightning, while he is engaged at work on a public road, is death resulting from an industrial accident, but there can be no recovery therefor without proof that the injury causing death arose "out of" and "in the course of" the employment. Wiggins v. Industrial Accident Board, 54 M 335, 342, 170 P 9.

Id. An injury to a workman arises "out of" his employment if it is the result of exposure to a hazard peculiar to the employment, or of exposure to more than the normal risk to which the people of the community generally are subject.

The workmen's compensation act, in so far as it provides compensation to an injured employee for injuries received from an accident growing out of and in the course of his employment, is exclusive of all other remedies. Wirta v. North Butte Mining Co. et al., 64 M 279, 285, 210 P 332.

Id. Held, that injuries to a miner caused by smoke and gas incident to a fire in the mine, and sustained by him after he had ceased working and while he was compelled to remain therein until rescued, arose out of and in the course of his employment, and that, having agreed to be bound by the provisions of the workmen's compensation act, he was bound by the provision making the compensation allowed by it exclusive of all other remedies, and was therefore barred from bringing an independent action for damages.

Where an industrial accident occurs while an employee is going to or from work on the premises of his employer and using ways of ingress and egress furnished by the latter, without deviation for purposes of his own, the injury suffered by reason of the accident will be held to arise out of and in the course of his employment. Nicholson v. Round-up Coal Min. Co. et al., 79 M 358, 374, 257 P 270.

Id. Held, that the death of a coal miner who was predisposed to heart disease, from shock while coming from work in the mine in which the temperature was very high and passing through an air course into which ice-cold air was being forced by means of a fan, rendering the temperature therein very low, was due to an "industrial" accident arising out of and in the course of his employment.

If there is a causal connection shown between the injury of an employee claiming compensation under the workmen's compensation act and the business in which he was employed substantially contributing to the injury, liability exists, and the fact that the injury occurred on a public road or on premises adjacent to those of his employer is not alone conclusive against liability, nor is the fact that the danger to which the employee was exposed was one to which the general public was likewise exposed, it being sufficient if the employee was peculiarly subjected to the danger resulting in the accident by reason of his employment. Herberson v. Great Falls Wood & Coal Co., 83 M 527, 534, 273 P 294.

Id. It was the duty of an employee of a coal company each morning before the arrival of others employed at the coal yard to open a gate in the fence surrounding it; for that purpose he had been entrusted with a key. To reach the gate it had been his custom with the knowledge of his employer and without objection on the part of the employer, after alighting from a street-car, to cross premises adjacent to those of the employer. Alighting from the car on the morning of the accident, some 900 feet from the gate, and moving toward it, he was struck by an automobile, his injuries resulting in death the following day. Held, under the last above rule, that there was a causal connection between his injuries and the duties imposed upon him by his employer, and that the claimant, his widow, was entitled to compensation.

To entitle a workman to compensation under this act he must be able to prove by a preponderance of the evidence the following essential elements: (1) the injury must have resulted from an industrial accident (2) arising out of and (3) in the course of his employment; the term arising "out of" presupposing a causal connection between the employment and the injury, and the words "in the course of" referring to the time, place and circumstances under which the accident took place. Landeem v. Toole County Refining Co., 85 M 41, 277 P 615.

The workmen's compensation act is not framed on the theory of life insurance for employees, but on that of compensation for injuries sustained in the course of employment, and the burden rests upon the claimant to establish by a preponderance of the evidence that the injury or death proximately resulted from an industrial accident arising out of and in the course of employment. Kerns v. Anacosta Copper Min. Co., 87 M 546, 289 P 563.

Id. A laborer about an ore sampler had for a number of years been suffering from a large ulcer on the front of one of his legs between the knee and the ankle. Physicians grafted skin on the denuded area of the ulcer successfully and he returned to work, the healed area being bandaged. A week thereafter he died from blood poisoning. His widow, asserting that death was due to an injury sustained by decedent shortly after returning to work in that a rock had struck the healed ulcerous area causing an abrasion through which the infection germs had entered into the blood stream, made claim for compensation under the workmen's compensation act. Both the industrial accident board and the district court on appeal rejected the claim. Held, that the evidence warranted the conclusion that decedent did not sustain an injury to the leg as claimed, but that if he did, such injury was not the proximate cause of his death, but, as found by both the board and district court, the blood poisoning was due to infection from the ulcer prior to the time of the alleged injury.

Where an employee, while on his way to work, was struck by an automobile, his injury did not arise out of and in the course of his employment, and therefore he was neither entitled to compensation nor to hospitalization under the general provisions of the workmen's compensation act. Murray Hospital v. Angrove, 92 M 101, 10 P 2d 577.

When to Determine Who Is a Dependent

In determining whether a claimant was a dependant, the board is not concerned with problematical future conditions, but only with the condition of the claimant at the time of the injury to the decedent. Morgan v. Butte Central Min. etc. Co., 58 M 633, 644, 194 P 496.

mediately after the accident during which the employee is totally incapacitated for work by reason of the illness attending the injury—the healing period; if complete recovery then ensues, compensation ceases; if that total disability proves permanent, payment is governed by section 2913; if only partial, he is also entitled to compensation provided for in such a case within the limitations prescribed. Definition

Disability, within the meaning of the workmen's compensation act, is not total where it appears that the claimant's earning power is not wholly destroyed and he is still capable of performing remunerative employment; in such a case he must make an active effort to procure such work as he can still perform; and one alleging that he is totally incapacitated from obtaining remunerative employment has the burden of proving it by satisfactory evidence. Dosen v. East Butte Copper Min. Co., 78 M 579, 600 et seq., 254 P 880.

Maximum Weekly Compensation Allowable

Under this section, the maximum compensation allowable for permanent total disability is $15; hence an allowance at the rate of $18 per week was error. Moffett v. Bozeman Canning Co., et al., 95 M 347, 361, 26 P 2d 973.

Nature of Disability and Compensation to Which Claimant Entitled

Where a coal miner in the course of his employment lost his left eye, receiving therefor full compensation under the provisions of the workmen's compensation act, and nine years later while working at the same occupation under a different employer again suffered an accident destroying the vision of his right eye, thus rendering him totally blind, he was, under a liberal construction of the act, entitled to compensation as for a total permanent disability for a period of 500 weeks, less payments previously received for 200 weeks, as against the contention that under the act he was only entitled to compensation for the loss of one eye. McDaniel v. Eagle Coal Co. et al., 99 M 309, 312, 43 P 2d 655.

2914. For partial disability—for an injury producing partial disability. Where the injured employee has no wife, child, father, mother, brother, or sister residing within the United States who would be entitled to compensation in case of his death, fifty per centum (50%) of the difference between the wages received at the time of the injury and the wages that such injured employee is able to earn thereafter, subject to a maximum compensation of fifteen dollars (\$15.00) per week; where the injured employee has a wife, or child, or father, or mother, or brother, or sister residing within the United States who would be entitled to compensation in case of his death, fifty-five per centum (55%) of the difference between the wages received at the time of the injury and the wages that such injured employee is able to earn thereafter, subject to a maximum compensation of seventeen dollars (\$17.00) per week; where the injured employee has a wife and one child, or two children, or a father and mother, or two or more brothers and, or sisters residing within the United States who would be entitled to compensation in case of his death, sixty per centum (60%) of the difference between the wages received at the time of the injury and the wages that such injured employee is able to earn thereafter, subject to a maximum compensation of eighteen dollars (\$18.00) per week; where the injured employee has a wife and two children, or three children residing within the United States who would be entitled to compensation in case of his death, sixty-two and one-half per centum (62½%) of the difference between the wages received at the time of the injury and the wages that such injured employee is able to earn thereafter, subject to a maximum compensation of nineteen dollars (\$19.00) per week; where the injured employee has a wife and three children, or four children residing within the United States who would be entitled to compensation in case of his death, sixty-five per centum (65%) of the difference between the wages received at the time of the injury and the wages that such injured employee is able to earn thereafter, subject to a maximum compensation of twenty dollars (\$20.00) per week; where the injured employee has a wife and four or more children, or five or more children residing within the United States who would be entitled to compensation in case of his death, sixty-six and two thirds per centum ($66\frac{2}{3}\%$) of the difference between the wages received at the time of the injury and the wages that such injured employee is able to earn thereafter, subject to a maximum compensation of twenty-one dollars (\$21.00) per week; not exceeding, however, the maximum compensation allowed in cases of total disability, and not exceeding the total compensation provided in this act for the total loss of the member causing such partial disability. Such compensation shall be paid during the period of disability, not exceeding, however, five hundred (500) weeks in cases of permanent partial disability, and fifty (50) weeks in cases of temporary partial disability, subject to change when the number of dependents decreases.

Operation and Effect

Construing this section, prior to enactment of chapter 121, laws of 1925, held, in connection with other sections of the act, that the maximum compensation for a permanent partial disability caused by injury to an arm from the elbow down is $12.50 per week for 180 weeks, the amount to be divided into payments extending over a period not exceeding 150 weeks. Novak v. Industrial Accident Board, 73 M 196, 200 et seq., 235 P 754.

Construing this section, prior to amendment by chapter 177, laws of 1929, the measure of compensation for a workman's permanent partial disability arising from internal injuries is one-half of the difference between the wages he received at the time of the accident and the wages he was able to earn thereafter (from time of hearing) paid in weekly installments not to exceed 150 weeks, nor in excess of one-half the maximum compensation allowed in cases of total disability; hence where the total of one-half the difference between the wages earned before the injury and what claimant could thereafter earn for 150 weeks exceeds the total of $3,750—one-half the maximum compensation allowed for total disability at $15 per week for 500 weeks—allowance of the excess is illegal. Sullivan v. Anselmo Mining Corp., et al., 82 M 543, 549 et seq., 268 P 495.

Partial disability, permanent in character, by reason of loss of a member of the body, is compensable under the schedule provided in section 2920, while such disability caused by an injury other than the loss of a member is covered by this section. Sykes v. Republic Coal Co., 94 M 239, 248, 249, 21 P 2d 732.

2915. Compensation for injury causing death. For beneficiaries residing within the United States. Where the decedent leaves one beneficiary, fifty per centum (50%) of the wages received at the time of the injury, subject to a maximum compensation of fifteen dollars (\$15.00) per week; where decedent leaves two beneficiaries, fifty-five per centum (55%) of the wages received at the time of the injury, subject to a maximum compensation of seventeen dollars (\$17.00) per week; where decedent leaves three beneficiaries, sixty per centum (60%) of the wages received at the time of the injury, subject to a maximum compensation of eighteen dollars (\$18.00) per week; where decedent leaves four beneficiaries, sixty-two and one-half per centum ($62\frac{1}{2}\%$) of the wages received at the time of the injury, subject to a maximum compensation of nineteen dollars (\$19.00) per week; where decedent leaves five beneficiaries, sixty-five per centum (65%) of the wages received at the time of the injury, subject to a maximum compensation of twenty dollars (\$20.00) per week; where decedent leaves six or more beneficiaries, sixty-six and two-thirds per centum ($66\frac{2}{3}\%$) of the wages received at the time of the injury, subject to a maximum compensation of twenty-one dollars (\$21.00) per week, and subject in all such cases to a minimum compensation of eight dollars (\$8.00) per week.

For beneficiaries residing outside of the United States: Where decedent leaves one beneficiary, forty per centum (40%) of the compensation which would be payable to such beneficiary, if residing within the United States; where decedent leaves two beneficiaries, forty-five per centum (45%) of the compensation which would be payable to such beneficiaries, if residing within the United States; where decedent leaves three beneficiaries, forty-seven and one-half per centum ($47\frac{1}{2}\%$) of the compensation which would be payable to such beneficiaries, if residing within the United States; where decedent leaves four or more beneficiaries, fifty per centum (50%) of the compensation which would be payable to such beneficiaries, if residing within the United States.

If the decedent leaves no beneficiaries, then compensation shall be payable as follows: To his major dependents, if any, residing in the United States at the date of the happening of the injury; where decedent leaves one major dependent, fifty per centum (50%) of the wages received at the time of the injury, subject to a maximum compensation of fifteen dollars ($15.00) per week; where decedent leaves two major dependents, fifty-five per centum (55%) of the wages received at the time of the injury, subject to a maximum compensation of seventeen dollars ($17.00) per week.

If the decedent leaves no major dependents, compensation shall be payable to his minor dependents, if any, if residing within the United States at the date of the happening of the injury, as follows: Where decedent leaves one minor dependent, thirty per centum (30%) of the wages received at the time of the injury; where decedent leaves two minor dependents, thirty-five per centum (35%) of the wages received at the time of the injury; where decedent leaves three or more minor dependents, forty per centum (40%) of the wages received at the time of the injury.

All such payments of compensation provided for in this section shall be subject to a maximum compensation of twenty-one dollars ($21.00) per week for a period not exceeding four hundred weeks (400) and subject to change, when the number of beneficiaries or dependents decreases, and provided, further, that compensation payable to major or minor dependents shall not exceed the amount of dependency.

Operation and Effect

Construing prior to amendment by chapter 177, laws of 1929, under the workmen's compensation act as amended by chapter 121, laws of 1925, a major dependent (father or mother) is entitled to compensation for injuries to a son resulting in death, only to the extent of his or her actual dependency upon the earnings of decedent. Edwards v. Butte & Superior Min. Co., 83 M 122, 126, 270 P 634.

Id. Held, that the mother of a workman whose injuries received in the course of his employment resulted in his death was wholly dependent upon his earnings at the time of the accident, where it appeared that the monthly living expenses of claimant, a widow with two minor children attending school, were $100, that her only income aside from his earnings consisted of a pension of $16 per month and a sum of money intermittently earned by one of the children in selling papers occasionally, amounting to $7 a week, and that the state of her health made it impossible for her to secure employment; held, further, that she, as a major dependent, was entitled to compensation at the maximum rate.

Construing prior to amendment by chapter 139, laws of 1931, under sections 2916, and 2917, as amended by chapter 121, laws of 1925, claimant, in addition to compensation, was entitled to reasonable surgical and hospital service, not exceeding $500 and burial expenses not in excess of $150, and denying these both the industrial accident board and the district court on appeal erred. *Herberson v. Operation and Effect

This section, providing that in case of loss of a member of the body of an injured employee, the compensation provided shall be "in lieu of any other compensation," aside from medical and hospital services provided for in section 2917, R. C. M. 1921, held to mean that where amputation of a member becomes necessary the compensation provided therefor by this section is exclusive, no further compensation for disability on that account being allowable, such compensation, however, being, in addition to that theretofore paid him for temporary total disability under section 2912, R. C. M. 1921. Dosen v. East Butte Copper Min. Co., 78 M 579, 603, 254 P 880.

Id. Compensation for permanent partial disability and also for specific loss of the use of a member of the body, under this section, cannot be awarded where both result from the same injury.

Id. An injured employee is in duty bound to make use of every available and reasonable means to make himself whole, so far as possible, and therefore may not, upon being advised by the best medical and surgical talent after many months of treatment that, where the injury was to the lower part of one of his legs, amputation was the only remedy because of an affection of the bone, refuse to submit to the operation and in the meantime draw compensation as for a partial disability; and if he finally submits thereto, payments made to him from the time he first failed to take the surgeon's advice may properly be deducted from the amount found ultimately due him.

Partial disability, permanent in character, by reason of loss of a member of the body, is compensable under the schedule provided in this section, while such disability caused by an injury other than the loss of a member is covered by section 2914, R. C. M. 1921. Sykes v. Republic Coal Co., 94 M 239, 248, 21 P 2d 732.

Under this section, the compensation allowed an injured workman for the loss of a foot is "in lieu of any other compensation provided by this act," and therefore additional compensation during the "healing period" may not be allowed. Rom v. Republic Coal Co., 94 M 250, 22 P 2d 161.

Id. Under this section, an employee who loses a foot at the ankle is entitled to compensation for the period prescribed, without regard to his ability to return to work within that period.

2921. Hernia cases. A workman, in order to be entitled to compensation for hernia, must clearly prove:

- (1) That the hernia is of recent origin;
- (2) That its appearance was accompanied by pain;
- (3) That it was immediately preceded by some accidental strain suffered in the course of the employment; and,
- (4) That it did not exist prior to the date of the alleged injury.

If a workman, after establishing his right to compensation for hernia, as above provided, elects to be operated upon, a special operating fee of not to exceed one hundred dollars ($100.00) shall be paid by the employer, the insurer, or the board, as the case may be. In case such workman elects not to be operated upon, and the hernia becomes strangulated in the future, the results from such strangulation will not be compensated.

2922. Paralysis of limbs considered loss thereof. For the purpose of section 2920, the complete paralysis of an arm, hand, foot, or leg shall be considered the loss of such member. For the purpose of said section, the complete paralysis of both arms, both hands, both feet, or both legs, or any two of them, shall be considered the loss of such members.

The monthly payments provided for in this act may be converted, in whole or in part, into a lump sum payment, which lump sum payment shall not exceed the estimated value of the present worth of the deferred payments capitalized at the rate of five per centum per annum. Such conversion can only be made upon the written application of the injured workman, his beneficiary, or major or minor dependents, as the case may be, and shall rest in the discretion of the board, both as to the amount of such lump sum payment and the advisability of such conversion. NOTE.—For cases citing workmen's compensation act (secs. 2816-3033, inc., R. C. M. 1921) as an entirety, see references under section 2816.

Amount of Lump Sum How Determined

In determining the amount of a lump sum settlement under the above section, the industrial accident board must ascertain the present worth of the claimant's right to compensation, taking into consideration his expectancy of life, and in case of a widow the added contingency of remarriage, the happening of either contingency destroying the right to continued monthly payments, and therefore the right of converting them into a lump sum. Cogdill v. Aetna Life Ins. Co. et al., 90 M 244, 251 et seq., 2 P 2d 292.

Commutation Where Widow and Child Are Beneficiaries

The fact that, where a widow and child are beneficiaries under the workmen's compensation act, the compensation due to both may be paid to the former (sec. 2898, R. C. M. 1921, as amended by chapter 121, laws 1925) does not authorize treatment of the entire amount due them both as belonging to the mother alone, nor conversion thereof into a lump sum at the latter's request, an undivided portion thereof belonging to, and being dedicated to the support of, the child. Cogdill v. Aetna Life Ins. Co. et al., 90 M 244, 251 et seq., 2 P 2d 292.

Id. A widow, aged thirty-six, and child, aged ten years, and seven months, were awarded compensation at the rate of $17 per week for 400 weeks. After receipt of payment for 24 weeks, the widow petitioned for a partial commutation of the award to enable her to secure medical attention for herself. The industrial accident board granted conversion of payment of the last 78 of the remaining 376 weeks' allowance. Held, that it appearing that the board did not take into consideration the contingency of the remarriage of the widow, nor the fact that in case of remarriage the child would be entitled to the $15 weekly received by the mother ($2 being allowed for the child), the board committed error in that for 66 weeks of the 78 embraced in the conversion the child would be deprived thereof on the mother's remarriage.

Deferred Payments

The "deferred payments" which the industrial accident board is authorized by this section to convert into a lump sum payment, mean such payments as would ordinarily become payable in the natural course of events, taking into consideration the expectancy of the beneficiary; commutation may not be made where the weekly compensation sought to be commuted may never exist. Cogdill v. Aetna Life Ins. Co. et al., 90 M 244, 251 et seq., 2 P 2d 292.

Discretion of Board

Under this section, the matter of awarding to an injured employee compensation by way of lump sum settlement is within the discretion of the industrial accident board, and that discretion will not be interfered with on appeal unless there appears an abuse of it. Sullivan v. Anselmo Mining Corp. et al., 82 M 543, 557, 268 P 495.

By this section, the application of a beneficiary under the workmen's compensation act for conversion of monthly compensation payments into a lump sum payment is addressed to the discretion of the industrial accident board, and on appeal the district court in that behalf may act only in review of the action of the board thereon; therefore, where the beneficiary (widow) had asked for conversion but the board had not acted upon the request at the time the insurance carrier appealed from the award made and the district court heard the appeal upon the record certified by the board, which did not disclose that the board had made investigation as to whether or not the widow's request should or should not be granted, the court exceeded its jurisdiction in directing a lump sum payment. Landeen v. Toole County Refining Co., 85 M 41, 46, 277 P 615.

Since the district court has no original jurisdiction under the workmen's compensation act to entertain the question whether an injured employee shall be allowed to have his weekly payments converted into a lump sum settlement, jurisdiction over that matter being lodged in the industrial accident board, the doctrine of res adjudicata may not be invoked by the employer-insurer as to that issue, in defense to a petition for a writ of prohibition to the supreme court to restrain the district court from taking further proceedings under a like writ involving the right of the industrial accident board to hear claimant's application for a lump sum settlement after decision on appeal upholding the award made by the board, where that issue was not, and under the facts could not have been, presented to the district court on appeal. State v. District Court, 88 M 400, 404, 293 P 291.

Intent of Legislature

The intention of the legislature in enacting the workmen's compensation act was that the monthly payment plan provided by section 2925, R. C. M. 1921, should be the rule, and the lump sum settlement authorized by this section, the exception. Davis v. Industrial Accident Board, 92 M 503, 507, 15 P 2d 919.

2927. Assignment or attachment of payments. No payments under this act shall be assignable, subject to attachment or garnishment, or be held liable in any way for debts.

History: En. Sec. 17, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2927, R. C. M. 1921.

2928. Liability in case of bankruptcy or failure is first lien. In case of bankruptcy, insolvency, liquidation, or the failure of an employer or insurer to meet any obligations imposed by this act, every liability which may be due under this act shall constitute a first lien upon any deposit made by such employer or insurer, and if such deposit shall not be sufficient to secure the payment of such liability in the manner and at the times provided for in this act, the deficiency shall be a lien upon all the property of such employer or insurer within this state, and shall be prorated with other lienable claims, and shall have preference over the claim of any creditor or creditors of such employer or insurer except the claims of other lienors.

2929. Waivers invalid. No agreement by an employee to waive any rights under this act for any injury to be received shall be valid.

History: En. Sec. 17, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2929, R. C. M. 1921.

2930. Misrepresenting pay-roll. Any employer who shall misrepresent to the board the amount of a pay-roll upon which the premiums or assessments under compensation plan number three are to be levied, or upon which fees for factory inspection, subsequent inspection, or reinspection, as elsewhere provided in this act, are based, shall be liable to the state in ten times the amount of difference between the amount paid and the amount which should have been paid. Such liability may be recovered in a civil action brought in the name of the state. All sums collected under this section shall be paid into the fund to which the original payments were, or should have been credited.

History: En. Sec. 17, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2930, R. C. M. 1921.

2931. Act not to apply to railroads engaged in interstate commerce. The provisions of this act shall not apply to any railroad engaged in interstate commerce, except that railroad construction work shall be included in and subject to the provisions of this act.

History: En. Sec. 17, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2931, R. C. M. 1921.

2932. Duplicate receipts paid for injuries to be filed—statements of medical expenditures. Every employer coming under the provisions of compensation plan number one, and every insurer coming under the provisions of compensation plan number two, shall, on or before the fifteenth day of each and every month, file with the industrial accident board duplicate receipts for all payments made during the previous month to injured workmen or their beneficiaries or dependents; and statements showing the amounts expended during the previous month for medical, surgical, and hospital services, and for the burial of injured workmen.

History: En. Sec. 17, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2932, R. C. M. 1921.

2933. Notice of claims for injuries other than death. No claims to recover compensation under this act for injuries not resulting in death shall be maintained unless, within thirty days after the occurrence of the accident which is claimed to have caused the injury, notice in writing, stating the name and address of the person injured, the time and place where the accident occurred, and the nature of the injury, and signed by the person injured, or some one in his behalf, shall be served upon the employer or the insurer, except as otherwise provided in section 2900; provided, however, that actual knowledge of such accident and injury on the part of such employer or his managing agent or superintendent in charge of the work upon which the injured employee was engaged at the time of the injury shall be equivalent to such service.

History: En. Sec. 17, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2933, R. C. M. 1921; amd. Sec. 7, Ch. 177, L. 1929.

NOTE.—For cases citing workmen's compensation act (secs. 2816-3033, inc., R. C. M. 1921) as an entirety, see references under section 2816.

Operation and Effect

Held, that the provision of amended section 2900, R. C. M. 1921, that no limitation of time shall run against a workman while mentally incompetent, applies as well to the requirements of this section with reference to service of notice of injuries received upon the employer or insurer. Maki v. Anaconda Copper Min. Co., 87 M 314, 319 et seq., 287 P 170.

Id. This section provides that no claim for compensation under the workmen's compensation act shall be maintained unless within thirty days after the accident notice, signed by the injured workman, shall be served upon the employer or insurer, actual notice of the accident and injury on the part of the employer, his managing agent or superintendent in charge, however, being equivalent to such service. Held that the provision is mandatory, and that where no notice was given and the evidence failed to show that the employer, his managing agent or superintendent in charge had actual knowledge, or that information of the injury possessed by a minor official had been imparted by him to either of the three persons mentioned, the injured workman was barred of recovery.

Where the industrial accident board makes a final order, such as that because of the failure of an injured workman to file written notice of the accident resulting in his injury with his employer (insurer) as required by this section, his claim is denied, as distinguishing from an order interlocutory in character over which it, under section 2952, R. C. M. 1921, has continuing jurisdiction, and the claimant fails to appeal therefrom, the matter becomes res adjudicata and may not thereafter be reopened. State v. Industrial Acc. Board et al., 94 M 386, 387 et seq., 23 P 2d 253.

2934. Employers and insurers required to file reports of accidents.

Every employer of labor and every insurer is hereby required to file with the board, under such rules and regulations as the board may, from time to time make, a full and complete report of every accident to an employee arising out of or in the course of his employment and resulting in loss of life or injury to such person. Such reports shall be furnished to the board in such form and such detail as the board shall from time to time prescribe, and shall make specific answers to all questions required by the board under its rules and regulations, except, in case he is unable to answer any such questions, a good and sufficient reason shall be given for such failure.

2935. Confidential information used, how. No information furnished to the board by an employer or an insurer shall be open to public inspection, or made public except on order of the board, or by the board or a member of the board, in the course of a hearing or proceeding. Any officer or employee of the board who, in violation of the provisions of this section, divulges any information, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

2937. Deduction from wages of any part of premium a misdemeanor—hospital contributions. It shall be unlawful for the employer to deduct or obtain any part of any premium required to be paid by this act from the wages or earnings of his workmen, or any of them, and the making or attempt to make any such deduction shall be a misdemeanor, except that nothing in this section shall be construed as prohibiting contributions by employees to a hospital fund, as elsewhere in this act provided.

2938. Hearings and investigations—technical rules. All hearings and investigations before the board, or any member thereof, shall be governed by this act and by rules of practice and procedure to be adopted by the board, and in the conduct thereof neither the board nor any member thereof shall be bound by the technical rules of evidence. No informality in any proceedings or in the manner of taking testimony shall invalidate any order, decision, award, rule, or regulation made, approved, or confirmed by the board.

Operation and Effect

Under this section, the primary function of the industrial accident board is to ascertain the material facts relating to an accident for which compensation is claimed by the injured workman, disregarding the niceties of ordinary court procedure. Williams v. Anaconda Copper Min. Co., 96 M 204, 210, 29 P 2d 649.

2939. Depositions may be taken. The board, or any member thereof, or any party to the action or proceeding may, in any investigation or hearing before the board, cause the deposition of witnesses residing within or without the state to be taken in the manner prescribed by law for like depositions in civil actions in the district courts of this state, and to that end may compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of books, documents, papers, and accounts.

2940. Powers of board. The board is hereby vested with full power, authority, and jurisdiction to do and perform any and all things, whether herein specifically designated or in addition thereto, which are necessary or convenient in the exercise of any power, authority, or jurisdiction conferred upon it under this act.

History: En. Sec. 18, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2940, R. C. M. 1921.

NOTE.—For cases citing workmen's compensation act (secs. 2816-3033, inc., R. C. M. 1921) as an entirety, see references under section 2816.

Operation and Effect

While the industrial accident board, created as a purely administrative body, exercises many functions that are judicial in character, it is not vested with judicial power, in the sense in which that expression is used in the constitution, wherein it means the power of a court to decide, to pronounce a judgment, and to carry it into effect, between persons and parties who bring a case before it for decision. Shea v. North Butte Min. Co., 55 M 522, 536, 179 P 499.

Held, that this section vesting in the board power to do all things necessary in the exercise of the jurisdiction conferred upon it by the workmen's compensation act, in addition to those therein provided for, is procedural in character and has nothing to do with the substantive matter of award of compensation; therefore where the board in reliance upon the authority supposedly conferred by this section "in order to do equity" computed compensation for a permanent partial disability on a percentage basis instead of following the specific provisions of section 2914, R. C. M. 1921, providing the measure of compensation in such cases, it committed error. Sullivan v. Anselmo Mining Corp. et al., 82 M 543, 549, 268 P 495.

2941. Powers to issue writs and process—fees for serving. The board, and each member thereof shall have power to issue writs of summons, warrants of attachment, warrants of commitment, and all necessary process in proceedings for contempt in like manner and to the same extent as courts of record. The process issued by the board or any member thereof shall extend to all parts of the state, and may be served by any persons authorized to serve process of courts of record, or by any person designated for that purpose by the board, or any member thereof.

The person executing any such process shall receive such compensation as may be allowed by the board, not to exceed the fees now prescribed by law for similar service, and such fees shall be paid in the same manner as provided herein for the fees of witnesses.

2942. Power to administer oaths, certify official acts, issue subpoenas—witness fees and mileage. The board and each member thereof, its secretary and referees, shall have the power to administer oaths, certify to all official acts, and to issue subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses and the production of papers, books, accounts, documents, and testimony in any inquiry, investigation, hearing, or proceeding in any part of the state. Each witness who shall appear by order of the board, or any member thereof shall be entitled to receive, if demanded, for his attendance the same fees and mileage allowed by law to a witness in civil cases in the district court, which amount shall be paid by the party at whose request such witness is subpoenaed, unless otherwise ordered by the board. When any witness, who has not been required to attend at the request of any party, is subpoenaed by the board, his fees and mileage may be paid from the funds appropriated for the use of the board in the same manner as other expenses of the board are paid. Any witness subpoenaed, except one whose fees and mileage may be paid from the funds of the board, may at the time of service demand the fee to which he is entitled for travel to and from the place at which he is required to appear, and one day's attendance. If such witness demands such fees at the time of service and they are not at that time paid or tendered, he shall not be required to attend before the board, or a member thereof or referee, as directed in the subpoena.

thereof, shall have the power to compel the attendance of witnesses, the giving of testimony, and the production of papers, books, accounts, and documents as required by any subpoena issued by the board, or any member thereof. The board, or any member thereof, before whom the testimony is to be given or produced, in case of the refusal of any witness to attend or testify or produce any papers required by such subpoena, may report to the district court in and for the county in which the proceeding is pending, by petition, setting forth that due notice has been given of the time and place fixed for the attendance of said witness, or the production of said papers, and that the witness has been summoned in the manner prescribed in this act, and that the witness has failed and refused to attend, or produce the papers required by the subpoena before the board or any member thereof in the case or proceeding named in the notice and subpoena, or has refused to answer questions propounded to him in the course of such proceedings, and ask an order of said court compelling the witness to attend and testify or produce said papers before the board. The court, upon the petition of the board, or any member of the board, shall enter an order directing the witness to appear before the court at the time and place to be fixed by the court in such order, not more than ten days from the date of the order, and then and there show cause why he had not attended or testified, or produced such papers before the board. A copy of said order shall be served upon said witness. If it shall appear to the court that said subpoena was regularly issued by the board, or a member thereof, and regularly served, the court shall thereupon enter an order that said witness appear at the time and place fixed in said order, and testify or produce the required papers, and upon failure to obey said order, said witness shall be dealt with as for contempt of court. The remedy provided in this section is cumulative, and shall not be construed to impair or interfere with the power of the board, or a member thereof, to enforce the attendance of witnesses and the production of papers, and to punish for contempt, in the same manner and to the same extent as courts of record.

Copies of official documents and orders filed or deposited according to law in the office of the board, certified to by a member of the board, or by the secretary under the official seal of the board, to be true copies of the original, shall be evidence in like manner as the originals. In any court proceeding, wherein the question as to whether or not an employer or employee has complied with and is operating under or bound by the provisions of the workmen's compensation act of the state of Montana, is a question for determination, a certificate by a member of the board, or by the secretary under the official seal of the board, certifying that such employer or employee has or has not complied with, and is or is not operating under, and is or is not bound by the provisions of the workmen's compensation act of the state of Montana, shall be prima facie evidence thereof.

2945. Apportionment of costs and disbursements. The costs and disbursements, incurred in any proceeding or hearing before the board, or a member thereof, may be apportioned between parties on the same or adverse sides, in the discretion of the board. 2946. Books, records, and pay-rolls to be open to inspection. The books, records, and pay-rolls of the employer, pertinent to the administration of this act, shall always be open to inspection by the board or any duly authorized employee thereof, for the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of the pay-roll, the number of men employed, and such other information as may be necessary for the board and its management under this act. Refusal on the part of the employer to submit said books, records, and pay-rolls for such inspection shall subject the offending employer to a penalty of one hundred dollars for each offense, to be collected by civil action in the name of the state, and paid into the industrial administration fund.

The board has quasi-judicial powers, and under this section has jurisdiction finally to determine whether the widow of deceased workman who had not been living with him for four years prior to his death was "legally entitled" to compensation within the meaning of section 2875 R. C. M. providing that only a wife or widow legally entitled to be supported by the deceased falls within the definition of a "beneficiary" under the act, and therefore erred in declining to pass upon the status of claimant in the absence of determination thereof by a court of competent jurisdiction. Goodwin v. Elm Orlu Min. Co. et al., 83 M 152, 158, 269 P 403.

2948. Presumption as to legality of rules, orders, findings, etc., of board. All orders, rules, and regulations, findings, decisions, and awards of the board in conformity with law shall be in force and shall be prima facie lawful; and all such orders, rules, and regulations, findings, decisions, and awards shall be conclusively presumed to be reasonable and lawful, until and unless they are modified or set aside by the board or upon review.

2950. Power of board to award compensation and time and manner of payment. The board in its award may fix and determine the total amount of compensation to be paid, and specify the manner of payment, or may fix and determine the weekly disability indemnity to be paid, and order payment thereof during the continuance of such disability; providing, however, that the payment of such award and indemnity shall be in the same manner as that of undisputed awards and indemnities coming within the particular plan provided for in this act to which said award and indemnity belong.

2951. When a nominal disability indemnity may be awarded. If in any proceeding it is proved that an accident has happened for which the employer would be liable to pay compensation if disability has resulted therefrom, but it is not proved that an incapacity has resulted, the board may, instead of dismissing the application, award a nominal disability indemnity if it appears that disability is likely to result at a future time.

2952. Provided, that the board shall not have power to rescind, alter, or amend any final settlement or award of compensation more than two years after the same has been made, and provided further that the board shall not have the power to rescind, alter or amend any order approving a full and final compromise settlement of compensation. Any order, decision, or award rescinding, altering, or amending a prior order, decision, or award, shall have the same effect as original orders or awards.

Operation and Effect

Under this section and section 2956 R. C. M. 1921, the board has continuing jurisdiction over its orders and awards, and may amend and alter them to meet changed conditions of the injured party, even to the extent of entertaining a petition asking for a lump sum settlement after decision by the district and supreme courts upholding the award of the board. *State v. Where the industrial accident board makes a final order, such as that because of the failure of the injured workman to file written notice of the accident resulting in his injury with his employer (insurer) as required by section 2933, his claim is denied, as distinguished from an order interlocutory in character over which it, under this section, has continuing jurisdiction, and the claimant fails to appeal therefrom, the matter becomes res adjudicata and may not thereafter be reopened. *State v. 2953. Record of proceedings to be kept and testimony to be taken down—attorneys. A full and complete record shall be kept of all proceedings and hearings had before the board, or any member thereof, of any formal hearing had, and all testimony produced before the board or any member thereof shall be taken down by a stenographic reporter appointed by the board, and the parties shall be entitled to be heard in person or by attorney, and the board shall have the power to fix and determine the amount of attorney's fees to be allowed in all proceedings where an attorney appears for either party. In cases of an action to review any order or decision of the board, a transcript of such testimony, together with all exhibits, and of the pleadings, records, and proceedings in the cause shall constitute the record of the board.

Provision Giving Industrial Accident Board Power to Fix Attorney's Fees Held Inoperative

This section as amended by section 4, chapter 139, laws 1931, provides that the industrial accident board "shall have power to fix and determine the amount of attorneys' fees to be allowed" in proceedings had before it under the workmen's compensation act "where an attorney appears for either party." It fails to state in whose favor and against whom or what fund the fees should be allowed. A claimant for compensation entered into a contract with an attorney under which the latter agreed to investigate the case and represent claimant in the district and supreme courts for a fee of $500, his associate counsel to act in the proceeding before the board. That claim was allowed and the board in mailing a check for $1,965 to associate counsel allowed his $200 as his fee. Counsel first mentioned retained $500 as his fee, without objection by claimant. In a proceeding brought by him in the supreme court asking that the attorneys be disciplined for violation of the above amendment, held, that in the absence of a provision in the amendatory act declaring that a contract between an attorney and a compensation claimant fixing the fee to be paid shall be void, or a provision making such a contract subject to the approval of the board or the district court, the parties under sections 8993 and 9786 were free to contract as to fees: held further, that by failure to provide in the amendment as to what fund the fee shall be paid from, or in whose favor or against whom it shall be allowed, the amendment is rendered so vague and uncertain as to be void, and that therefore the attorneys may not be held subject to discipline for an alleged violation of the statute. 2954. Collateral attack not permitted. No orders or decisions of the board shall be subject to collateral attack, and may be reviewed or modified only in the manner provided therein.

2955. Application for rehearing. At any time within twenty days after the service of any order or decision of the board, any party or parties aggrieved thereby may apply for a rehearing upon one or more of the following grounds, and upon no other grounds:

- (1) That the board acted without or in excess of its powers;
- (2) That the order, decision, or award was procured by fraud;
- (3) That the evidence does not justify the findings;
- (4) That the applicant has discovered new evidence, material to him, and which he could not, with reasonable diligence, have discovered and produced at the hearing;
- (5) That the findings do not support the order, decision, or award;
- (6) That the order, decision, or award is unreasonable.

Nothing contained in the preceding section shall, however, be construed to limit the right of the board, at any time after the date of its award, and from time to time after due notice and upon the application of any party interested, to review, diminish, or increase, within the limits provided by this act, any compensation awarded upon the grounds that the disability of the person in whose favor such award was made has either increased or diminished or terminated.

The board shall have full power and authority to make and prescribe rules to govern the procedure upon rehearing, and any matter before it and any order made after such rehearing abrogating or changing the original order shall have the same force and effect as an original order, and shall not affect any right, or enforcement of any right, arising from or by virtue of the original order.

thirty days (30) after the rendition of the decision on the rehearing, and within twenty days (20) after notice thereof, any party affected thereby may appeal to the district court of the judicial district of the state of Montana, in and for the county in said state wherein the accident or injury occurred or the employer may have his place of residence, or if such employer be a corporation, may have its principal office or place of business, and said appeal shall be for the purpose of having the lawfulness of the original order, decision, or award, or order, decision or award on rehearing inquired into and determined.

Jurisdiction of District Court

By section 2926, R. C. M. 1921, the application of a beneficiary under the workmen's compensation act for conversion of monthly compensation payments into a lump sum payment is addressed to the discretion of the industrial accident board, and on appeal the district court in that behalf may act only in review of the action of the board thereon; therefore, where the beneficiary (widow) had asked for conversion but the board had not acted upon the request at the time the insurance carrier appealed from the award made and the district court heard the appeal upon the record certified by the board, which did not disclose that the board had made investigation as to whether or not the widow's request should or should not be granted, the court exceeded its jurisdiction in directing a lump sum payment. Landeen v. Toole County Refining Co., 85 M 41, 48, 277 P 615.

Where the district court exceeds its jurisdiction in entertaining an application for writ of prohibition, and application is made to the supreme court for like relief by the aggrieved party, there is no reason why the latter tribunal should permit the former to proceed in an attempt to exercise jurisdiction which it does not possess and await its action before exercising its discretion in entertaining relator's application. State v. District Court, 88 M 401, 447.

Trial on Appeal

The trial on appeal to the district court from an order or reward made by the industrial accident board provided for by this section upon the certified record of the board, unless the court in the exercise of its discretion shall permit additional evidence to be introduced, is de novo only to the extent it permits additional evidence to be introduced; if the cause is heard on the record of the board the re-examination is in the nature of a review; but in either event the court must render its own judgment irrespective of what has gone before. Dosen v. East Butte Copper Min. Co., 78 M 579, 596, 254 P 880.

When Board May be Reversed

On an appeal to the district court from an award made by the industrial accident board, the court should not reverse the findings of the board unless the evidence clearly preponderates against them, the board having been in a better position to determine of the credibility of the witnesses and the weight to be given to their testimony than can the court from an inspection of the record. Morgan v. Butte Central Min. etc. Co., 58 M 633, 640, 194 P 496.

2960. How appeal taken—notice—record—trial. Said appeal shall be taken by serving a written notice of said appeal upon the chairman of such industrial accident commission, or upon any other member thereof, which said service shall be made by the delivery of a copy of such notice to such chairman or member, and filing the original with the clerk of the court to which said appeal is taken. A copy of such notice must also be served upon the adversary party, if there be any, by mailing the same to said adversary party to such address of such party as said party shall have left with the board. If such party shall have left no address with the board, then no service upon such party shall be required. The order of filing and service of said notice is immaterial. Immediately upon service upon said board of said notice, the said board shall certify to said district court the entire record and proceedings, including all testimony and evidence taken by said board, with the clerk of said district court. Immediately upon the return of such certified record, the district court shall fix a day for the hearing of said cause, and shall cause notice to be served upon the board and upon the appellant, and also upon the adversary party, if there be any. The court may, upon the hearing, for good cause shown, permit additional evidence to be introduced, but, in the absence of such permission from the court, the cause shall be heard on the record of the board, as certified to the court by it. The trial of the matter shall be de novo, and upon such trial the court shall determine whether or not the board regularly pursued its authority, and whether or not the findings of the board ought to be sustained, and whether or not such findings are reasonable under all the circumstances of the case.

Record of Board

Claimant for compensation under the workmen's compensation act at whose instance on appeal to the district court the record and proceedings of the industrial accident board were introduced in evidence will not be heard to complain of the sufficiency of the certificate attached thereto, on appeal by his employer to the supreme court. Dosen v. East Butte Copper Min. Co., 78 M 579, 596, 254 P 880.

Trial

The power given by this section is that of review rather than that of retrial. Willis v. Pilot Butte Min. Co., 58 M 26, 34, 190 P 124.

The trial on appeal to the district court from an order or award made by the industrial accident board provided for by section 2959, R. C. M. 1921, upon the certified record of the board, unless the court in the exercise of its discretion shall permit additional evidence to be introduced, is de novo only to the extent it permits additional evidence to be introduced; if the cause is heard on the record of the board the re-examination is in the nature of a review; but in either event the court must render its own judgment irrespective of what has gone before. Dosen v. East Butte Copper Mining Co., 78 M 579, 596, 254 P 880.

Claimant under the workmen's compensation act cannot, under section 9369, R. C. M. 1921, predicate error upon the court's failure to make findings on the trial of his cause on appeal from an order of the industrial accident board, in the absence of a request for such findings. Nicholson v. Roundup Coal Min. Co. et al., 79 M 358, 368 et seq., 257 P 270.

Id. The rule that the findings of the industrial accident board cannot be interfered with by the trial court on appeal if there is any evidence to support them does not apply to decisions on questions of law, and has application only where the appeal is determined upon the certified record made by the board; hence is inapplicable where the case is tried de novo and additional testimony is received showing conditions differing from those presented to the board.

Under the provisions of the workmen's compensation act the district court, on appeal from an order or award of the industrial accident board, must hear it on the certified record of the board, but may, in its discretion, permit new evidence to be introduced; if it does, the trial proceeds upon a consideration of the evidence heard by the board and that which the court permits in addition thereto, and the court must thereupon render its own judgment. Mulholland v. Butte & Superior Min. Co., 87 M 561, 567, 289 P 574.

Where, on appeal by a claimant under the workmen's compensation act, to the district court from an order of the industrial accident board, the matter is submitted on the record made before the board, the hearing is in the nature of a review, but where additional evidence is heard, the trial as to it is de novo. Murphy v. Industrial Accident Board, 93 M 1, 6, 16 P 2d 705.

Where the purpose of an appeal by a claimant under the workmen's compensation act was to test the correctness of an order of the industrial accident board limiting the period of payment of the award allowed, the court did not err in permitting additional oral testimony of claimant's condition at the time of expiration of the period fixed by the board. Sykes v. Republic Coal Co., 94 M 239, 243, 21 P 2d 732.

Trial de Novo—Meaning of Term

This section, in declaring that trial of a workman's compensation case in the district court on appeal from a decision of the industrial accident board shall be "de novo," does not mean a full retrial, but does mean that that court in deciding the case shall consider the evidence heard by the board and such additional evidence as it may admit, in rendering its judgment. Woin v. Anaconda Copper Min. Co., 99 M 163, 174, 43 P 2d 663.

Id. The mere fact that additional evidence admitted by the district court on appeal of a workman in a compensation case was to some extent repetitious in character, held not to have resulted in a full trial de novo, under the last above rule.

What Constitutes "Good Cause"

Under the rule, prescribed by the workmen's compensation act, that all its parts shall be given a liberal construction, held that "good cause" for the admission of additional testimony on appeal from an award made by the industrial accident board is shown, in the absence of specific provision as to the manner in which it must be shown, by a presentation of the reasons why it should be permitted, made in the presence of opposing counsel. Sykes v. Republic Coal Co., 94 M 239, 243, 21 P 2d 732.

Under the provision of this section that on appeal to the district court from a ruling of the industrial accident board in a case arising under the workmen's compensation act, additional evidence may be admitted "for good cause shown," the party seeking to introduce such evidence is not required to present a verified motion supported by affidavits; an informal presentation of persuasive reasons for the request, made in the presence of opposing counsel, being sufficient to show "good cause." Woin v. Anaconda Copper Min. Co., 99 M 163, 174, 43 P 2d 663.

2961. Appearances—setting aside conclusions, orders, etc., of board—judgment and findings. The board and each party to the action or proceeding before the board shall have the right to appear in the proceeding, and it shall be the duty of the board to so appear. If the court shall find from such trial, as aforesaid, that the findings and conclusions of the board are not in accordance with either the facts or the law, or that they ought to be other or different than those made by the board, or that any finding and conclusion, or any order, rule, or requirement of the board is unreasonable, the court shall set aside such finding, conclusion, order, judgment, decree, rule, or requirement of said board, or shall modify or change the same as law and justice shall require, and the court shall also make and enter any finding, conclusion, order or judgment that shall be required, or shall be legal and proper in the premises.

2962. Appeals to supreme court. Either the board, or the appellant, or any adversary party, if there be one, may appeal to the supreme court of the state of Montana from any final order, judgment, or decree of the said district court, which said appeal shall be taken in like manner as appeals are now taken in other civil actions to the said supreme court, and upon such appeal the said supreme court shall make such orders in reference to a stay of proceedings as it finds to be just in the premises, and may stay the operation of any order, judgment, or decree of said district court, without requiring any bond or undertaking from the applicant for such stay. When any such cause is so appealed it shall have precedence upon the calendar of the said supreme court, and shall be tried anew by said supreme court upon the record made in said district court and before said board, and judgment and decree shall be entered therein as expeditiously as possible.

Circumstances Under Which Supreme Court May Not on Own Motion Remand Cause to Industrial Accident Board for Taking of Further Testimony

Where claimant under the workmen's compensation act was represented by experienced counsel both at the hearing before the industrial accident board and on his appeal to the district court, which permitted him to introduce additional testimony, thereby strengthening the adverse decision of the board, that court, however, deciding in his favor on a finding not supported by the evidence, the supreme court may not of its own motion, under the provisions of the act, in reversing the judgment direct the district court to remand the cause to the board for the taking of further testimony. (Justices Ford and Angstrom dissenting.) Radonich v. Anaconda Copper Mining Co., 91 M 437, 8 P 2d 658.

Constitutionality

This section is invalid to the extent that it attempts to confer authority on the supreme court to try the cause "anew" as though the matter was originally before the court. Willis v. Pilot Butte Min. Co., 58 M 26, 34, 190 P 124.

Extent of Review

Where an appeal from an award of the industrial accident board is heard by the district court upon the record certified to it by the board, the supreme court in passing upon the sufficiency of the evidence will go no further than to ascertain whether there is any evidence to sustain the findings of the board and the trial court, and unless it clearly preponderates against the findings, it is its duty to sustain them. Landeen v. Toole County Refining Co., 85 M 41, 277 P 615.

Jurisdiction

Where the district court exceeds its jurisdiction in entertaining an application for writ of prohibition, and application is made to the supreme court for like relief by the aggrieved party, there is no reason why the latter tribunal should permit the former to proceed in an attempt to exercise jurisdiction which it does not possess and await its action before exercising its discretion in entertaining relator's application. State v. District Court, 88 M 400, 293 P 291.

Where on appeal from an order of the industrial accident board denying compensation claimed due by the applicant under the provisions of the workmen's compensation act, the district court on the same record evidence, affidavits and written report of physicians made to the board, reversed the board's order and allowed compensation, the supreme court on appeal to it by the board, is in as favorable a position as either the board or the district court to pass on the merits of the controversy on the same record presented to it. Kearney v. Industrial Acc. Board, 90 M 228, 1 P 2d 69.

The final determination by the district court of the rights of the parties to a controversy arising between employer and employee with relation to an award made under the workmen's compensation act is a judgment; hence where the court rendered its "judgment and order" awarding to the compensation claimant a sum of money covering the total of fifty-six weeks' compensation, that period having then expired, less payments already made, the result was a judgment, which was fully satisfied when the attorney of claimant accepted the amount of the award tendered by the clerk of court, acting as the agent of the employer, prior to appeal to supreme court, and therefore the attempted appeal will be dismissed. Paulich v. Republic Coal Co., 97 M 224, 227, 33 P 2d 514.

Power of Supreme Court on Appeal

Quaere: May the supreme court in a workman's compensation case, where it is confronted on appeal by an extraordinary condition, factual or legal, in order to prevent a miscarriage of justice, remand the cause with direction that the industrial accident board grant the claimant a further hearing? Radonich v. Anaconda Copper Min. Co., 91 M 437, 8 P 2d 658.

Time for Taking Appeal

The industrial accident board is not an "inferior court" within the meaning of section 9732, R. C. M. 1921, providing that an appeal from a judgment rendered on an appeal from an inferior court must be taken within ninety days after the entry of such judgment; hence failure of appellant to serve and file its notice of appeal within ninety days from the entry of the judgment of the district court on appeal from an order of the board does not warrant dismissal of the appeal to the supreme court. Dosen v. East Butte Copper Min. Co., 78 M 579, 254 P 880.

When Not Bound by Findings of Trial Court

The supreme court is not bound by the findings of the trial court in an action by a claimant under the workmen's compensation act where the cause was tried on the record made by the industrial accident board without any additional evidence being introduced. Goodwin v. Elm Orlu Min. Co. et al., 83 M 152, 269 P 403.

Operation and Effect

The workmen's compensation act must be construed as a whole to the end that each of its provisions may be given effect and its purposes accomplished, and while this section directs a liberal construction of its provisions, it is not meant thereby that either the industrial accident board or the courts may disregard its clear provisions. Davis v. Industrial Accident Board, 92 M 503, 511, 15 P 2d 919.

Where a coal miner in the course of his employment lost his left eye, receiving therefore full compensation under the provisions of the workmen's compensation act, and nine years later while working at the same occupation under a different employer again suffered an accident destroying the vision of his right eye, thus rendering him totally blind, he was, under a liberal construction of the act, entitled to compensation as for a total permanent disability for a period of 500 weeks, less payments previously received for 200 weeks, as against the contention that under the act he was only entitled to compensation for the loss of one eye. McDaniel v. Eagle Coal Co. et al., 99 M 309, 312, 43 P 2d 655.

COMPENSATION PLAN NUMBER ONE

Any employer in the industries, trades, works, occupations, or employments in this act specified as hazardous, by filing his election to become, subject to and be bound by compensation plan No. 1, upon furnishing satisfactory proof to the board of his solvency and financial ability to pay the compensation and benefits in this act provided for, and to discharge all liabilities which are reasonably likely to be incurred by him during the fiscal year for which such election is effective, may, by order of the said board, make such payments directly to his employees as they may become entitled to receive the same under the terms and conditions of this act.

History: En. Sec. 30, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2970, R. C. M. 1921.

2972. Employer permitted to carry on business and settle directly with employee—renewal of application. If such employer, making such election, shall be found by the board to have the requisite financial ability to pay the compensation and benefits in this act provided for, then the board shall grant to such employer permission to carry on his said business for the fiscal year within which such election is made, and such proof filed, or the remaining portion of such fiscal year, and to make such payments directly to his employees as they may become entitled to receive the same. Every employer, so long as he continues in his said employment, and so long as he continues to be bound by such compensation plan No. 1, shall, at least thirty days before the expiration of each fiscal year, renew his application to be permitted to continue to make such payments as aforesaid directly to his employees for the next ensuing fiscal year, and under like circumstances as those mentioned for the granting of such permission upon such first application, the board may renew the same from year to year.

2973. Additional proof of solvency—revocation of order. The board may at any time require from any employer acting under compensation plan No. 1 additional proof of solvency and financial ability to pay the compensation provided by this act, and may at any time, upon notice to such employer of not less than ten or more than twenty days, after and upon a full hearing, revoke any order or approval theretofore made.

2974. Requiring security of employer. If said industrial accident board shall find that such employer has not financial responsibility for the payment of the compensation herein provided to be paid, which might reasonably be expected to be chargeable to such employer during the fiscal year to be covered by such permission, said industrial accident board must so find, and must require such employer, before granting to him such permission, or before continuing or engaging in such employment, subject to the provisions of compensation plan No. 1, to give security for such payment, which security must be in such an amount as said board shall find is reasonable and necessary to meet all liabilities of such employer, which may reasonably and ordinarily be expected to accrue during such fiscal year. Said security must be deposited with the treasurer of the board, and may be a certain estimated per centum of said employer's last preceding annual pay-roll, or a certain per centum of the established amount of his annual pay-roll for said fiscal year or said security may be in the form of a bond or undertaking executed to said industrial accident board in the amount to be fixed by it with two or more sufficient sureties, which undertaking must be conditioned that such employer will well and truly pay, or cause to be paid, all such sums and amounts for which the employer shall become liable under the terms of this act to his employees during said fiscal year; or such security may consist of any state, county, municipal, or school district bonds, or the bonds or evidence of indebtedness of any individuals or corporations which the board may deem solvent; and every such deposit and the character and amount of such securities shall at all times be subject to approval, revision, or change by the board as in its judgment may be required, and upon proof of the final payment of the liability for which such securities are given, such securities, or any remaining part thereof, shall be returned to the depositor. The treasurer of the board and his bondsmen shall be liable for the value and safe-keeping of all such deposits or securities, and shall, at any time, upon demand of the bondsmen or the depositor or the board, account for the same, and the earnings thereof.

2975. Failure of employer to pay compensation—duty of board.

Upon the failure of said employer to pay any compensation provided for in this act, upon the terms and in the amounts and at the times when the same shall become due and payable, it shall be the duty of such state accident board, upon demand of the person to whom compensation is due, to apply any deposits made with the board to the payment of the same, and it shall be its duty to take the proper steps to convert any securities on deposit with the said board, or sufficient thereof, into cash and to pay the same upon the liabilities of said employer, accruing under the terms of this act, and it shall be its duty, in so far as the same shall be necessary, to collect and enforce the collection of the liability of all sureties upon any bonds which may be given by the said employer to insure the payment of his said liability. And to these ends, and for these purposes, the board shall be deemed to be the owner of said deposit and security and the obligee in said bond in trust for the said purposes, and may proceed in its own name to recover upon such bonds, or foreclose and liquidate said securities.

2976. When employer to make deposit or security to guarantee payment of compensation. Within thirty days after the happening of an accident where death or the nature of the injury renders the amount of future payments certain, or reasonably certain, the employer shall make a deposit or give security as herein defined with the treasurer of the board for the protection and guaranty of the payment of such liability, in such sum as the board may direct; provided, however, that if sufficient securities are already on deposit with the said board, or if the said board shall have determined that the employer has sufficient financial responsibility to meet said liability of the said employer, together with other liabilities already accrued, no such additional deposit or security shall be demanded.

History: En. Sec. 30, Ch. 96, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 2976, R. C. M. 1921.

2977. When employer may be relieved from liability. Any employer against whom liability may exist for compensation under this act, may, with the approval of the board, be relieved therefrom by

(1) Depositing the present value or the estimated present value of the total unpaid compensation for which such liability exists, assuming interest at five per centum per annum, with the treasurer of the board; or

(2) Purchasing an annuity within the limitations provided by law, in any insurance company granting annuities, and authorized to transact business in this state, subject to the approval of the board.

2979. Duty of employer electing plan number two—amount of insurance necessary. Any employer electing to become subject to and bound by compensation plan No. 2 shall file with the board written acceptance of the provisions of compensation plan No. 2, together with a statement upon forms provided by the board of the nature of his employment, the character and location of his works, the number of men employed during the preceding year, or any part of the preceding year, and the probable number of men to be employed during the first fiscal year to be covered by such election, and the board shall thereupon determine the amount of insurance which will be reasonably necessary to secure the compensation with which the said employer may reasonably be expected to become chargeable during such fiscal year. And thereupon the said employer shall file the policy or policies of insurance herein provided for with the board, which policy or policies shall insure in the amount so fixed by the board against any and all liability of the employer to pay the compensation and benefits provided for in this act. The amount of such insurance shall be fixed by the board for each ensuing fiscal year during which said employer shall engage in his said employment, and shall remain subject to the provisions of compensation plan No. 2, and for the purpose of fixing such amount of said insurance, the said board may make all reasonable and necessary investigation, and the said employer shall furnish to such board all information which it may require.

2980. Policies to contain what. All policies insuring the payment of compensation under this act, must contain a clause to the effect that as between the employee and the insurer the notice to, or knowledge of the occurrence of the injury on the part of the insured, shall be deemed notice or knowledge, as the case may be, on the part of the insurer; that jurisdiction of the insured for the purpose of this act shall be jurisdiction of the insurer; and that the insurer shall, in all things, be bound by and subject to the awards, orders, judgments, or decrees rendered against such insured. When any such policy, or a renewal thereof, is filed with the industrial accident board, the same shall be accompanied by a fee of three dollars ($3.00), which fee is to be credited to the industrial administrative fund.

2981. Agreement to be contained in policies of insurance—deposit of bonds. No such policy shall be issued unless it contains the agreement of the insurer that it will promptly pay to the person entitled to compensation all the installments of compensation or other payments in this act provided for, and that the obligation shall not be affected by any default of the insured after the injury, or by any default in the giving of any notice required by such policy or by this act or otherwise. Such agreement shall be construed to be a direct promise by the insured to the person entitled to compensation. Before issuance of any policy by an insurer as herein authorized, such insurer must deposit with the treasurer of the industrial accident board, bonds of the United States or the state of Montana, or of any school district, county, city or town in the state of Montana, in an amount not less than five thousand dollars ($5,000.00) or more than twenty thousand dollars ($20,000.00), as the industrial accident board may determine. If any insurer shall fail to discharge any liability after the amount thereof shall be determined by the board, and within the time limited by the board, it shall be the duty of the board to convert said bonds, or such part thereof as is necessary, into cash, and from the proceeds liquidate such liability; and thereafter said insurer must make an additional deposit to meet any deficiency caused thereby. It is intended hereby to give the industrial accident board the discretion in the matter of whether an insurer has failed to discharge any liability.

Any deposit made under the provisions of compensation plan No. 2 shall be held in trust by the treasurer of the board as security for the payment of the liability for which the deposit was made. Whenever any controversy or dispute, not involving questions which may be the subject of a civil action, exists between an employer (if he employs twenty or more in the same general line of business in the state) and his employees, the board must, on application as is hereinafter provided, visit the locality of the dispute and make inquiry into the cause thereof, hear all persons interested therein, who may come before them, advise the respective parties what, if anything, ought to be done, by either or both, to adjust said dispute, and the board must make a written decision thereon. The decision must at once be made public, and must be recorded in a book kept by the clerk of the board, and a statement thereof published in the annual report, and the board must cause a copy thereof to be filed with the clerk of the county where the dispute arose.

History: En. Sec. 3333, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 1673, Pol. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3055, R. C. M. 1921.

3056. Application, how made—proceedings by board—expert assistants. The application to the board of arbitration and conciliation must be signed by the employer, or by a majority of his employees in the department of the business in which the controversy or difference exists, or their duly authorized agent, or by both parties, and shall contain a concise statement of the grievances complained of, and a promise to continue on in business or at work without any lockout or strike until the decision of said board, if it shall be made within four weeks of the date of filing said application. When an application is signed by an agent claiming to represent a majority of such employees, the board shall satisfy itself that such agent is duly authorized in writing to represent such employees, but the names of the employees giving such authority shall be kept secret by said board. As soon as may be after the receipt of said application, the secretary of said board shall cause public notice to be given for the time and place for the hearing thereon; but public notice need not be given when both parties to the controversy join in the application and present therewith a written request that no public notice be given. When such request is made, notice shall be given to the parties interested in such manner as the board may order; and the board may, at any stage of the proceedings, cause public notice to be given, notwithstanding such request. When notice has been given as aforesaid, each of the parties to the controversy, the employer on one side, and the employees interested on the other side, may in writing nominate, and the board may appoint, one person to act in the case as expert assistant to the board. The two persons so appointed shall be skilled in and conversant with the business or trade concerning which the dispute has arisen. It shall be their duty, under the direction of the board, to obtain and report to the board information concerning the wages paid, the hours of labor, and the methods and grades of work prevailing in manufacturing establishments, or other industries or occupations, within the state, of a character similar to that in which the matters in dispute have arisen. Said expert assistants shall be sworn to the faithful discharge of their duty; such oath to be administered by any member of the board, and a record thereof shall be preserved with the record of the proceedings in the case. They shall be entitled to receive from the treasury of the state such compensation as shall be allowed and certified by the board not exceeding.....dollars per day, together with all necessary traveling expenses. Nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent the board from appointing such other additional expert assistant or assistants as it may deem necessary, who shall be paid in like manner. Should the petitioner or petitioners fail to perform the promise made in said application, the board shall proceed no further thereupon without the consent of the adverse party. The board shall have power to summon as witness any operative or employee in the department of business affected, and any person who keeps the records of wages earned in those departments, and to examine them under oath, and to require the production of books containing the record of wages paid. The decision of such board shall be rendered within ten days of the close of any hearing held by it; such decision shall at once be filed with the clerk of the county in which the controversy or difference arose, and a copy thereof shall be forwarded to the state board and entered on its records. this state, it shall be the duty of the state board to put itself in communication as soon as may be with such employer and employees, and endeavor by mediation to effect an amicable settlement between them, or to endeavor to persuade them, providing that a strike or lockout has not actually occurred or is not then continuing, to submit the matters in dispute to a local board of arbitration and conciliation as above provided, or to the state board; and said state board may, if it deems it advisable, investigate the cause or causes of such controversy, and ascertain which party thereto is mainly responsible or blameworthy for the existence or continuance of the same, and may make and publish a report finding such cause or causes, and assigning such responsibility or blame. The board shall have the same powers for the foregoing purposes as are given it by section 3055 of this code. Constitutionality

This statute, prior to its amendment, was held to be constitutional. State v. Livingston Concrete etc. Mfg. Co., 34 M 570, 87 P 980.

Operation and Effect

If a statute makes a requirement, or prohibits a thing, for the benefit of a person or class of persons, one injured by reason of a violation of it, if free from fault himself, is entitled to maintain an action against him by whose disobedience he has suffered injury; and this is true whether the statute is penal in its character or not, a violation of the statute being negligence per se, or legal negligence. Melville v. Butte-Balaklava Copper Co., 47 M 1, 6, 130 P 441. See Kelley v. John R. Daily Co., 56 M 63, 73, 181 P 326.

Under the rule that an action does not lie at the suit of one who must base his claim, in whole or in part, on the violation of a criminal or penal law of the state, a miner who was killed while working in violation of a statute providing that eight hours shall constitute a day's work in mines, under penalty of fine and imprisonment in the county jail, could not, if he had survived his injuries, recover damages in an action brought for that purpose. Melville v. Butte-Balaklava Copper Co., 47 M 1, 7, 130 P 441.

3080. Penalty. Every person, corporation, stock company, or association of persons who violate any of the provisions of the preceding section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars ($100.00) nor more than six hundred dollars ($600.00), or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than thirty days nor more than seven months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

History: En. Sec. 2, Ch. 50, L. 1905; re-en. Sec. 2, Ch. 108, L. 1907; Sec. 1740, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3080, R. C. M. 1921; amd. Sec. 3, Ch. 116, L. 1929.

Operation and Effect

The inhibition contained in this section includes both employer and employee, and renders both subject to the penalty whenever the former causes the employee to work, and the latter works for a period longer than eight hours. State v. Livingston Concrete etc. Mfg. Co., 34 M 570, 577, 87 P 980; Melville v. Butte-Balaklava Copper Co., 47 M 1, 6, 130 P 441.

The person who occupies a position of authority over one engaged as an employee, and who exercises control over him, is the employer who comes within the prohibition of the eight-hour law. State v. Hughes, 38 M 468, 472, 100 P 610.

Id. One who does not sustain the relation of employer to any of the men employed by subcontractors is not answerable for the conduct of the latter in requiring their men to work more than eight hours per day.

3081. Railway employees—hours of labor. On all lines of steam railroads or railways operated in whole or in part within this state, the time of labor of locomotive engineers, locomotive firemen, conductors, trainmen, operators, and agents acting as operators, employed in running or operating the locomotive engines or trains on or over such railroads or railways in this state, shall not at any time exceed sixteen consecutive hours, or to be on duty for more than sixteen hours in the aggregate in any twenty-four hour period. At least eight hours shall be allowed them off duty before said engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen, operators, and agents acting as operators, are again ordered or required to go on duty; provided, however, that nothing in this section shall be construed to allow any engineer, fireman, conductor, or trainman to desert his locomotive or train in case of accident, storms, wrecks, washouts, snow blockade, or any unavoidable delay arising from like causes, or to allow said engineer, fireman, conductor, or trainman to tie up any passenger or mail train between terminals.

History: En. Sec. 1, Ch. 5, L. 1907; Sec. 1741, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3081, R. C. M. 1921.

Operation and Effect

Until congress has acted, the regulation of the hours of railway employees is a matter for state control, under the exercise of its police power to provide for the public safety and to preserve the health and lives of the employees, and a federal statute, effective at a future date, does not supersede existing state legislation. State v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 36 M 582, 584, 93 P 945.

Evidence held insufficient to support a verdict finding the defendant railway company guilty of a violation of the provisions of this section and the following section, prohibiting railroads from requiring their trainmen to work for more than sixteen consecutive hours. State v. Northern Pacific Ry. Co., 41 M 557, 558, 111 P 141.

In Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. State of Washington, 222 U. S. 370, 56 L. Ed. 237, 32 Sup. Ct. 160, held the state loses control upon the enactment of a federal statute, though not effective until a subsequent date.

3082. Penalties. Any railroad company or superintendent, train dispatcher, trainmaster, master mechanic, or other railroad or railway official, who shall order or require any locomotive engineer, locomotive fireman, conductor, trainman, operator, or agent acting as operator, to labor contrary to the provisions of the preceding section, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars or more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment of not less than thirty days or more than sixty days in the county jail; and all railroad or railway corporations operating lines of railroads or railways in whole or in part in this state shall be liable in damages for all injuries to any person or persons resulting from violations of the provisions of said section.

Employer of Labor

Held, that the legislature in enacting this section, requiring employers of labor to make semi-monthly payment of wages, under penalty of five per cent of the wages due and unpaid, did not intend that the act should apply to a school district as employer and a teacher, as employee, receiving a fixed compensation, and that therefore the court properly struck out of the complaint of a teacher in her action for breach of contract an allegation that plaintiff was entitled to the five per cent penalty. McBride v. School District No. 2, 88 M 110, 290 P 252.

3085. Penalty for failure to pay at times specified in law. Whenever any employer, whether a person, copartnership, or corporation, fails to pay any of his employees, as provided in the preceding section, then a penalty shall attach to such person, copartnership, or corporation, and become due such employees as follows: A sum equivalent to a penalty of five per cent. of the wages due and not paid, as herein provided, as liquidated damages, and such penalty shall attach and suit may be brought in any court of competent jurisdiction to recover the same and the wages due.

3086. Discharged employee—wages, when payable. Whenever any employee is discharged from the employ of any such person, copartnership, or corporation, except agricultural, on leaving said employment, then all the unpaid wages of such employee shall immediately become due and payable on demand, and if such person, copartnership, or corporation fails to pay any such discharged employee, within twenty-four hours after such discharge and demand, all the wages due and payable to him, then the same penalty of five per cent. shall attach to said person, copartnership, or corporation, and become due such employee as provided in the preceding section, provided, however, that if the employer shall, within the period herein specified, tender in money to such discharged employee, the full amount of the wages lawfully due such employee, the penalty herein provided shall not attach.

History: En. Sec. 3, Ch. 11, L. 1919; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 66, L. 1921; re-en. Sec. 3086, R. C. M. 1921.

3088. Contracts in violations of act void. Any contract or agreement made between any person, copartnership, or corporation and any parties in his, its, or their employ, whose provision shall be in violation, evasion, or circumvention of this act, shall be unlawful and void; but such employee may sue to recover his wages earned, together with such five per cent. penalty, or separately to recover the penalty, if the wages have been paid.

3089. Judgment for wages shall include attorney's fee. Whenever it shall become necessary for the employee to enter or maintain a suit at law for the recovery or collection of wages due, as provided for by this act, then such judgment shall include a reasonable attorney's fee in favor of the successful party, to be taxed as part of the costs in the case.

History: En. Sec. 6, Ch. 11, L. 1919; re-en. Sec. 3089, R. C. M. 1921.

Operation and Effect

In an action to recover wages due, the plaintiff is entitled to a reasonable attorney's fee as a part of the costs without being required to either plead or prove such item. Gardiner v. Eclipse Grocery Co., 72 M 540, 550, 234 P 490.

3090. Equal pay for women for equivalent service. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, state, county, municipal, or school district, public or private corporation, to employ any woman or women in any occupation or calling within the state of Montana for salaries, wages, or compensation which are less than that paid to men for equivalent service or for the same amount or class of work, or labor in the same industry, school, establishment, office, or place of any kind or description.

3092. Protection of discharged employees. If any person, after having discharged an employee from his service, prevents, or attempts to prevent, by word or writing of any kind, such discharged employee, from obtaining employment with any other person, such person is punishable as provided in section 11219 of the penal code, and is liable in punitive damages to such discharged person, to be recovered by civil action; no person is prohibited from informing, by word or writing, any person to whom such discharged person or employee has applied for employment, a truthful statement of the reason for such discharge.

CHAPTER 265

PROHIBITION AGAINST CHILD LABOR

- Section 3095. Employment of children under sixteen years in certain occupations prohibited.
3096. Liability of parent.
3097. Record of children under the age of sixteen years.
3098. Age certificates.
3099. Enforcement of act.

3101. Prohibiting employment of children in mines.
3102. Employment of a child in a mine—penalty.
3103. Parent permitting employment guilty of misdemeanor.
3104. Penalties.

3095. Employment of children under sixteen years in certain occupations prohibited. Any person, company, firm, association, or corporation engaged in business in this state, or any agent, officer, foreman, or other employee having control or management of employees, or having the power to hire or discharge employees, who shall knowingly employ or permit to be employed any child under the age of sixteen years, to render or perform any service or labor, whether under contract of employment or otherwise, in, on, or about any mine, mill, smelter, workshop, factory, steam, electric, hydraulic, or compressed-air railroad, or passenger or freight elevator, or where any machinery is operated, or for any telegraph, telephone, or messenger company, or in any occupation not herein enumerated which is known to be dangerous or unhealthful, or which may be in any way detrimental to the morals of said child, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable as hereinafter provided.

History: En. Sec. 1, Ch. 99, L. 1907; Sec. 1746, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3095, R. C. M. 1921.

Construction

Construing this section, which prohibits the employment of children under the age of sixteen years in certain specified occupations, closing with the words "or in any occupation not herein enumerated which is known to be dangerous," held, that by the latter clause a separate class of occupations is designated, independent of and in addition to those theretofore specifically named, and that such occupations may not, under the ejusdem generis rule, be held to mean occupations of the same kind and character as those previously enumerated. Burk v. Montana Power Co., 79 M 52, 63 et seq., 255 P 337.

Invalidity of Act as to Dangerous Occupations Not Specifically Enumerated

Held, that where the legislature undertakes to define a new offense the statute must be so explicit that all persons subject to its penalty may know what acts to avoid, and that under that rule the provision of this section making it a misdemeanor to employ a child under the age of sixteen years "in any occupation * * * known to be dangerous," is so uncertain as to the kind and nature of occupations intended to come within the prohibited class, as to render it void. Burk v. Montana Power Co., 79 M 52, 63 et seq., 255 P 337.

Id. Courts cannot take judicial notice of the fact that a given employment not enumerated in this section, is an occupation known to be dangerous within the meaning of the child labor law.

Id. In an action for personal injuries sustained by a minor under the age of sixteen years while employed in driving a team in logging operations, who, though compensated for the injuries under the workmen's compensation act, based his action on the common-law liability of his employer on the theory that his employment was unlawful under the child labor law and therefore he was not bound by the compensation act, held, in view of the holding above that the section of the child labor law so far as it appertains to occupations not specifically named is void, that plaintiff's contention as to the illegality of his employment cannot be sustained.

Id. Laws which create crime must be so explicit that all persons subject to their penalties may know what acts to avoid.

Knowledge

Since a corporation defendant in an action based on a violation of the child labor law can only have vicarious knowledge of any fact, the knowledge of its managing officers that a minor of the prohibited age was being employed in a proscribed labor constitutes the knowledge required by the act. Daly v. Swift & Co., 90 M 52, 61, 300 P 265.

Id. The fact that a boy under the forbidden age of sixteen years was employed by an independent contractor in making repairs on a freight elevator when injured was immaterial, it having been defendant company's duty, being in full possession of the building and elevator and with knowledge that he was engaged in forbidden labor, to see to it that he was not permitted to continue therein.

Negligence Per Se

Violation of the child labor law, though merely penal, forms the basis of an action for damages for injuries to the minor, and the general rule that violation of a statute enacted for the protection of the public is negligence per se applies. Daly v. Swift & Co., 90 M 52, 61, 300 P 265.

Penal in Character

This section, making the act of employing a child under the age of sixteen years in certain occupations a misdemeanor and prescribing punishment for a violation thereof, is penal, and not remedial, in character. Burk v. Montana Power Co., 79 M 52, 63 et seq., 255 P 337.

Requisites of Complaint for Damages

Complaint in an action to recover damages for the death of a boy under the age of twelve years alleging, inter alia, that defendant company knowingly and negligently permitted the boy to be employed by an independent contractor in and about heavy elevator machinery while being moved, contrary to the provisions of the child labor law, (this section), held not open to the objection that it did not state a cause of action in that it showed on its face that deceased was not in the employ of defendant but that of the contractor. Daly v. Swift & Co., 90 M 52, 61, 300 P 265.

Id. The proximate cause of an injury to a minor protected by the child labor law was the fact that he was permitted to work in a forbidden place and not the negligence of the contractor in operating the freight elevator contrary to instructions given him by defendant, which negligence but concurred with that of defendant and could not relieve the latter from liability.

The complaint in an action by a minor against a railway company to recover damages for personal injuries under this section, making it negligence per se for an employer to hire a child under sixteen years of age, must allege that defendant employed plaintiff knowing him to have been under that age. Fallon v. Chicago etc. Ry. Co., 61 M 130, 132, 200 P 453.

What Defenses Not Available

In an action such as this the defenses of contributory negligence and assumption of risk are not available. Daly v. Swift & Co., 90 M 52, 61, 300 P 265.

3096. Liability of parent. succeeding sections was abolished by chapter 216, laws of 1921. See, however, section 3635, which makes it the duty of the department of agriculture, labor and industry to enforce all the laws of Montana relating to child labor.

3098. Age certificates. Upon obtaining the age of sixteen years any child may make application to the commissioner of labor and industry for an age certificate, which must be presented to any employer with whom such child may seek employment. The employer, if such employment be given, must countersign the certificate and return the same to the commissioner of said bureau, who shall keep the same on file in his office. Any person, firm, company, association, or corporation who employs or permits to be employed in any occupation prohibited by section 3095, any child without such certificate showing the child to be at least sixteen years of age, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable as herein-after provided, should such child prove to be less than sixteen years of age.

History: En. Sec. 18, Ch. 48, L. 1935.

3115.19. Practicing dentistry without certificate, penalty for—disposition of fines. Any person who, as principal, agent, employer, employee or assistant, shall practice dentistry in any manner whatever, or who for reward or hire shall do any act of dentistry, without having first secured his or her certificate to practice dentistry from the state board of dental examiners of the state of Montana entitling him or her to so practice in this state, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction in a district court shall be fined in any sum not less than five hundred ($500.00) dollars nor more than one thousand ($1,000.00) dollars or be confined for any period not exceeding six months in the county jail, for each and every offense. All fines imposed and collected under this act shall be paid into the treasury of the county in which such suits, actions or proceedings shall have been commenced. All moneys thus paid into the treasury over and above the amount necessary to reimburse the county for any expense incurred by said county, in any suit, action or proceeding brought under the provisions of this act, shall be paid, before the first day of January of each year, to the secretary-treasurer of the state board of dental examiners of the state of Montana, and become and be a part of the fund to be used by the said state board of dental examiners in the enforcement of the provisions of this act, and shall be used for no other purpose.

History: En. Sec. 19, Ch. 48, L. 1935.

3115.20. Affiliation with national association authorized—delegate—expenses allowed. The said board of dental examiners may affiliate with the national association of dental examiners as an active member, and may pay regular annual dues to said association, and may send a delegate to the meetings of such association, which delegate shall receive as compensation his actual railroad and Pullman fare, or an amount equal to railroad and Pullman fare, to and from the place of meeting of the national dental association, plus an allowance of ten ($10.00) dollars for each day of actual attendance at such meeting and for each day spent in traveling to and from the place of such meeting.

History: En. Sec. 20, Ch. 48, L. 1935.

3115.21. Dental hygienists — qualifications — examination—fee—registration—certificate form—re-examination—powers and limitations—revocation of license. Said board may also issue licenses to dental assistants to be known as dental hygienists. Every candidate for examination as dental hygienist shall pay the secretary-treasurer of the board a fee of ten dollars, and shall furnish satisfactory proof that he or she is a graduate of an accredited high school in this state maintaining a complete four (4) year course or a school of like and equal standing in any other state or country, or has actually earned units of study equivalent to those necessary for graduation from such school and who has earned a diploma or certificate from a recognized school of dental hygienists offering a course of study with such equipment and facilities as shall be approved by the board, which shall ascertain and determine what shall constitute a recognized school within the meaning of this act. Every applicant who shall successfully pass such examination as may be prescribed by the board shall be granted a license as a dental hygienist, and shall be registered as such in a record kept by the secretary of the state dental board, and shall receive a certificate, signed by the president and secretary-treasurer of the board, in substantially the following form, to-wit:

“This is to certify that.....is hereby licensed as a dental hygienist in the state of Montana. This certificate must be filed for registration in the office of the county clerk of any county in which the holder of this certificate desires to practice, and it shall be unlawful for him or her to practice in any county in which said certificate is not filed for registration.

Dated at....., this day of 19.....”

Any applicant for license as dental hygienist failing to pass his or her first examination may take a subsequent examination at any regular meeting of the board without further cost. Such licensed dental hygienist may remove calcareous deposits, accretion and stains from the exposed surfaces of teeth and from directly beneath the normal free margin of the gums and may prescribe or apply ordinary mouth washes of soothing character, but shall not perform any other operation on the teeth, mouth, or tissues of the oral cavity. Such licensed dental hygienist may operate in the office of a legally licensed dentist or in any state or municipal institution or in public schools, or under a board of health or in any public clinic authorized by said board, but shall not operate in any case except under the direct supervision of a licensed dentist. The board may revoke or suspend the license of any dental hygienist for violating any provision hereof, and may revoke or suspend the license of any registered dentist who shall permit any dental hygienist operating under his supervision to perform any operation other than those permitted under the provisions of this section.

History: En. Sec. 21, Ch. 48, L. 1935.

3115.22. Annual license fee for dental hygienists—revocation of license for failure to pay. Before the first day of May in each year every licensed dental hygienist shall pay to the board of dental examiners a license fee of

$1.00, and in default of such payment, the board may after hearing and upon thirty (30) days' notice revoke the license of the hygienist in default; but the payment of such fee on or before the time of hearing, with such additional sum as shall be fixed by the board, not exceeding one dollar, shall excuse the default. The board may collect such fee by suit.

History: En. Sec. 22, Ch. 48, L. 1935.

3115.23. Admission of dental hygienists from other states—unlawful to practice without license—licenses for practicing hygienists. Any dental hygienist duly licensed to practice as such in another state having and maintaining an equal standard of laws regulating the practice of dental hygienists within this state and who is a graduate of an accredited high school maintaining a complete four (4) year course and who is also a graduate of a recognized school of dental hygiene, and who is of good moral character and is desirous of removing to this state, and deposits in person with the board of dental examiners a certificate from the examining board of the state in which he or she is licensed, certifying to the fact of his or her being licensed and that he or she is of good moral character and professional attainments, may, upon the payment of a fee of ten dollars ($10.00), at the discretion of the board, be granted a license to practice in this state without further examination. As to any person so applying and who has been licensed in a state not maintaining a standard of laws equal to those in force within this state, the board may license such persons upon the payment of the fee provided for above, furnishing the same evidence as to licensing, good moral character, and professional attainments, and passing such further examinations as the board of dental examiners shall deem necessary.

It shall be unlawful for any person, who is not at the time of the passage of this act, employed as a dental hygienist in the office of a regularly licensed dentist in this state, to commence such practice unless such person shall have obtained a certificate, as herein provided.

Any dental assistant who can produce satisfactory evidence that such person has been employed as a dental hygienist in the office of a regularly licensed dentist in the state of Montana for one or more years prior to the passage of this act, may, upon payment of a fee of ten ($10.00) dollars, be granted a certificate to practice by the state dental board. Such certificate must be secured before such person may continue practice as a hygienist.

History: En. Sec. 23, Ch. 48, L. 1935.

3115.24. Recognition of dental schools. In determining what shall constitute a recognized dental college or school and/or a recognized school of dental hygiene, the board shall be guided by the standards, canons and practices required for such recognition by the national association of dental faculties.

History: En. Sec. 24, Ch. 48, L. 1935.

3115.25. Citation of act—regulatory board. This act may be known and cited as the "Montana dentistry regulation act" and said state board of dental examiners of the state of Montana is hereby declared to be a regulatory board within the meaning of the proviso of section 192.

History: En. Sec. 27, Ch. 48, L. 1935.

CHAPTER 267

MEDICINE—REGULATION OF PRACTICE

- Section 3116. Qualifications, appointment, and term of medical examiners.
 3117. Organization of board—register.
 3118. Examination of applicants.
 3119. Examination of applicants for certificates—revocation of certificates—appeals from decision of board.
 3120. Certificate must be recorded.
 3121. Exceptions.
 3122. Practicing medicine without certificate—penalties.
 3123. Fees for examination and admission.
 3124. Compensation of board members.

3116. Qualifications, appointment, and term of medical examiners.

The governor, with the advice and consent of the senate, shall appoint seven learned, skilled, and capable physicians, who shall have been residents of the state of Montana for not less than two years preceding their appointment, not more than two of whom shall be from the same county, and who have attended three courses of lectures, and are graduates of accredited colleges of medicine, who shall constitute the board of examiners for the purposes of this article. The physicians so appointed shall hold their respective offices for seven years; provided, that the terms in office of those constituting the present board shall not be affected by the provisions of this act; and the terms of their successors shall be so arranged as to succeed the present incumbents as their terms expire; and provided, also, that all the vacancies occurring shall be likewise filled by appointment by the governor, with the advise and consent of the senate. Appointments made when the senate is not in session shall take effect immediately, and may be confirmed at the next ensuing session.

History: The first board of medical examiners was created by sections 1 to 9, pp. 175 to 178, laws 1889. This act was amended by sections 600 to 608, political code 1895. The law is here given as it appears with amendments subsequent to 1895.

This section en. Sec. 600, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 1585, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3116, R. C. M. 1921.

Constitutionality

The act regulating the practice of medicine is not unconstitutional as denying the equal protection of the laws, in that it discriminates in favor of osteopathic practitioners. State v. Dodd, 51 M 100, 149 P 481.

The practice of medicine is a proper subject for police regulation. Johnson v. City of Great Falls, 38 M 369, 374, 99 P 1059.

Sufficiency of Proof of Violation

In a prosecution for engaging in the practice of osteopathy without first having a license, an allegation that the defendant engaged in the practice "without first having obtained a certificate or license from the state board," etc., is material, and must be established by the state beyond a reasonable doubt; but the evidence as to that matter is sufficient where the record of the secretary of such board discloses that the defendant had never applied to the board for a license or certificate, and there is no evidence to contradict it. State v. Hopkins, 54 M 52, 64, 166 P 304.

3117. Organization of board—register. The board of medical examiners must, on the first Tuesday of April of each year, elect from among their number a president, secretary, and treasurer, and must have a seal. Four members of said board shall constitute a quorum. The president and secretary have the power to administer oaths in examination of applicants for certificates, and witnesses called before the board in the transaction of business under the provisions of this act. The board of examiners must hold meetings for examinations at the seat of government on the first Tuesdays of April and October of each year, and at such other times and at the same and other places as the board may determine. The board must keep a record of all proceedings thereof, and also a register of all applicants for a certificate, with the age of the applicant, time spent in the study of medicine, and the name and location of all the institutions granting to such applicant degrees or certificates of lectures attended in medicine or surgery. The register must also show whether such applicant was rejected, or has received a certificate under this act; such register is prima facie evidence of all the matters therein kept.

History: En. Sec. 601, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 1586, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3117, R. C. M. 1921.

Sufficiency of Proof of Violation

Where, in a prosecution for engaging in the practice of osteopathy without having first procured a license, it is material to allege that the defendant was not a duly licensed practitioner of medicine or surgery, there is sufficient evidence that he was not such a practitioner where his name does not appear upon the register of applicants to the board of medical examiners for a certificate to practice, such register being required to be kept by this section, and where the record has been identified as one required by law to be kept, the presumption attaches, under section 10606, that it has been correctly kept. State v. Hopkins, 54 M 52, 65, 166 P 304.

3118. Examination of applicants. Every person hereafter wishing to practice medicine or surgery in any of the departments of this state shall apply to said board for a certificate so to do. Every person applying shall present his or her diploma to the said board of examiners for verification as to its genuineness; if the diploma is found to be genuine, and is issued by a medical school legally organized and in good standing, whose teachers are graduates of a legally organized school, which fact said board of examiners shall determine, and if the person presenting and claiming said diploma be the person to whom the same was originally granted, at a time and place designated by said board, or at a regular meeting of said board, said applicant shall submit to an examination in the following branches, to-wit: Anatomy, physiology, materia medica, therapeutics, practice of medicine, surgery, obstetrics, diseases of women and children, diseases of the nervous system, diseases of the eye and ear; and present evidence of having attended four courses of lectures of at least six months each, but such evidence of having attended four courses of lectures shall not be required of the applicants graduating prior to July 1, 1898. Said board shall cause such examination to be both scientific and practical, and of sufficient thoroughness and severity to test the candidate's fitness to practice medicine and surgery; when desired, such examination may be conducted in the presents of the dean of any medical school, or the president of any medical society in this state. After examination, such board, if the candidate has been found qualified, shall grant a certificate to such candidate to practice medicine and surgery in the state of Montana; which said certificate can be granted only by the consent of not less than four members of said board, and which said certificate shall be signed by the president and secretary of said board and attested by the seal thereof; provided, however, that in all cases where an applicant for a certificate under this section shall produce and exhibit to said board of examiners a certificate from a board of medical examiners, duly appointed and existing under the laws of any state of the United States, and recognizing certificates or licenses from this state, certifying to the fact that the person presenting such certificate is duly and well qualified to practice medicine and surgery in the state issuing said certificate, and that said board issuing said certificate has subjected the applicant to a thorough examination to ascertain this fact, or certifying to the fact that the person presenting such certificate is duly and well qualified to practice medicine and surgery in the state issuing said certificate; and to the further fact, if such is the case, that said applicant was exempt from examination under the provisions of the law of said state, by reason of his residence in said state in the active practice of medicine and surgery at the time of the passage in said state of said law requiring the examination of applicants to practice medicine and surgery; he or she may, at the discretion of said board of examiners, upon paying the fee required of applicants for examination under the provisions of section 3123, and otherwise complying with all the requirements of this article, receive from said board of examiners a certificate to practice medicine and surgery within this state, and upon filing said certificate with the county clerk of the county in which he resides, as is provided in section 3120, he shall be a legally qualified practitioner of medicine and surgery in this state; provided, also, that during any period intervening between the sessions of said board of examiners, any person desiring to practice medicine in this state may present his or her diploma to the president or secretary of said board, who may issue a certificate good until the next regular meeting of said board; and provided further, that all physicians and surgeons who hold certificates granted by the now existing board of medical examiners, or who are now legally entitled to practice medicine and surgery in this state, shall be exempt from the provisions of this section.

tificate for unprofessional, dishonorable, or immoral conduct. Before a certificate can be refused for such cause, the board must serve in writing upon the applicant a copy of any charge or charges against him, and appoint a day for hearing, at which the applicant or any witness in his behalf may appear and give testimony in refutation of such charges. In case the board, after such hearing, refuse a certificate to the applicant, the decision specially stating the ground upon which such refusal was made must be reduced to writing and a copy thereof delivered to the applicant upon demand. Upon a like hearing the board may refuse a certificate to any one who may publicly profess to cure or treat disease, injury, or deformity, in such a manner as to deceive the public. The hearing provided for herein must take place within twenty days after the service of the copy of the charges upon the applicant, unless further time is granted to the applicant, and the decision of the board must not be later than ten days after the day of hearing. If the decision is not rendered within said period of ten days, the applicant is not subject to any penalties for practicing without a certificate during the time that elapses before the decision is made. The board, with the concurrence of four members thereof, may revoke a certificate for unprofessional, dishonorable, or immoral conduct. Before such revocation can take place, a written complaint, specifically stating the charges against the person whose certificate is sought to be revoked, must be delivered to the board, and a copy thereof be served upon such person twenty days before the time fixed by the board for the hearing of such charges. The board must fix the time and place for the hearing, at which the person charged may appear and produce testimony in refutation of such charges. If, after such hearing, the board revoke the certificate of such person, the ground upon which such revocation is made must be specifically stated by the board in writing, and a copy thereof delivered, on demand, to the person whose certificate is revoked. In all cases of the refusal or the revocation of a certificate to practice medicine by said board, the person aggrieved thereby may appeal from the decision of the board as hereinafter provided. An appeal may be taken from the action of the state board of medical examiners in refusing to issue a certificate to practice medicine and surgery to any applicant after examination, or from the action of said board in revoking the certificate of any physician or surgeon, to the district court of the county in which such revocation or refusal was made. The appeal is taken by serving notice of appeal upon the secretary of the board of medical examiners and the attorney general of the state, within thirty days after notice from the board of medical examiners of its decision, and by filing within the same time with the clerk of the proper district court a verified copy of the decision from which appeal is taken, together with a verified copy of any charge or charges preferred against the applicant and filed with the board of medical examiners. The appellant is required, at the time of filing such appeal, to furnish and file with the clerk of the court a good and sufficient bond, to be approved by the clerk of the court, with two good and sufficient sureties, in the sum of three hundred dollars, guaranteeing the payment of all costs of the appeal should the case be decided against the appellant, and the costs shall consist of the sheriff's fees for serving jurors, jurors' fees, and the fees of the clerk of the court. Such appeal shall thereafter be tried by the district court before a jury of six physicians—not less than two of whom shall be of the same school of medicine as the appellant—and in case such jury cannot be obtained in the county where the case is tried, the judge of such court shall order subpoenas for physicians from any adjoining county or counties, which subpoenas shall be served by the sheriff of such adjoining county upon receipt, after the clerk of the court where the subpoena is issued shall have sent by registered mail such subpoena to such sheriff. Bias or prejudice or fixed opinion shall constitute a ground of challenge to a juror for cause, and the appellant and the medical board shall each have the right to peremptorily challenge not more than two of such jurors. When the jury shall have been selected and sworn to try the cause, they constitute a higher examining board for the purpose of inquiring into whether or not the judgment of the board of medical examiners should be affirmed or overruled upon the issues presented to such board, and such jury may make such examination of the appellant as they may deem necessary or desirable. It shall take four of the jury to render a verdict, and no member of the medical board is qualified to act as a juror. The attorney general is hereby made the attorney for said board. Jurymen subpoenaed under this act shall be entitled to mileage at the rate of ten cents per mile for each and every mile by them actually traveled in attending upon the court, and of three dollars per day for their services.

Appeal

The application of a physician to the district court to have the action of the state board of medical examiners, in revoking his license for alleged unprofessional and dishonorable conduct, judicially determined, is a special proceeding, from the judgment in which an appeal lies to the supreme court, if taken within one year; but he cannot, after the time for the appeal has elapsed, have the judgment reviewed and annulled on writ of review. State ex rel. Gattan v. District Court, 39 M 134, 136, 101 P 961.

Whether acting under its general constitutional powers or as exercising a special and limited jurisdiction derived exclusively from the statute, the district court has no power to allow an applicant to practice medicine pending his appeal from a refusal of the state board of medical examiners to grant him a certificate. State ex rel. State Board of Medical Examiners v. District Court, 26 M 121, 124, 66 P 754.

Notice of Revocation

Though the board of medical examiners is empowered to revoke a certificate for unprofessional, dishonorable or immoral conduct, it cannot arbitrarily revoke the certificate of a physician without reasonable notice of the charge against him and the time and place of the trial. State v. Schultz, 11 M 429, 434, 28 P 343.

3120. Certificate must be recorded. Every person obtaining a certificate from the board must, within sixty days from the date thereof, have the same recorded in the office of the county clerk in the county wherein he resides; if he removes from one county to another to practice medicine or surgery, his certificate must immediately be recorded in the county to which he removes. The county clerk must indorse upon the certificate the date of record, and he is entitled to charge and receive his usual fees for such services, the fee to be paid by the applicant. Until the certificate be recorded, as provided by this section, the physician practicing under it is subject to the penalties prescribed in the penal code for practicing without a certificate.

History: En. Sec. 604, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 1589, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3120, R. C. M. 1921.

3121. Exceptions. This act shall not apply to midwives of skill and experience, commissioned surgeons of the United States army and navy in the discharge of their official duties, nor to physicians and surgeons in actual consultation from other states and territories.

History: En. Sec. 605, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 1590, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3121, R. C. M. 1921.

3122. Practicing medicine without certificate—penalties. Any person practicing medicine or surgery within this state without first having obtained a certificate to practice, as provided by law, and after his certificate to practice has been revoked, or contrary to the provisions of this article, shall for each violation of the provisions of this code, or any act relating to the practice of medicine or surgery in this state, be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars nor less than two hundred and fifty dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year, nor less than ninety days, or by both said fine and imprisonment, as the court may determine. Any person shall be regarded as practicing within the meaning of this article who shall append or affix the letters M. B. or M. D., or the title of Dr. or Doctor, or any other sign or appellation in a medical sense to his or her name, who shall publicly profess to be a physician or a surgeon, who shall publicly profess either on his own behalf, in his own name, in his trade name, or on behalf of any other person, corporation, association, partnership, either as manager, bookkeeper, solicitor, or other agent, to cure, treat, relieve, or palliate any ailment, disease, or infirmity of the mind or body of another by using or prescribing any drug, medicine, or surgical treatment, or who shall recommend, prescribe, or direct, for the use of any person, any drug, medicine, appliance, apparatus, or other agency, whether material or not material, for the cure, relief, or palliation of any ailment or disease of the mind or body, or for the cure or relief of any wound, fracture, or bodily injury, or other deformity, after having received, or with the intent of receiving therefor, either directly or indirectly, any bonus, gift, or compensation; provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to restrain or restrict any legally licensed osteopathic practitioner practicing under the laws of this state. Nothing in this act shall prohibit any legally licensed pharmacist or mercantile dealer from selling any drugs or medicines which are now allowed to be sold under the laws of the state of Montana or the United States.

History: En. Sec. 606, Pol. C. 1895; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 101, L. 1907; Sec. 1591, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3122, R. C. M. 1921.

Operation and Effect

By the adoption of the proviso relating to osteopaths, their status was not affected so as to permit them to practice medicine or surgery, and the section is not open to the objection that it denies to every person, except osteopaths, the right to practice medicine or surgery without a certificate from the state board of medical examiners. State v. Dodd, 51 M 100, 105, 149 P 481; State v. Wood, 53 M 566, 571, 165 P 592; State v. Hopkins, 54 M 52, 59, 166 P 304.

A conviction upon an information drawn under this section, which undertook to state the circumstances of the offense with unnecessary particularity, and in doing so confined the charge to the giving of a particular prescription, held not justified by the evidence. State ex rel. Gilmore v. Dist. Court, 45 M 335, 122 P 922.

3123. Fees for examination and admission. Candidates for examination shall pay in advance to the secretary of the board of medical examiners a fee of fifty dollars ($50.00), which fee shall defray the entire expenses of said candidate for examination before the aforesaid board of examiners. Any one failing to pass the required examination shall be entitled to a second examination within six months without fee. Candidates who shall be granted right to practice medicine in the state of Montana under the reciprocity provisions of section 3118 without examination, shall before receiving certificate of authorization to practice medicine in this state pay to the secretary of the board of medical examiners a fee of seventy-five dollars ($75.00), and the money so received shall be turned over to the state treasurer, to be by him deposited in the medical board fund as provided by law.

3124. Compensation of board members. Each member of the board is hereby allowed the sum of ten dollars ($10.00) per day and mileage while in the active and necessary discharge of his duties. And there is hereby established a fund to be known as the medical board fund. The money in such fund shall only be paid out by warrant on said fund on an order drawn by the secretary of said board, countersigned by the president. The rate of mileage and attendance before said board shall be the same as is now allowed in justice of the peace courts. And the board must report annually on the first Monday in November to the governor, which report must show all the transactions of the board, giving the number of applications received, and from whom received, the number of certificates granted and rejected, and the names of those receiving certificates and those rejected, giving the reasons therefor, the amount of money received, the expenses, the fees and mileage paid, and by whom received, and the amount of money remaining in said fund.

- 3127. Unlawful to practice without certificate—examinations—fees.
- 3128. Temporary certificates.

3125. Board of osteopathic examiners—appointment and term of office. The governor of this state shall appoint a board as soon as possible after the passage of this act, to be known as the state board of osteopathic examiners. Said board shall consist of three qualified, practicing resident osteopaths, each of whom shall be a graduate of a legally authorized school of osteopathy; each member of said board shall serve thereon for a term of four years, and until his successor is appointed, except in cases of the first board, on which one shall serve for four years, one for three years, and one for two years, as specified in their appointment. In case of vacancy by death or otherwise, there shall be appointed in like manner a person to serve through such unexpired term.

History: The first board of osteopathic examiners was created by house bill No. 38, pp. 48 to 51, laws of 1901.

This section en. by Ch. 51, L. 1905; re-en. Sec. 1594, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3125, R. C. M. 1921.

Constitutionality

In a prosecution of a chiropractor for practicing osteopathy without a license, this statute was held not repugnant to the state constitution on the ground that there is nothing in the titles of the acts constituting the statute indicating an intention to include “chiropractic”; the latter, like the former, having to do with the art of healing by the use of the hands, falls within the definition of “osteopathy,” and is therefore included within it. State v. Hopkins, 54 M 52, 56, 166 P 304.

The practice of osteopathy is a proper subject for police regulation. Johnson v. City of Great Falls, 38 M 369, 374, 99 P 1059.

The statute regulating the practice of osteopathy is not invalid as arbitrary and unreasonable class legislation, contrary to the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution; neither does it make an arbitrary classification denying the right of citizens to engage in a lawful occupation, and is therefore not an abuse of the police power of the state. State v. Hopkins, 54 M 52, 59, 166 P 304.

3126. Officers of board—certificates of qualification. Said board of osteopathic examiners shall elect a president, a secretary, and treasurer on the first Tuesday in March each year, from among their number, and shall have a common seal, and its president and secretary shall have power to administer oaths. Said board shall hold meetings for the examinations at the state capitol on the first Tuesday in March and September of each year, and such other meetings as may be deemed necessary, each session thereof not to exceed three days, and shall issue a certificate of qualification to all applicants having a diploma from a legalized, recognized, and regularly conducted school of osteopathy as such, at the time it was issued, or who pass required examinations as provided by section 3128. Said certificates shall be signed by the president and secretary of said board, and attested by its seal, and shall be conclusive of the right of the lawful holder thereof to practice osteopathy in this state. Said board shall keep a record of all proceedings; also a register of all applicants for a license, together with his or her name and age and time spent in the study and practice of osteopathy, and the name and location of the school or institute of osteopathy from which said applicant holds a diploma; and shall keep a register which shall show the names of all applicants licensed; and those who are rejected under this act. Said books shall be prima facie evidence of all matters recorded therein.

History: En. Ch. 51, L. 1905; re-en. Sec. 1595, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3126, R. C. M. 1921.

Sufficiency of Proof to Support Violation

The record of the applicants for license, required by this section to be kept by the secretary of the board of osteopathic examiners, showing that defendant had never applied for a license or a temporary certificate, was, in the absence of contradiction, sufficient to support the charge that he had been practicing without a license. State v. Hopkins, 54 M 52, 64, 166 P 304.

3127. Unlawful to practice without certificate—examinations—fees.

It shall be unlawful for any person to practice osteopathy in this state without a license from said board; provided, that all persons practicing osteopathy within this state prior to the passage of this act and holding a diploma from a legally authorized school of osteopathy of good repute as such, and wherein the course of study comprises twenty months or four terms of five months each, may be licensed to practice osteopathy in the state by submitting to said board of osteopathic examiners such diploma and satisfying such board that they are legal holders thereof, or by undergoing an individual examination as hereinafter provided at a regular meeting of said board for examination. The fee for such license shall be twenty dollars payable to the secretary of said board of examiners when application is made for certificates; provided, that in case of failure of any applicant to pass a satisfactory examination, he will be entitled to a second examination without charge at the next succeeding meeting of the board; provided that all graduates of a reputable school of osteopathy who present themselves for examination and a license, and who have graduated later than April, 1907, shall present satisfactory evidence to the board of having actually attended such a school for a period of not less than three school years of nine months each; provided that all graduates of reputable schools of osteopathy who present themselves for examination and who have graduated later than January, 1919, shall present satisfactory evidence to the board of having actually attended such a school for a period of not less than four school years of eight months each, which was preceded by a four-years' high school course or its scholastic equivalent.

Each individual, after the first year of registration, holding a certificate to practice under this act and who is in active practice in this state, shall on or before the first day of April of each year pay a renewal fee of two ($2.00) dollars to the secretary of the board of osteopathic examiners; and each individual, after the first year of registration, holding a certificate to practice under this act, who is not in active practice, shall on or before the first of April of each year pay a renewal fee of one ($1.00) dollar to the secretary of the board. The secretary of the board shall before the 15th of March of each year send a notice to each individual holding a valid certificate to practice under this act and from whom a fee is due stating that such fee is due.

The certificate to practice under this act automatically becomes void when the renewal fee is not paid at the time named. Provided that the board may reinstate a practitioner whose certificate has lapsed upon the payment of all back renewal fees or upon the payment of ten ($10.00) dollars if the lapsed fees exceed that amount.

History: En. Ch. 51, L. 1905; re-en. Sec. 1596, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 124, L. 1919; re-en. Sec. 3127, R. C. M. 1921; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 79, L. 1925.

NOTE.—Sections 3138 to 3154 of this code now legalize the practice of chiropractic. All annotations to cases differentiating chiropractic from osteopathy were eliminated from the revised codes of Montana in 1921.

Operation and Effect

In a prosecution for practicing osteopathy without a license, the state is not required to negative the defendant's possession of the temporary certificate referred to in this section, this being a matter of defense. State v. Wood, 53 M 566, 569 et seq., 165 P 592; State v. Hopkins, 54 M 52, 64, 166 P 304.

An information charging one with practicing osteopathy without first obtaining a license need not allege that he had procured a temporary certificate permitting him to practice, this being a matter of defense. State v. Hopkins, 54 M 52, 64, 166 P 304.

3128. Temporary certificates. The secretary of the board of osteopathic examiners may upon examination, grant a certificate to an applicant to practice osteopathy until the next meeting of said board when he shall report the facts, at which time the temporary certificate shall expire, but such temporary certificate shall not be granted by the secretary of said board after the board has once rejected the applicant.

History: En. Ch. 51, L. 1905; re-en. Sec. 1597, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3128, R. C. M. 1921.

3129. Subjects of examination—appeal. All persons, after March 1, 1901, commencing the practice of osteopathy in this state, in any of its branches, shall apply to said board for a license to do so, and such applicant at the time and place designated by said board, shall submit to an examination in the following branches, to-wit: Anatomy, physiology, chemistry, pathology, gynecology, obstetrics, and theory and practice of osteopathy, and such other branches as are taught in well regulated and recognized schools of osteopathy and deemed advisable by said board and shall present evidence of having actually attended for at least twenty months, or four terms of five months each a legally authorized and regularly conducted school of osteopathy, recognized by said board of osteopathic examiners, except as otherwise provided in section 3126 of this code. All examination papers on subjects peculiar to osteopathy shall be examined and their sufficiency passed upon by members of said board, whose decision shall be final thereon subject, however, to the right of appeal, which appeal shall be to the district court of the county in which the examination is held and said district court shall review such examination without a jury and shall have the right to take testimony thereon and the decision of such district court shall be also subject to the right of appeal to the supreme court by any persons aggrieved thereby, and upon such appeal the supreme court shall have the right to consider questions of both law and fact, and said board shall cause such examination to be scientific and practical, but of sufficient severity to test the candidate's fitness to practice osteopathy. After examination the board shall grant a license to such applicants as shall pass the examination to practice osteopathy in the state of Montana, which license shall be granted by not less than two members of such board, attested by the seal thereof. For the support and maintenance of said board, the fee for such examination and license shall be twenty dollars, which shall be paid in advance to the secretary of said board to defray the expenses thereof.

3130. Certificate does not authorize the practice of major or operative surgery. The certificate provided for in the preceding section shall not authorize the holder thereof to prescribe or use drugs in the practice of osteopathy, or to perform major or operative surgery; and any person holding a certificate under this act, who shall prescribe or use drugs in the practice of osteopathy, or who shall perform a major or operative surgery, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor; provided, that nothing in this act shall be so construed as to prohibit any legalized osteopath in this state from practicing major or operative surgery after having passed a satisfactory examination in surgery before the state board of medical examiners of the state of Montana.

History: En. Ch. 51, L. 1905; re-en. Sec. 1599, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3130, R. C. M. 1921.

3131. Record of license. The person receiving such license shall have it recorded in the office of the county clerk in the county in which he or she resides, and the record shall be indorsed thereon. In case the person so licensed shall remove to another county to practice, the holder shall record the license in a like manner in the county into which he or she removed, and the county clerk is entitled to charge and receive the usual fee for making such record.

History: En. Ch. 51, L. 1905; re-en. Sec. 1600, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3131, R. C. M. 1921.

3132. Practice of osteopathy without license prohibited. Any person practicing osteopathy in this state without first obtaining a license herein provided for, or contrary to the provisions of this act, or who, for the purpose of obtaining such license, shall falsely represent himself or herself to be the holder of a diploma as herein provided, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, nor less than two hundred and fifty dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year, nor less than ninety days, or by both fine and imprisonment for each and every such offense. It shall be the duty of the respective county attorneys to prosecute violations of this act.

History: En. Sec. 8, p. 51, L. 1901; amd. Sec. 8, Ch. 51, L. 1905; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 112, L. 1907; Sec. 1601, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3132, R. C. M. 1921.

3133. Revocation of certificate. Any such certificate may be revoked by said board, upon satisfactory proof of fraud, or misrepresentation in procuring the same, or for any violation of the provisions of this act, or any gross immorality by the holder of such certificate.

History: En. Sec. 9, p. 51, L. 1901; re-en. Sec. 9, Ch. 51, L. 1905; re-en. Sec. 1602, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3133, R. C. M. 1921.

3134. Compensation of board—report to governor. Out of the funds coming into the possession of said board each of the members of said board may receive as compensation the sum of five dollars for each day actually engaged in the duties of their office, together with all legitimate and necessary expenses incurred in attending the meetings of said board. No part of the compensation or other expenses of said board shall be paid out of the state treasury. The fees coming into the treasury of said board shall be paid out upon a warrant of the president and secretary thereof in payment of the compensation and expenses of said board in carrying out the provisions of this act. Said board shall make an annual report of its proceedings to the governor of the state for the year ending on the thirty-first day of December preceding the making of said report. Said report shall be filed with the governor on or before the fifteenth day of January of each year.

History: En. Sec. 10, p. 51, L. 1901; re-en. Sec. 10, Ch. 51, L. 1905; re-en. Sec. 1603, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3134, R. C. M. 1921.

3135. Graduates may be licensed without examination—practitioners from other states. Every graduate of a reputable school of osteopathy, who has been strictly examined and thereafter licensed to practice osteopathy in another state, may be licensed to practice osteopathy in this state upon the production to the board of his or her diploma, and the license obtained in such other state and satisfactory evidence of good moral character, and the payment of all legal fees required of other applicants; but the board may examine the applicant as to his or her qualifications.

History: En. Sec. 11, Ch. 51, L. 1905; re-en. Sec. 1604, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3135, R. C. M. 1921.

3136. Definition of term “practicing osteopathy.” Every person shall be deemed practicing osteopathy within the meaning of this act who shall:

1. Append to, or use in connection with his or her name the words “doctor of osteopathy, or diplomat of osteopathy, or osteopath, or osteopathist, or osteopathic practitioner, or osteopathic physician,” or words of like import, or any abbreviation thereof, or the letters “D. O.”; or who shall

2. Profess publicly to, or who shall, either on his own behalf, in his own name, or in his trade-name, or in behalf of any other person, corporation, association, partnership, either as manager, bookkeeper, practitioner, or agent, treat, cure, alleviate, or relieve any ailment or disease of either mind or body, or cure or relieve any fracture or misplacement or abnormal condition, or bodily injury or deformity, by any treatment, or manipulation or method of manipulating a human body or any of its limbs, muscles, or parts, by the use of the hands, or mechanical appliances, in an effort or attempt to relieve any pressure, obstruction, misplacement, or defect, in any bone, muscle, ligament, nerve, vessel, organ, or part of the body, after having received, or with the intent or expectation of receiving therefor, either directly or indirectly, any bonus, gift, or compensation whatsoever; provided, however, that nothing in this section shall be construed to restrain or restrict any legally licensed physician or surgeon in the practice of his profession.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 12, Ch. 51, L. 1905; amd. Sec. 2, Ch. 112, L. 1907; Sec. 1605, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3136, R. C. M. 1921.

Operation and Effect

This section does not authorize an osteopath to practice medicine or surgery, but requires him to confine his practice to treatment by the use of the hands or mechanical appliances. State v. Dodd, 51 M 100, 106, 149 P 481.

Unless an exception found in a statute is part of the definition of the offense sought to be described, the state is not required to negative such exception in an indictment or information. The proviso contained in the second subdivision of the above section is not such an exception, since neither physician nor surgeon can practice osteopathy without first obtaining a license therefor. State v. Wood, 53 M 566, 569 et seq., 165 P 592; State v. Hopkins, 54 M 64, 166 P 304.

In an indictment or information the state is not required to negative the exception contained in subdivision 2 of this section. State v. Wood, 53 M 566, 165 P 592.

A physician or surgeon is not entitled, under the statute, to practice osteopathy without a license from the state board of osteopathic examiners. State v. Hopkins, 54 M 52, 59, 166 P 304.

3137. Osteopathy not practice of medicine. The system, method, or science of treating diseases of the human body, commonly known as osteopathy, is hereby declared not to be the practice of medicine or surgery within the meaning of sections 3116 to 3124, inclusive of this code, and not subject to the provisions of said sections.

History: En. Sec. 11, p. 51, L. 1901; re-en. Sec. 13, Ch. 51, L. 1905; re-en. Sec. 1606, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3137, R. C. M. 1921.

The secretary of said board shall keep a record of the proceedings of the board, which shall at all times be open to public inspection. Said board shall also keep on file with the secretary of state a copy of their rules and regulations for public inspection.

A license to practice chiropractic within this state shall be issued to the individual members of said board at the first meeting of said board upon payment of the regular fee as provided for in this act.

Examinations for license to practice chiropractic shall be made by said board according to the method deemed by it to be the most practicable and expeditious to test the applicant's qualifications. Such application shall be designated by a number instead of the applicant's name, so that the identity will not be discovered or disclosed to the members of the board until after the examination papers are graded.

All examinations shall be made in writing, the subjects of which shall be as follows: Anatomy, physiology, symptomatology, diagnosis, chiropractic orthopedy, principles of chiropractic and adjusting, sanitation and hygiene, urinalysis, gynecology, and palpation. Additional subjects may be prescribed from time to time by the board to meet new conditions. A license shall be granted to all applicants who shall correctly answer seventy-five per centum of all questions asked, and if any applicant shall fail to answer correctly sixty per centum of the questions on any branch of said examination, he or she shall not be entitled to a license.

3144. Definition of chiropractic. Chiropractic is the science that teaches that disease results from anatomic disrelation, and teaches the art of restoring anatomic relation by a process of adjusting by the use of the hand.

No other means of securing health shall be construed to be chiropractic except the application of the inherent qualities at the time in the patient or appertaining to the chiropractor.

History: En. initiative measure, Nov. 1918; effective under governor's proclamation, Dec. 28, 1918; re-en. Sec. 3144, R. C. M. 1921.

3145. Duties of chiropractic practitioners. Chiropractic practitioners shall observe and be subject to all state and municipal regulations relating to the control of contagious and infectious diseases, sign death and birth certificates, and as to any and all matters pertaining to public health, shall report to the proper health officers the same as other practitioners.

3146. Rights and limitations governing practice. Chiropractors licensed under this act shall have the right to practice that science defined as chiropractic under section 3144 of this code, in accordance with the method, thought, and practice of chiropractors, and they shall be permitted to use the prefix Dr. or Doctor as a title, but shall not in any way imply that they are regular physicians or surgeons. They shall not prescribe for or administer to any person any medicine or drugs, nor practice medicine or surgery, nor osteopathy; except that the use of antiseptics for purposes of sanitation and hygiene, and to prevent infection and contagion, shall be permitted.

History: En. initiative measure, Nov. 1918; effective under governor's proclamation, Dec. 28, 1918; re-en. Sec. 3146, R. C. M. 1921.

3147. Refusal and revocation of license—proceedings—reinstatement. The state board of chiropractic examiners may refuse to grant or revoke a license to practice chiropractic in this state, or may cause a licentiate's name to be removed from the records in the office of the recorder of deeds in this state, upon any of the following grounds, to-wit: The employment of fraud or deception in applying for a license or in passing an examination provided for in this act; the practice of chiropractic under a false or assumed name, or the impersonation of another practitioner of like or different name; the conviction of a crime involving moral turpitude; habitual intemperance in the use of ardent spirits, narcotics, or stimulants, to such an extent as to incapacitate him or her for the performance of their professional duties. Any person who is a licentiate, or who is an applicant for a license to practice chiropractic, against whom any of the foregoing grounds for revoking or refusing a license is presented to said board with a view of having the board revoke or refuse to grant a license, shall be furnished with copy of the complaint, and shall have a hearing before said board in person or by attorney, and witnesses may be examined by said board respecting the guilt or innocence of said accused.

Said board may at any time within two years of the refusal, revocation, or cancellation of registration under this section, by a majority vote, issue a new license or grant a license to the person affected, restoring him to or conferring upon him all the rights and privileges of, and pertaining to the practice of chiropractic as defined and regulated by this act. Any person to whom such rights and privileges have been restored shall pay to the secretary-treasurer the sum of twenty-five dollars upon issuance of a new license.

History: En. initiative measure, Nov. 1918; effective under governor's proclamation, Dec. 28, 1918; re-en. Sec. 3147, R. C. M. 1921.

Every person who shall receive a license from the state board of chiropractic examiners shall have it recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county of which he resides, and shall likewise have it recorded in the counties to which he shall subsequently remove for the purpose of practicing chiropractic.

The failure or refusal on the part of the holder of a license to have it recorded before he or she shall be in the practice of chiropractic in this state, after having been notified by the state board of chiropractic examiners to do so, shall be sufficient grounds to revoke or cancel a license and render it null and void. The recorder shall keep for public inspection, in a book provided for that purpose, a complete list and description of the licenses recorded by him. When any such licenses shall be presented to him for record, he shall stamp upon the face thereof his signed memorandum of the date when such license was presented for record.

3149. Renewal. One of the purposes of this act is to require each licensee to keep abreast of and informed about the developments and advances in the science of chiropractic, and, therefore, each license shall expire on the first day of September in each year, and shall be renewed then or thereafter, by the board, upon the payment of a renewal fee of five dollars ($5.00), and the presentation of evidence satisfactory to said board that the said licensee, in the year preceding the application for renewal, attended at least one of the two-day educational programs as conducted by the Montana Chiropractic Association; provided, that the board may grant renewals, but not consecutive renewals, upon a showing satisfactory to said board that attendance upon said educational programs was unavoidably prevented, provided that new licensees during the six months preceding said September first, by examination, shall be granted renewal licenses without attending said educational programs, provided, that a failure to renew a license shall not prevent a licensee from subsequently applying for and receiving a license, as if there were no lapse of time between the expiration of the old license, and the granting of a renewal license; provided, that nothing herein shall prevent a renewal of said license if in said preceding year for any reason, at least one of the said educational programs is not conducted in the state of Montana.

History: En. Sec. 12, initiative measure, Nov. 1918; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 90, L. 1921; re-en. Sec. 3149, R. C. M. 1921; amd. Sec. 2, Ch. 129, L. 1933.

3150. Disposition of fees—receipts and disbursements—per diem and mileage. All examinations and renewal fees received by the state board of chiropractic examiners under this act shall be paid to the secretary-treasurer of said board, who shall at the end of each month deposit the same with the state treasurer, and the said state treasurer shall place said money so received in a special fund of the state board of chiropractic examiners and shall pay the same out in warrants drawn by the auditor of the state thereof, upon vouchers issued and signed by the president and the secretary-treasurer of said board. Said money so received and placed in said fund may be used by the state board of chiropractic examiners in defraying their expenses in carrying out the provisions of this act.

The secretary-treasurer shall keep a true and accurate account of all funds received and all vouchers issued by the board; and on the first day of December of each year he shall file with the governor of the state a report of all receipts and disbursements and the proceedings of said board for the fiscal year.

The members of said board shall receive a per diem of ten dollars for each day during which they shall be actually engaged in the discharge of their duties, and mileage at the rate of three cents per mile for each mile necessarily traveled in going to and from any meeting of said board.

Such per diem and mileage and such other incidental expenses necessarily connected with said board shall be paid out of the fund of the state board of chiropractic examiners, and not otherwise.

History: En. initiative measure, Nov. 1918; re-en. Sec. 3150, R. C. M. 1921.

3151. Bond of treasurer—dismissal of members of board. The treasurer of said board shall give bond in such sum and with such sureties as the board may deem proper. Upon sufficient proof to the governor of the inability or misconduct of a member of the board, said member shall be dismissed, and the governor shall appoint as his successor some licensed chiropractor practicing in this state, who shall be a graduate of a different school than those represented on the board.

History: En. initiative measure, Nov. 1918; re-en. Sec. 3151, R. C. M. 1921.

C. Ph. C., or any word or title to influence belief that he is engaged in the practice of chiropractic, without first complying with the provisions of this act, or any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than thirty days or more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

History: En. initiative measure, Nov. 1918; re-en. Sec. 3153, R. C. M. 1921.

3154. Limitations upon construction of act. Nothing in this act contained shall be construed to restrain or restrict any legally licensed physician or surgeon or any legally licensed osteopath in the practice of his profession. The practice of chiropractic as herein defined, is hereby declared not to be the practice of medicine or surgery within the meaning of the laws of the state of Montana defining the same, and is further declared not to be the practice of osteopathy within the meaning of the laws of the state of Montana defining the same. Duly licensed chiropractors shall not be subject to the provisions of sections 3125 to 3137, inclusive, of this code, nor liable to any prosecution thereunder.

Police Regulation

The practice of pharmacy is a proper subject for police regulation. Johnson v. City of Great Falls, 38 M 369, 373, 99 P 1059.

History: En. Sec. 641, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 1623, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 2, Ch. 134, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 3171, R. C. M. 1921.

3172. Assistant pharmacists. Assistant pharmacists, in the meaning of this act, shall comprise all persons over eighteen years of age, having had at least one year's practical experience in the compounding and dispensing of physician's prescriptions, and who shall pass such examination as the state board of pharmacy of the state of Montana shall require, and pay to the state board of pharmacy a fee of five dollars. Assistant pharmacists shall not be permitted, under this act, to institute, conduct, or manage, on their own account, or to assume the management for others of any pharmacy, store, shop, or institution for the retailing, vending, compounding, or dispensing of drugs, medicines, poisons, chemicals, or pharmaceutical preparations, and are to be governed by the rules of the state board of pharmacy of the state of Montana.

History: En. Sec. 642, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 1624, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3, Ch. 134, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 3172, R. C. M. 1921.

Immediately upon the passage of this act, the Montana state pharmaceutical association shall submit to the governor of the state of Montana the names of five registered pharmacists having had at least ten years' practical experience as dispensing pharmacists; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to apply to or exclude registered pharmacists of less than ten years' practical experience who are graduates in pharmacy; and from this number the governor shall appoint three, at least one of whom shall be a graduate in pharmacy, and the said three registered pharmacists shall constitute the state board of pharmacy of the state of Montana, to have and to hold office for one, two, and three years respectively, as designated in their appointments, or until their successors have been duly appointed and qualified.

Annually thereafter the Montana state pharmaceutical association shall elect five registered pharmacists having ten years' practical experience as dispensing pharmacists; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to apply to or exclude registered pharmacists of less than ten years' experience who are graduates in pharmacy. And the governor shall appoint one registered pharmacist from this number to fill the vacancies annually occurring on the board. The term of office shall be three years, or until his successor shall be appointed and qualified. In case of resignation or removal of any member of the said board, or a vacancy occurring from any cause, the governor shall immediately appoint from the remaining selections of the Montana state pharmaceutical association a registered pharmacist to serve as a member of the board for the remainder of the unexpired term; provided, however, that the said board shall always contain at least one graduate in pharmacy.

The board shall have power to make by-laws for the full and proper execution of its duties under this act; to prescribe the forms and methods of application, examination, and registration; to demand and receive from applicants the fees herein provided, which shall be held by the said board and applied to the payment of salaries and other necessary expenses incident to the full discharge of its duties.

by the board, and deposit with the secretary of the board a fee of fifteen dollars; then, on presenting himself at the time and place directed by the board, and sustaining a satisfactory examination, he shall be granted an appropriate certificate, setting forth his particular qualifications; provided, that in case of failure of an applicant to pass a satisfactory examination, he will be entitled to a second examination, without charge, at the next succeeding meeting of the board.

Any person who is not a registered pharmacist, within the meaning of this act, who shall conduct, manage, or keep, either for himself or others, a pharmacy, store, shop, or institution for the retailing, dispensing, compounding, or vending of drugs, medicines, poisons, chemicals, or pharmaceutical preparations, and who shall not have in his employ a registered pharmacist, within the meaning of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction pay a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than two hundred and fifty dollars.

Any person who shall wilfully adulterate or alter, or cause or permit to be adulterated or altered, any drug, medicine, or pharmaceutical preparation, or shall sell or offer for sale any such adulterated or altered article, and any person who shall substitute, or cause to be substituted, one material for another, with the intention to defraud or deceive the purchaser, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and liable to a prosecution therefor. All penalties collected for such violation shall be paid into the county treasurer of the county wherein such conviction may be had for the benefit of the school fund of such county.

3185. Sale of poisons regulated. It shall be unlawful for any person, from and after the passage of this act, to retail any of the following named poisons, to-wit: Arsenic and its preparations, corrosive sublimate, white and red precipitate, biniodide of mercury, cyanide of potassium, hydrocyanic acid, strychnine, and all poisonous vegetable alkaloids and their salts, the essential oil of almonds; opium and its preparations, except paregoric and other preparations of opium containing less than two grains to the ounce; aconite, belladonna, colchicum, conium, nux-vomica, digitalis, and their pharmaceutical preparations; croton oil, chloroform, chloral hydrate, sulphate of zinc, mineral acids, carbolic acid, oxalic acid; wood alcohol; without labeling the box, bottle, vessel, paper or package in which said poison is contained, with the name of the article, and the word "poison," and the name and place of business of the seller. Also, each label of such poison shall contain a concise statement of the principal antidotes for the poison so labeled. Nor shall it be lawful for any person to deliver or sell any poisons enumerated above, unless upon due inquiry it be found that the purchaser is aware of its poisonous character, and represents that it be used for a legitimate purpose. It shall be unlawful for any physician to sell, or give to, or prescribe for any person any opium, morphine, alkaloid-cocaine, or alpha or beta eucaine, or codeine or heroin, or any derivative, mixture or preparation of any of them, except to a patient believed in good faith to require the same for medical use, and in quantities proportioned to the needs of such patients.

Any person found guilty of the violation of this act shall be punished for each separate offense (and each and every individual case shall constitute a separate offense) by a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a period of not less than sixty days nor more than one hundred days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

3189. Regulation of sale of opium and other narcotics. It shall be unlawful for any person to sell, barter, exchange, distribute, give away, or in any manner dispose of, at retail, or to a consumer, opium or coca leaves, or any compound, manufacture, salt, derivative, or preparation thereof, within this state, except upon the original written prescription of a duly licensed physician, duly licensed to practice medicine in Montana, and pursuant to all the requirements of this act; provided, that nothing in this act shall be construed as preventing a dentist or veterinary surgeon, duly licensed to practice in Montana, from obtaining, on federal government permits, for use in his practice, the drugs or narcotics mentioned in this section.

re-en. Sec. 3189, R. C. M. 1921.

Constitutionality

Held, that the intent of the legislature to prohibit the possession and use of narcotics under certain conditions is sufficiently expressed in the title of chapter 202, laws of 1921 (secs. 3189-3202, R. C. M. 1921). State v. Mark, 69 M 18, 22, 220 P 94.

Controlling Statute

Held, that this section, enacted in 1921 as section 1, chapter 202, laws of 1921, prohibiting the sale, inter alia, of coca leaves or a derivative thereof, supersedes section 3186, R. C. M. 1921, enacted in 1895, so far as it comprehends or conflicts with the subject matter of the two latter sections, and that the trial court's holding that an information charging the unlawful sale "of cocaine, a derivative of coca leaves" was based upon this section was correct. State v. Wong Fong, 75 M 81, 83, 241 P 1072.

Held, in a prosecution for unlawful sale of morphine hydrochloride, that this section, enumerating the drugs a sale of which shall be unlawful except as therein provided, impliedly repealed section 3186, R. C. M. 1921, dealing with the same subject and is now controlling, as is section 3202, R. C. M. 1921, as amended by Ch. 38, L. 1925, declaring a violation of the act a felony instead of a misdemeanor as theretofore under section 3188, R. C. M. 1921. State v. Brennan, 89 M 479, 481, 300 P 273.

Information

An information must charge the crime alleged to have been committed, with certainty and precision, setting forth all the affirmative facts which constitute a prima facie case under the statute charged to have been violated. State v. Hem, 69 M 57, 59, 200 P 80.

Id. Under the above rule, held that an information charging a violation of the narcotic law (this section) was insufficient for failure to state the name of the purchaser of the drug and that the sale was made at retail or to a consumer.

In the prosecution for the illegal sale of morphine under this section, the information need not contain the negative averment that the drug was not sold upon prescription; if it does contain such an allegation it is surplusage, rendering proof thereof unnecessary, the fact that it was so sold being a matter of defense. State v. Finley, 72 M 42, 45, 231 P 390.

An information charging unlawful sale of narcotics need not negative any of the exceptions mentioned in this section, the burden resting upon the person accused to show, as a matter of defense, that he comes within any one of them. State v. Brennan, 89 M 479, 481, 300 P 273.

3190. Remedies excepted from act. The provisions of this act shall not be construed to apply to the sale, barter, exchange, distribution, giving away, dispensing, or the disposition in any manner, or the possession, within this state of preparations and remedies which do not contain more than two grains of opium, or more than one-fourth of a grain of morphine, or more than one-eighth of a grain of heroin, or more than one grain of codeine, or any salt or derivative of any of them in one fluid ounce; or, if a solid or semi-solid preparation, in one avoirdupois ounce; or to liniments, ointments, or other preparations which are prepared for external use only, or to decocanized coca leaves or preparations made therefrom, or to other preparations of coca leaves, which do not contain cocaine; provided, that such remedies and preparations are sold, distributed, given away, disposed, or possessed as medicine and not for the purpose of evading the intendment and provisions of this act, except this act shall apply to liniments, ointments, and other preparations which contain cocaine or any of its salts, or alpha or beta eucaine or any of their salts or any synthetic substitute for them.

Failure to Negative Exception

Under the rule that an indictment or information need not negative an exception contained in the statute under which the prosecution is had, unless the exception is necessary to a complete definition of the offense sought to be charged, held that an information charging unlawful possession of opium was sufficient as against the objection that the failure of the pleader to negative the exception contained in this section providing that the act should not apply to the possession of preparations and remedies which do not contain more than two grains of opium to the ounce, rendered it insufficient to charge a public offense. State v. Mun, 76 M 278, 280, 246 P 257.

3191. Filling of prescriptions. The original written prescription required by the provisions of section 3189 of this code shall be signed in full by the duly licensed physician duly licensed to practice medicine in Montana, or by a veterinary surgeon duly licensed to practice in Montana, issuing it and dated as of the day on which so signed, and shall also indicate the office address and office hours of such duly licensed physician duly licensed to practice medicine in Montana, and the name and address of the person to whom such written prescription is issued, and when prescribed by a duly licensed veterinary surgeon, shall indicate in addition the kind of animal for the treatment of which such written prescription is issued and the name and address of the owner thereof. No written prescription containing more than four grains of morphine, thirty grains of opium, two grains of heroin, six grains of codeine, or five grains of cocaine shall be filled unless the due issuance and correctness thereof be first verified. No written prescription shall be filled without sufficient verification, if, for any reason, the proper issuance and presentation thereof appears questionable. Such written prescription shall be exactly filled as soon as received, or as soon thereafter as practicable, but no such written prescription shall be filled more than ten days subsequent to the issuance date which said written prescription bears. The person filling such prescription shall write or indicate thereon the date of filling and the date when and the name and address of the person to whom he delivers the drugs so prescribed. Such written prescription shall be filled but once and shall not be copied, except for the purpose of record by the duly licensed physician, duly licensed to practice medicine in Montana, or by the person filling it, and shall be preserved on file, receiving a consecutive file number, by the person filing it, for a period of two years from the date on which such prescription is filled, in such a way as to be readily accessible to the officers, agents, employees and officials mentioned in this act.

3192. Use of opiates by physicians, veterinary surgeons and dentists.

A duly licensed physician or veterinary surgeon duly licensed to practice medicine in Montana may prescribe, dispense, distribute or administer, and a duly licensed dentist duly licensed to practice in Montana, may administer, within this state, to his patient any of the drugs mentioned in this act, providing such dispensing, distribution, or administering is made in good faith and in the course of his professional practice for medicinal purposes only; provided, further, that such duly licensed physician, duly licensed to practice medicine in Montana, dentist or veterinary surgeon shall keep a record of all such drugs so dispensed, distributed, or administered, showing in each instance the amount so dispensed, distributed, or administered, the date when and the name and address of the patient to whom such drugs are so dispensed, distributed, or administered, except such drugs as may be dispensed, distributed, or administered to a patient upon whom such duly licensed physician duly licensed to practice medicine in Montana, dentist or veterinary surgeon shall personally attend in emergency; and such record shall be kept for a period of two years from the date of dispensing, distributing, or administering such drugs, subject to the inspection provided for in this act. It shall be unlawful for any licensed veterinary surgeon to dispense, distribute, or administer any of the drugs mentioned in this act for the treatment of or consumption by a human being. It shall be unlawful, except as provided for in this act, for a duly licensed physician, duly licensed to practice medicine in Montana, to prescribe, dispense, distribute, or administer, and for a duly licensed dentist or veterinary surgeon to administer the drugs mentioned in this act.

The words "good faith," as mentioned, shall be interpreted to mean that where a duly licensed physician, duly licensed to practice medicine in Montana, dentist or veterinary surgeon shall prescribe, dispense, distribute, administer, or in any manner give opium or coca leaves, or any compound manufacture, salt, derivative, or preparation thereof, it shall be for the actual relief or treatment of disease or surgical operation, but if such prescribing, dispensing, distribution, administering, or giving of such drugs is not being issued for relief in the treatment of disease or surgical operation, and such drugs are being used for the purpose of providing the drug addict with the aforesaid drug or drugs sufficient to keep him comfortable, it shall be considered as a perversion of the meaning of the words "good faith" as above contained. The prescribing for, dispensing, administering, or giving of such drugs to an addict for self-administration by such patient shall not be deemed to constitute in itself legitimate medical treatment.

3194. Physicians to report prescriptions issued to drug addicts. A duly licensed physician duly licensed to practice medicine in Montana, who prescribes for, dispenses, administers, or in any manner gives any of the drugs mentioned in this act, to a person known to him or believed by him to be an habitual user or a drug addict, shall, within forty-eight hours, report to the county attorney of the county in which said physician prescribes for, dispenses, administers, or in any manner gives any of the drugs mentioned in this act, the name, address, physical and mental condition, and any necessary substantial information regarding such person. "An habitual user of such drugs" or "drug addict" is defined as follows: "Any person who has needed or demanded the prescribing for, dispensing or administering, or in any manner the giving of opium or coca leaves or any of their derivatives, salts, preparations, or compounds, at more or less regular intervals for thirty consecutive days prior to the day such person applies to a physician or to a physician of any institution for the prescribing for, dispensing, administering, or the giving in any way of any such drugs or their derivatives." If a physician shall prescribe for, dispense, administer, or in any manner give any of the drugs mentioned in this act, daily for more than thirty days to a patient, such physician shall register with the county attorney the name of such person, together with a statement of the physical and mental condition of such person, and a prognosis as to the probable future necessity for continuing the prescribing, dispensing, administering, or the giving of such drugs to such patient, and such prognosis shall include an estimate as to the length of time which, according to the judgment of the physician, will be required to remove the necessity of administering the aforesaid narcotic drugs to such patient. It shall be the duty of the county attorney upon receipt of such notice to immediately file a complaint against such habitual user of drugs or drug addict in the district court of his county.

3195. Arrest and commitment of drug addicts. Whenever a complaint shall be made to any judge of the district court that any person is addicted to the use of drugs mentioned in this act in a manner contrary to the public welfare, such judge of the district court must issue and deliver to some peace officer for service a warrant of arrest, directing that such person be arrested and brought before said judge for examination, and if, after said examination, said judge is satisfied that said person is addicted to the use of the drugs mentioned in this act, in a manner contrary to the public welfare, he may commit such person to a state, county, city, or other hospital or institution where facilities are provided for the treatment of drugs addicts. Whenever it is made to appear to the judge of the district court that such person is no longer addicted to the use of the aforesaid drugs in a manner contrary to the public welfare, or at any other time in his discretion, he may order a discharge from such commitment. The provisions of this act shall not be construed to prohibit any person committed to any institution under its provisions from appealing for a review of the sufficiency of the evidence upon which the commitment was made.

3200. Regulation of possession or control of drugs. It shall be unlawful for any person to have in his possession or under his control any of the drugs mentioned in this act, if such possession or control is obtained in a manner contrary to the provisions of this act; and such possession or control shall be presumptive evidence of a violation of this act; provided, that this section shall not apply to the possession or control of the aforesaid drugs by any employee or agent, acting within the scope of his employment or agency, or any person dealing in such drugs pursuant to all the requirements of this act, and such possession or control does not operate any of the provisions or the intendment of this act; or to the possession or control by a nurse for medicinal treatment only, and not on his own account, acting under the supervision and direction of a duly licensed physician, duly licensed to practice medicine in Montana, or by a dentist or veterinary surgeon engaged in the legitimate practice of his profession; or to the possession and control of the aforesaid drugs by any United States, state, county, municipal, or other duly authorized public officer or official who has such possession or control by reason of his official duties; or to the possession or control of the aforesaid drugs by a warehouseman or a common carrier holding such possession or control under the direction of a person who has received such drugs pursuant to the requirements of this act; nor to persons conducting wholesale or retail drug establishments who are registered by the commissioner of internal revenue under and pursuant to the provisions of an act of Congress approved December 17, 1914, being an act entitled: "An act to provide for the registration of, with collectors of internal revenue, and to impose a special tax upon all persons who produce, import, manufacture, compound, deal in, dispense, sell, distribute, or give away opium or coca leaves, their salts, derivatives, or preparations, and for other purposes"; provided, further that it shall not be necessary to negative any of the aforesaid exemptions in any complaint, information, or indictment, or other writ or proceeding laid or brought under this act, and the burden of proof of any such exemption shall be upon the defendant.

Enumeration of Drugs

Held, in a prosecution for the unlawful possession of a prohibited drug (hydrochloride cocaine) brought under this section, that the drugs referred to herein by the phrase "any of the drugs mentioned in this act," are those set forth in chapter 5, laws of 1929, amendatory of section 3186, R. C. M. 1921, theretofore amended, and that, while hydrochloride cocaine is not in terms mentioned therein, it is a derivative of alkaloid cocaine specifically enumerated and as such proscribed by said chapter. State v. Mah Sam Hing, 89 M 178, 181, 295 P 1014.

Information

Under this section, the information in a prosecution for unlawfully selling narcotics need not negative any of the exceptions named in the act, among them that the sale was not made upon an original prescription given by a duly licensed physician, the burden of proving any of the exceptions being upon defendant. State v. Vallie, 82 M 456, 461, 268 P 493.

The information in a prosecution under this section charged the unlawful possession of alkaloid cocaine and cocaine. During the trial the court of its own motion ordered the pleading amended to conform to the proof by substituting the words "cocaine hydrochloride." Held, in answer to the contention that by the amendment a charge different from that originally filed had been substituted, that cocaine hydrochloride is derived from alkaloid cocaine and indirectly from coca leaves, and therefore falls within the prohibition of chapter 5, laws of 1929, embracing any derivative of the drugs mentioned therein, among which is alkaloid cocaine, and that therefore defendant was not prejudiced by the amendment, especially where he denied the possession of any prohibited drug. State v. Mah Sam Hing, 89 M 179, 181, 295 P 1014.

Possession Presumptive Evidence

Under this section, it is unlawful for any person (other than those permitted by the act to have lawful possession of them) to have in his possession any of the drugs mentioned therein, and the possession or control of any such drugs shall be presumptive evidence that the drug is possessed or controlled in violation of the law; hence the contention that the presumption of guilt from possession does not arise until it be first proved that the possession was obtained contrary to the provisions of the act is without merit. (Dic-tum in State v. Mark, 69 M 18, to the contrary, disapproved.) State v. Mun, 76 M 278, 280, 246 P 257.

Under this section, the mere possession of narcotics is prima facie evidence of guilt and therefore lack of knowledge, on the part of the recipient of a package through the mails, that it contained morphine did not render her arrest unlawful, her lack in that respect being a matter of defense at the trial. State v. District Court et al., 82 M 515, 519 et seq., 268 P 501.

3202. Penalties for violations. Any person, either principal or agent except such persons as are duly authorized by law, having possession or control of any drug mentioned in sections 3189 to 3201, both inclusive, shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars ($500.00), nor more than three thousand dollars ($3000.00), and by imprisonment in the state prison for not less than one year, nor more than five years.

Any person, either principal or agent, who sells, barter, exchanges, distributes, gives away, or in any manner disposes of any of the drugs mentioned in sections above designated to a person over the age of eighteen (18) years, contrary to the provisions of said sections, shall upon conviction, be punished by a fine of not less than one thousand ($1000.00), nor more than three thousand dollars ($3000.00), and by imprisonment in the state prison for not less than five (5) years; nor more than ten (10) years.

Any person, either principal or agent, who sells, barter, exchanges, distributes, gives away, or in any manner disposes of any of the drugs mentioned in the sections above designated, contrary to the provisions of said sections, to any person of the age of eighteen (18) years, or under, shall upon conviction be punished by imprisonment in the state prison for not less than five years nor more than life.

Controlling Statute

Held, in a prosecution for unlawful sale of morphine hydrochloride, that section 3189, R. C. M. 1921, enumerating the drugs a sale of which shall be unlawful except as therein provided, impliedly repealed section 3186, R. C. M. 1921, dealing with the same subject, and is now controlling, as is this section, declaring a violation of the act a felony instead of a misdemeanor as theretofore under section 3188, R. C. M. 1921. State v. Brennan, 89 M 479, 482, 300 P 273.

Not Necessary to Plead Age

While this section prescribes a more severe punishment where an unlawful sale of narcotics is made to a person under the age of eighteen years than where the purchaser is over that age, the information need not allege the age, age having nothing to do with the commission of the offense, it being a matter to be taken into consideration by the court and jury in prescribing the penalty on a conviction. State v. Brennan, 89 M 479, 482, 300 P 273.

Id. Where the age of the person to whom defendant unlawfully sold morphine did not appear from the record, but the punishment inflicted was less than the penalty prescribed for a sale to one under eighteen years of age and within the limits prescribed for a sale to one over that age (this section), his rights were not injuriously affected by an alleged defect in the information for failure to allege his age and consequent absence of proof in that respect, where the court in its instructions relative to the penalty made no mention of the more severe punishment but confined itself to the lesser provided for in a case where the purchaser is over the age of eighteen years.

Place of Imprisonment

Where, as in the act prohibiting traffic in narcotics (this section), the law does not fix the place of imprisonment, the place is in the county jail or city prison, and therefore a judgment not prescribing where the imprisonment shall be served is not invalid. (Construed before amendment providing place of imprisonment.) State v. Toy, 65 M 230, 235, 211 P 303.

Where the punishment for an offense is fixed by law (as in this section) at imprisonment without stating the place of confinement, the place of imprisonment is the county jail and not the state prison. (Construed before amendment providing place of imprisonment.) State v. Mark, 69 M 18, 22, 220 P 94.

3202.1. Unlawful to dispense Mescal Button. That it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, corporation or association to sell, furnish, or give away, or offer to sell, furnish or give away, or have in his or its possession Peyote (Pellote), botanically known as Lophophora Williamsii; or Agava Americana, commonly known as the Mescal Button; or any compound, derivative, or preparation thereon.

History: En. Sec. 1, Ch. 22, L. 1923.

Held, that section 4, article III of the state constitution, guaranteeing the free exercise and enjoyment of religious profession and worship, is not in conflict with any provision of the federal constitution, and that such provision cannot be invoked as a protection against legislation enacted by chapter 22, laws of 1923, (this section), prohibiting the unlawful possession of peyote (a narcotic), under the claim that the drug was possessed for use by members of a church to which defendant belonged, for sacramental purposes. State v. Big Sheep, 75 M 219, 225, 243 P 1067.

3202.2. Penalty for violation. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not to exceed five hundred ($500.00) dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail for a period of not to exceed six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

History: En. Sec. 2, Ch. 22, L. 1923.

3202.3. Unlawful to possess or dispose of mariahuana. No person, save as in section 3202.5, shall use, possess, sell, furnish, or otherwise dispose of any mariahuana seeds or plants (also known as cannabis sativa, cannabis indica, or Indian hemp) or any derivative mixture or preparation thereof, for any purpose whatsoever.

NURSING—REGULATION OF PRACTICE

Section 3203.	Issuance of licenses by governor to nurses.
3204.	Appointment of board of examiners for nurses.
3205.	Filling of vacancies in board.
3206.	Organization of board.
3207.	Subjects on which examination to be held.

- 3208. Duty of inspector of training schools—registration of nurses.
- 3209. Examination of applicants.
- 3210. Qualifications of applicants—evidence of—registration fee.
- 3211. Issuance of certificate by reciprocity.
- 3211.1. Renewal of certificate—fee.
- 3212. Appeals to state association of graduate nurses and to district court.
- 3213. All applicants to be examined after July, 1917.
- 3214. Unlawful to practice without certificate.
- 3215. Interpretation of act.
- 3216. Revocation of certificate.

3203. Issuance of licenses by governor to nurses. The governor of the state of Montana shall have the power, and it shall be his duty, to issue a license or certificate of registration to any person practicing the profession of nursing the sick, upon the recommendation of the board of examiners for nurses, said board to be appointed as hereinafter provided for.

History: En. Sec. 1, Ch. 50, L. 1913; re-en. Sec. 3203, R. C. M. 1921; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 38, L. 1925.

Board of Examiners

The duty imposed by this statute upon the state board of examiners for nurses to examine persons who seek registration as professional nurses, and judge of their qualifications, is quasi judicial, and its performance in any particular way cannot be compelled by mandamus. Where, however, its discretion has been abused, or arbitrarily or capriciously exercised, the writ does lie to compel a proper exercise of the powers granted. State ex rel. Marshall v. District Court, 50 M 289, 294, 146 P 743.

Mandamus does not lie to compel the state board of examiners for nurses to recommend a person to the governor for certificate as a registered nurse, in the absence of a clear showing of abuse of discretion. State ex rel. Scollard v. Board of Examiners, 52 M 91, 98, 156 P 124.

Id. The fact that the act creating the board of examiners for nurses does not provide that the members thereof take an official oath cannot detract from their character as public officers, since the section of the constitution, requiring every public officer within the state to take the oath therein prescribed, is self-executing.

Constitutionality

This statute is not unconstitutional as depriving, without due process of law, nurses who have not registered of the right to follow a lawful business or calling, since it is expressly provided that it shall not apply to gratuitous nursing, nor to any person nursing for hire who does not pretend to have special training and to be a registered nurse. State ex rel. Marshall v. District Court, 50 M 289, 296, 146 P 743.

Purpose of Act.

The aim of this act is not to prohibit the practice of nursing, either gratuitously or for hire, but to designate the persons for whose qualifications the state is willing to stand sponsor, and to forbid persons from claiming such sponsorship who are not entitled to it. The matter is wholly administrative, and the process of administration may be committed to any agency the legislature may choose to select, with or without direct appeal to the courts or elsewhere. State ex rel. Marshall v. District Court, 50 M 289, 297, 146 P 743.

3204. Appointment of board of examiners for nurses. The governor of the state of Montana shall, within ninety days after the passage and approval of this act, designate and appoint five persons who shall constitute the board of examiners for nurses. Said board shall consist of five members, and shall be appointed by the governor from the membership of the Montana state association of graduated nurses. The first board shall hold office during the following terms:

One member for the period of one year;

Two members for the period of two years;

Two members for the period of three years—and the members and the terms thereof to be designated by the governor.

3205. Filling of vacancies in board. Subsequent to the organization of state board of examiners for nurses, the governor of the state of Montana shall fill all vacancies and shall perpetuate said board by appointment of members thereof, which members for appointment shall be selected from persons who are registered nurses under the provisions of this act, and who shall be members of the Montana state association of graduate nurses, and who shall be actual residents of the state of Montana for a period of at least one year immediately preceding the date of appointment and who have actively engaged in the profession of nursing for five years prior to such appointment; and there shall be at all times at least two members of said board who shall have had at least two years' experience in educational work among nurses, or who have had two or more years' experience in the instruction of nurses in training schools.

The terms for which said members shall be appointed shall be for three years, except those first appointed and those to fill unexpired terms.

3206. Organization of board—officers and compensation. The members of the board shall, immediately after their appointment, meet at the city of Helena for the purpose of organizing said board, and shall elect one of their number president, and shall elect one of their number as treasurer, and shall also elect a secretary, who shall not be a member of the board, who shall also act as inspector of the training schools for nurses, and perform such other services as may be required by the board, and who shall devote her entire time to such work. The board shall adopt a seal which shall remain in the custody of the secretary; the secretary shall keep the records and minutes of the meeting of the board, and shall record in a suitable book the names of all the nurses and training schools registered under this act. The president and secretary of said board shall hold office for the period of one year, and until their successors are appointed and qualified. The salary of the secretary shall be settled and fixed by the board, not exceeding, however, the sum of twenty-four hundred dollars per year. The other members of the board shall receive ten dollars per day while actually engaged in attendance upon meeting of said board, and ten dollars per day for actual time lost in traveling to and from board meetings, and necessary expenses incurred in attending such meetings.

This shall be in full for their expenses, same to be paid from the funds in the hands of the treasurer of the board.

3207. Subjects on which examination to be held. Said board shall provide a schedule of subjects upon which applicants shall be examined to qualify for registration under this act, which subjects shall include anatomy, physiology, obstetrics and gynecology, surgery, hygiene and bacteriology, materia-medica, medical and contagious diseases, pediatrics, dietetics, and nursing ethics, and history of nursing.

History: En. Sec. 5, Ch. 50, L. 1913; amd. Sec. 3, Ch. 117, L. 1919; re-en. Sec. 3207, R. C. M. 1921; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 129, L. 1929.

3208. Duty of inspector of training schools—registration of nurses. The inspector of training schools shall inspect all training schools for nurses in the state of Montana, and shall report to the board and the governor such training schools as shall provide courses of instruction in the subjects required by the board. The board shall register for a period of one year all such training schools, and shall issue a certificate of registration thereto. Any school so registered shall be required to pay to the treasurer of the board a fee of twenty-five dollars upon registration. The fee for a renewal certificate of registration for the period of one year shall be five dollars. The secretary shall also enter in the register kept for such purposes the names of all nurses who are registered under the provisions of this act, and such register shall be a public record.

3209. Examination of applicants. The board shall adopt rules, which may be changed from time to time, for the examination of applicants for registration under this act, and the board shall meet not less than once each year for the purpose of conducting examinations for applicants for registration. The time and place of meeting of said board shall be advertised in the public press, and notice shall be sent to each training school registered under this act, to each regularly organized association of nurses within the state, to at least one journal of nursing, and notice shall be mailed to each person who has made application for examination under the provisions of this act, at least thirty days prior to said meeting. At such meeting it shall be the duty of the board to examine all persons who are applicants for registration under this act, and to recommend to the governor each duly qualified applicant who shall have successfully passed said examination.

History: En. Sec. 7, Ch. 50, L. 1913; re-en. Sec. 3209, R. C. M. 1921.

3210. Qualifications of applicants—evidence of—registration fee. Applicants for registration under the provisions of this act shall furnish satisfactory evidence that he or she is at least twenty-one (21) years of age, of good moral character, and has been graduated from a school of nursing connected with a general hospital approved by the board, where a systematic course of at least three (3) years' instruction is given, except in the cases hereinafter provided for; provided, that the board may grant proper credit upon such three (3) year period to any student for previous study or training under such rules and regulations as the board may prescribe.

No school of nursing shall accept students under eighteen (18) years of age, nor students who have not graduated from an accredited high school. A copy of the high school credits certified to by the principal and filed in the school of nursing shall be prima facie evidence of graduation.

All persons registered under the provisions of this act shall pay to the secretary of the board a registration fee of fifteen dollars ($15.00).

Testimony as to Character

Testimony touching the immoral character of the applicant, introduced at a divorce proceeding to which she was a party, could rightfully be taken into consideration by the board in passing upon the question of her character. State ex rel. Scollard v. Board of Examiners, 52 M 91, 98, 156 P 124.

Id. In its determination of the question whether an applicant for registration as a nurse possesses the good moral character made a prerequisite to certification, the board of examiners is not bound to accept affidavits of citizens deposing to such good character as conclusive, but it may hear evidence, to be produced before it in such manner as it may choose to adopt both in opposition to as well as in favor of the applicant.

3211. Issuance of certificates by reciprocity. The governor shall issue a certificate of registration to any person registered under the laws of any other state having requirements for registration equivalent to those of Montana; the board to be the sole judges thereof.

History: En. Sec. 10, Ch. 50, L. 1913; amd. Sec. 6, Ch. 117, L. 1919; re-en. Sec. 3211, R. C. M. 1921; amd. Sec. 3, Ch. 129, L. 1929.

3211.1. Renewal of certificate—fee. During the month of December of each year, every registered nurse shall renew his or her certificate of registration for the year beginning January first with the board of examiners for nurses, for which renewal a fee of one dollar ($1.00) shall be paid to the treasurer of said board. The board may grant a renewal without fee for reasons which are satisfactory to it, and upon granting such renewal the secretary of such board shall issue a certificate of renewal of registration.

3212. Appeals to state association of graduate nurses and to district court. Any person who makes application to the board for examinations for registration, having the required qualifications, as hereinafter provided for, and who shall not pass said examination, or any person registered in any other state, who shall be refused registration by the board without examination, as provided for in this act, may appeal to the Montana state association of graduated nurses at the first annual meeting thereafter, and shall abide by the majority vote of said association after a full hearing thereon; provided, that any person aggrieved by any decision of the board of graduated nurses, finally determining his or her right to registration, may appeal from such decision to the district court of the county of the residence of said applicant, within thirty days after receiving notice from the board of its decision, which appeal shall be taken by filing notice of appeal with the clerk of the proper district court, and by serving copy thereof upon the secretary of said board. In case of a jury trial said jury shall consist of three nurses registered under the provisions of this act, and three reputable physicians in active practice.

History: En. Sec. 11, Ch. 50, L. 1913; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 122, L. 1917; amd. Sec. 7, Ch. 117, L. 1919; re-en. Sec. 3212, R. C. M. 1921.

Appellate Procedure

In the absence of provisions prescribing the procedure on appeal from a decision of the state board of examiners for nurses, the statute implies such orderly procedure as will enable the appellate body to fairly determine the right of appellant to registration. State ex rel. Marshall v. District Court, 50 M 289, 297, 146 P 743.

Id. In contemplation of law, the appellate body is merely an agency for carrying into effect the provisions of the act; the legislature is not required to designate corporations or individuals, to the exclusion of voluntary associations, as agencies for such purposes; on the contrary, it is the settled rule that no such restriction exists.

3213. All applicants to be examined after July, 1917. On and after July 1, 1917, all applicants for certificates of registration under the provisions of this act shall be residents of the state of Montana, and shall pass the examination required by the board before receiving a certificate of registration, or shall present to the board necessary credentials of registration in another state whose requirements for registration are equivalent to those of Montana.

3214. Unlawful to practice without certificate. It shall be unlawful hereafter for any person to practice nursing as a trained, graduate, or registered nurse without a certificate as herein provided for.

Any person who shall assume a title indicating that said person is a trained, graduate, or registered nurse, or who shall hold himself or herself out to be a trained, graduate, or registered nurse, and who shall not be registered in accordance with the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction hereof shall be fined for the first offense not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, and for each subsequent offense not less than two hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars.

3215. Interpretation of act. This act shall not be construed as conferring any authority to practice medicine, or undertake the treatment of disease, in violation of the medical-practice act of the state of Montana, or to affect or to apply to the gratuitous nursing of the sick by friends or members of the family, nor to any person nursing the sick for hire who does not in any way assume or pretend to have special training in the profession of nursing, and who also does not pretend to be a registered nurse.

3216. Revocation of certificate. The governor shall, upon recommendation by the board, revoke any certificate previously issued to the holder thereof, after a hearing by the full board on charges made by any licensed physician in the active practice of his profession, or upon charges made by the inspector of training schools for nurses, a registered nurse, or any other person charging dishonesty, gross incompetence, a habit rendering a nurse unsafe or unfit to care for the sick, or any conduct or act derogatory to the morals or standing of the profession of nursing, or any wilful fraud or misrepresentation practiced in securing such certificate.

The person so charged under this section shall be given at least thirty days' notice in writing of the specific charge against him or her, and of the time and place of hearing said charge by the board, at which time and place such person shall be entitled to appear and to be represented by counsel. Upon the revocation of any certificate heretofore issued, the same shall be null and void, and the secretary shall take the name of the holder thereof from the roll of registered nurses.

3268. Promulgation of rules. It shall be the duty of the livestock sanitary board to promulgate and enforce rules and regulations for the inspection and tuberculin test of all dairy cattle, or other animals, and for the inspection, test, treatment, or disposition of all livestock affected with, or which may have been exposed to, any infectious, contagious, communicable, or dangerous disease, and for the quarantines provided for in this act.

3271. Classification of animals as to compensation for slaughter. Animals with reference to compensation for slaughter by direction of the livestock sanitary board, or an agent thereof, under the provisions of this act, shall be divided into two classes, to-wit:

1. Animals determined by the state veterinary surgeon, or by a deputy veterinary surgeon, to be affected with an incurable disease, which are killed by order of such officer, shall be designated as animals of class one, and, unless otherwise herein provided, each of such animals shall be paid for on a basis of seventy-five per cent. of its full assessed valuation, as such full assessed valuation is fixed on the completion of the assessment-roll on the second Monday in the month of August next preceding the killing, by the tax-assessment records of the county liable in part for any indemnity to be paid. The county in which such animal was last assessable for tax purposes in this state, or if such animal has not been assessable for taxes in this state, the county in which such animal was located at the time it was condemned, shall be liable in part, as hereinafter provided, for any indemnity to be paid for such animal; provided, the total amount of indemnity to be paid from all sources for any such animal shall not exceed the actual sound value of an animal of its class; and provided further, that the total amount of indemnity to be paid for such animal from all sources shall not exceed the sum of three hundred dollars for any pure bred animal, or the sum of one hundred dollars for any grade animal.

2. Animals of class one shall be paid for on a basis of their full assessed valuation, as herein determined, in event no evidence of such incurable disease is disclosed by autopsy, bacteriologic, serologic, microscopic, or other findings; provided, the total amount of indemnity paid from all sources for any such animal shall not exceed the actual sound value of an animal of its class; and provided further, that the total amount of indemnity to be paid from all sources for such animal shall not exceed five hundred dollars for any pure bred animal, or one hundred and fifty dollars for any grade animal.

3. Animals determined by the state veterinary surgeon, or by a deputy veterinary surgeon, to be affected with or exposed to an infectious, contagious, communicable, or dangerous disease which is not of its nature necessarily fatal, which animals are killed by order of such officer as a sanitary safeguard, shall be designated as animals of class two, and unless otherwise herein provided, each of such animals shall be paid for on the basis of its full assessed value as such full assessed value is determined by the method outlined hereinabove in this section; provided, the total amount of indemnity paid from all sources for any such animal shall not exceed the actual sound value of an animal of its class; and provided further, that the total amount of indemnity to be paid for such animal from all sources shall not exceed five hundred dollars for any pure bred animal, or the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars for any grade animal.

4. Where an animal killed by order of the board, or of its agent, does not appear on the last assessment-roll of the county liable for indemnity, then its assessed valuation herein referred to as a basis for indemnity shall be equal to the minimum assessed valuation for animals of the class and age such animal would have been at the last past assessment time in the county.

5. Animals destroyed but too young to have been assessed at the time of assessment shall be appraised by the state veterinary surgeon, or his authorized agent, and paid for according to that appraised value, but the total claim from all sources shall in no case exceed twenty-five dollars for a grade calf and fifty dollars for a pure bred calf, and thirty-five dollars for a grade yearling, and one hundred dollars for a pure bred yearling. In case of controversy the appraisement of the state veterinary surgeon shall be final, with no recourse, and the owner or agent shall be liable for the actual traveling expenses of the state veterinary surgeon in making such appraisement.

6. Animals which may be injured or killed while they are being inspected or tested in accordance with an order of the livestock sanitary board, and which animals do not come within either class one or class two as herein provided, may be paid for at their full assessed valuation, or in accordance with subdivision 5 of this section, when the claim therefor is recommended for payment at a meeting of the livestock sanitary board and is approved by the state board of examiners, and where it is shown that the injury or death of such animal was not proximately due to the negligence of the owner or his agent. The whole of such claim when so approved shall be paid out of the livestock sanitary board funds; provided, however, that the limit of compensation for such animal from all sources shall not exceed that fixed by this act for animals of class two.

3272. Payment for other personal property. Personal property, other than livestock, destroyed by order of the livestock sanitary board, or an authorized representative thereof, shall be paid for on the basis of its full assessed valuation; such full assessed valuation to be determined in the manner specified in the preceding section for the determination of the assessed valuation of animals.

History: En. Sec. 13, Ch. 262, L. 1921; re-en. Sec. 3272, R. C. M. 1921.

3273. Indemnity—from what funds paid. In payment for animals or property destroyed by order of the livestock sanitary board, the state shall pay one-half of such indemnity out of any moneys at the disposal of the livestock sanitary board, and the county liable in part for the indemnity, as such county is determined by this act, shall pay the one-half part of such total indemnity out of the general fund of the county.

History: En. Sec. 14, Ch. 262, L. 1921; re-en. Sec. 3273, R. C. M. 1921.

3274. Presentation of claims for indemnity. Claims against the state and any county thereof, arising from the destruction of animals or property destroyed by order of the livestock sanitary board, shall be made upon official forms, which must contain an affidavit by the owner, or his agent with knowledge of the facts, of such animal or property, that such animal or animals have been killed and buried, and the property destroyed, in accordance with the law and regulations of the livestock sanitary board; and such claims must be accompanied by a certificate from the state veterinary surgeon, or his authorized deputy or agent, that such animal or animals, or property (as the case may be) were ordered destroyed. Such claims shall likewise be accompanied by the certificate of the county assessor of the county liable in part for the indemnity, setting forth the full assessed value of animals or property (as the case may be) destroyed, as shown by the records of his office on the completion of the tax-roll the second Monday in August last preceding the date of the killing or destruction.

3275. Examination and payment of claims. Claims against the state arising under this act, and when passed by the board of examiners, shall be examined by the state auditor, and if found correct, he shall issue a warrant upon the state treasurer for the amount payable by the state and charge the same to any funds or account at the disposal of the livestock sanitary board.

History: En. Sec. 16, Ch. 262, L. 1921; re-en. Sec. 3275, R. C. M. 1921.

3276. Same—payment from county funds. The board of county commissioners of the county liable in part for the indemnity for any such animal or property destroyed shall cause to be paid the amount due from said county out of the general funds of the county.

History: En. Sec. 17, Ch. 262, L. 1921; re-en. Sec. 3276, R. C. M. 1921.

3277. Sale of condemned carcasses—disposal of proceeds. Where carcasses of animals ordered destroyed under this act are found, upon post-mortem inspection (which inspection must be made in accordance with the regulations of the livestock sanitary board by a state or federal veterinarian) fit for human consumption, the owner may receive the net proceeds from the sale of such carcass and shall have no further claim against the state or county on account of such slaughter. Should the owner refuse to accept this salvage in full settlement for the destruction of the animal, then the representative of the livestock sanitary board may proceed to sell the carcass, upon such terms as shall to him seem to the best interests of the state, and the net proceeds obtained therefrom shall be paid, fifty per cent. to the livestock sanitary board fund and fifty per cent. to the treasurer of the county liable in part for the indemnity to be paid for such animal.

3278. Persons entitled to indemnity. The owner of any animal or property destroyed, as provided in this act, shall be entitled to indemnity therefor as herein provided, except in the following cases:

1. Animals belonging to the United States.
2. Animals brought into the state violating any provisions of this act, or regulations of the livestock sanitary board.
3. Animals which the owner or claimant knew to be diseased, or had notice thereof at the time they came into his possession.
4. Animals which had the disease for which they were slaughtered, or which were destroyed by reason of exposure to such disease, at the time of their arrival in the state; providing, however, that any animal or animals of the second class which were shipped into the state of Montana in accordance with the livestock sanitary board regulations, and accompanied by the proper certificate of health from a recognized state or federal veterinarian may be paid for when such payment is authorized at a meeting of the livestock sanitary board and approved by the state board of examiners.

5. Animals which have not been within the state of Montana for at least one hundred and twenty days prior to the discovery of the disease; provided, that animals of the second class which have not been in the state one hundred and twenty days may be paid for when such payment is authorized at a meeting of the livestock sanitary board and approved by the state board of examiners.

6. When the owner or agent has not used reasonable diligence to prevent disease or exposure thereto.

7. When the owner or agent has not complied with the rules and regulations of the livestock sanitary board with respect to animals condemned.

8. No compensation or indemnity will be paid for the destruction of any livestock affected with tuberculosis, or other infectious, contagious, communicable, or dangerous disease, unless the entire herd or band of which such affected livestock is a part shall be under the supervision of the livestock sanitary board for the eradication of such disease.

9. When animals condemned are not destroyed within sixty days after they have been determined to be affected with or exposed to a disease which requires them to be destroyed by order of the livestock sanitary board.

History: En. Sec. 19, Ch. 262, L. 1921; re-en. Sec. 3278, R. C. M. 1921.

3279. Deduction of compensation of other indemnifying agencies. In all cases where the federal government, or agency other than the state or county, shall compensate the owner in whole or in part for the livestock or property destroyed by order of the livestock sanitary board, then the amount of such compensation from the federal government, or other agency, shall be deducted from the amount of compensation or indemnity provided herein for such animal or property destroyed; and provided further, that where the owner or agent of such livestock or property destroyed by order of the livestock sanitary board, shall forfeit any indemnity which the owner would otherwise be entitled to from the federal government, or other compensating agency than the state or county, by violation of the regulations of the federal government, or other agency, than and in such case an amount equal to the indemnity which would have been paid, but for the forfeiture, by the federal government, or other indemnifying agency, shall likewise be deducted from the payment required by this act from the state and county for the destruction of such animal or property.

3280. Expenses how paid—lien and foreclosure. The expense of inspecting, testing, supervision of quarantine, supervision of dipping, supervision of disinfection, and supervision of other treatment of livestock by the livestock sanitary board, under the provisions of this act, and the sanitary inspection of dairies, packing houses, meat depots, slaughter houses, milk depots, and other premises as provided in this act, shall be paid for by the livestock sanitary board out of such funds as they may have at their command; provided, however, that the owner of such livestock or property shall be liable for all expenses, save the salary of the supervising officer or officers, representing this board, when such owner, agent, or person in charge of such livestock or property shall have violated the regulations of the livestock sanitary board, and such expenses shall be a lien upon the livestock or other property, and the agent of the livestock sanitary board may retain possession of the livestock until the charges and expenses are paid; but the lien shall not be dependent upon possession, and the lien may be foreclosed in the name of the agent of the livestock sanitary board by selling of the stock, or as many as may be necessary to pay the sum of the costs, by sale at public auction, and ten days' notice by posting thereof in three public places in the county, or such lien may be foreclosed by an action in any court of competent jurisdiction against the owner of the livestock to recover the amount of charges and expenses.

3281. Expense of cleaning and disinfecting carriers' facilities. The expense of cleaning and disinfection of cars, yards, or other transportation facilities of a common carrier, when required by the livestock sanitary board, shall be a charge against and collectible from such common carrier; and likewise the expense of supervising the cleaning and disinfection of cars for transportation of livestock, when required at any point other than disinfection points agreed upon between the board and the carrier, shall be a charge against and collectible from such common carrier.

3282. Licensing of milk plants and dairies selling milk or cream for public consumption. It shall be unlawful for the following classes of business to operate in the state of Montana without first securing a license from the livestock sanitary board, to-wit:

1. All dairies selling milk or cream for public consumption in the form in which it is originally produced and without having been converted into some manufactured product.

2. Condensed, evaporated or powder milk plants.

3. Milk plants. A milk plant, as the term is used in this act, shall be defined as a place where milk or cream, or both, is purchased or collected and prepared for distribution to the consumer in liquid form but is not produced at such place.

History: En. Sec. 2943, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 1793, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3300, R. C. 3301. Recording of brands required. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation to artificially brand or mark, or cause to be artificially branded or marked, any domestic animal or livestock, running at large, or upon the public domain, or open range, or which may run or stray at large or upon the public domain or open range, unless such artificial brand or mark has been recorded or re-recorded as provided by law, in the office of the general recorder of marks and brands, in the name of such person, firm, or corporation, within the period of ten years immediately preceding such branding or marking.

3302. Application for recording—record of brands. Any person, firm, or corporation desiring to have recorded an artificial mark or brand for use in distinguishing or identifying the ownership of any domestic animal or livestock, shall make application therefor to the secretary of the livestock commission, who is in this act designated the general recorder of marks and brands. Such application must be in writing, and must contain the name, residence and postoffice address of the applicant, and the species of the animals on which the mark or brand is to be used. The said recorder shall thereupon designate for the applicant's use some practical form of mark or brand, distinguishable with reasonable certainty from all other marks and brands recorded, or re-recorded, within the period of ten years immediately preceding the time of filing the application, as in this act provided, in the name of some person, firm, or corporation other than the applicant, and he shall designate the position on the animals upon which the mark or brand shall be placed, and the species of animals on which the mark or brand may be used. The general recorder of marks and brands shall keep a record in a book kept by him for that purpose, of the particular mark or brand, the position on the animal where the same is to be used, the species of animals on which the same is to be used, and the date of recording. Such record shall be a public record and shall be prima-facie evidence of the facts therein recorded.

History: En. Sec. 2, Ch. 144, L. 1921; re-en. Sec. 3302, R. C. M. 1921.

3303. Designation of years for re-recording brands. The year A. D. 1921, and each tenth year thereafter are hereby designated years for the re-recording of all artificial marks and brands used to distinguish and identify the ownership of domestic animals and livestock; and it shall be the duty of the general recorder of marks and brands, upon the application of any person, firm, or corporation, or the transferee of such person, firm, or corporation, made in any year in this act designated a year for re-recording such marks and brands, to re-record any mark or brand which at the time of such application stands of record in said recorder's office in the name of such person, firm, or corporation; provided, that on and after January 1, 1922, no mark or brand which was neither originally recorded nor re-recorded in the name of such person, firm, or corporation, during the re-recording year last preceding the date when such application is filed, nor originally recorded in the name of such person, firm, or corporation, or his or its predecessor or predecessors in interest therein between the time of such application and the re-recording year last preceding such application, shall be deemed of record in the office of such general recorder of marks and brands.

History: En. Sec. 4, Ch. 144, L. 1921; re-en. Sec. 3304, R. C. M. 1921.

Prima facie one is the owner of cattle bearing his recorded brand. Klind v. Valley County Bank of Hinsdale, 69 M. 386, 391, 222 P 439.

The best evidence of ownership of a livestock brand is the certificate of ownership executed by the recorder of marks and brands provided for by this section; therefore admission of the oral testimony of the secretary of the state livestock commission as to the owners of various brands found on horses shown by an inspector's reports with regards to shipments made by one charged with having received stolen animals was technical error. State v. Keays, 97 M 404, 417, 34 P 2d 855.

Held, that a transfer of a herd of cattle, at the time in the possession of a lessee, after they were segregated from other cattle, identified and counted out in the presence of seller and buyer, the lessee at the time agreeing to the substitution of owners, was sufficient to transfer possession, even though the brand of the transferor was not vented, there being uncontroverted evidence to overcome the prima facie presumption flowing from the fact that they still bore the brand of the seller. Costello v. Shields, 99 M 335, 342, 43 P 2d. 879.

3305. Publication of notice of re-recording brands. Between the first day of January and the first day of July in each year in this act designated a re-recording year, the general recorder of marks and brands shall cause to be published in at least one issue of at least one newspaper of general circulation in each county of this state, wherein such a newspaper is published, a notice to the effect that such year is a year for re-recording such marks and brands, and that no mark or brand shall continue of record unless re-recorded, and shall likewise mail to each person, firm, and corporation in whose name any such mark or brand stands of record, a similar notice addressed to such person, firm or corporation at his or its postoffice address as shown by the records in such recorder's office.

3306. Penalty for violation of act. Any person, firm, or corporation violating any provision of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine of not exceeding one thousand dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail for not to exceed one year, or both such fine and imprisonment.

History: En. Sec. 6, Ch. 144, L. 1921; re-en. Sec. 3306, R. C. M. 1921.

3307. Fees for recorder of marks and brands. The general recorder of marks and brands shall charge and collect for recording each mark or brand the sum of four dollars ($4.00), and for re-recording each mark or brand the sum of one dollar ($1.00), and for a certified copy of any such record and each duplicate certificate one dollar ($1.00), and all fees so collected shall be paid into the live stock commission fund.

3308. Repealing clause. Chapter 27 of the laws of Montana of the twelfth session of 1911, and section 1791 of the revised codes of Montana of 1907, and all acts and parts of acts in conflict herewith are hereby repealed, save that no action or proceeding pending, and no penalty incurred under any law hereby repealed, at the time of such repeal, shall be abated hereby, but the same may be prosecuted and enforced in all respects as though such law or laws had not been repealed.

History: En. Sec. 8, Ch. 144, L. 1921; re-en. Sec. 3308, R. C. M. 1921.

3308.1. Notices of chattel mortgages on livestock, renewals, assignments and satisfactions to be filed by recorder of marks and brands—lists to be furnished stock inspectors. The general recorder of marks and brands of the state of Montana shall accept and file in the office of the general recorder of marks and brands, notices of chattel mortgages, renewals, assignments and satisfactions thereof, upon the livestock owned by any person, firm, corporation, or association, and bearing his, their or its recorded brand, and shall list such notices on the official records of marks and brands kept by him, and also shall cause to be listed said notices in the offices of stock inspectors employed by the livestock commission and stationed at the several central livestock markets where records of marks and brands are kept. All forms on which such notices shall be given shall be prescribed by the livestock commission and shall be furnished by the mortgagee of livestock, who shall give such notice.

History: En. Sec. 1, Ch. 91, L. 1935.

3308.2. Contents of notices. Such notices shall consist of a statement showing the date of chattel mortgage, the name of the mortgagors and mortgagees, and/or holder and owner thereof, a description of the livestock covered by said mortgage, the date and county when and where said chattel mortgage is filed, and any other date and place where said chattel mortgage is filed, and in case of notice of renewal, the notice shall state the date of renewal thereof and the date of filing such renewal, and the places where filed, and in the case of a notice of assignment of a chattel mortgage, such notice shall state the date of such assignment, the date of filing the same, the places where filed, and a description of the chattel mortgage assigned and the parties to the assignment, and such other or additional information as may be required from time to time by the livestock commission of the state of Montana.

History: En. Sec. 2, Ch. 91, L. 1935.

3308.3. Duty of mortgagees to file satisfactions of mortgages. It shall be the duty of the mortgagees, who filed notices of chattel mortgages, renewals and assignments thereof, with the general recorder of marks and brands, as provided for in this act, to file notices of satisfaction of such mortgages with the general recorder of marks and brands immediately upon the satisfaction of said mortgage.

History: En. Sec. 3, Ch. 91, L. 1935.

3308.4. Fees—disposal of. The general recorder of marks and brands shall charge for filing and listing such notices of chattel mortgages the sum of fifty cents (50c) for each recorded brand listed in each chattel mortgage, and for filing and listing each notice of satisfaction or renewal or assignment of such chattel mortgage, the sum of fifty cents (50c) for each recorded brand listed therein. All fees so collected shall be paid into the livestock commission fund.

History: En. Sec. 4, Ch. 91, L. 1935.

3308.5. Brand recorder or livestock commission not responsible for collection or payment of money under mortgages. Neither the general recorder of marks and brands nor the livestock commission, nor any of its agents or employees shall be held responsible or liable to either mortgagor or mortgagee for the collection or payment of any money due the holder of any livestock mortgage on account of the filing and listing of notices of chattel mortgage or renewals, satisfactions, or assignments thereof as provided in this act; providing the provisions of this act are carried out in good faith.

History: En. Sec. 5, Ch. 91, L. 1935.

On receiving notice from any person, association, or corporation that he or it desires to remove, ship, or take from one county to another within this state any of the classes of animals named in the preceding section, it shall be the duty of the stock inspector immediately to inspect the same, by carefully noting the brands upon such animals and otherwise describing such animals, and to keep a full and complete record of all such inspections in a book to be provided for that purpose by the state board of stock commissioners, which description shall contain:

Such certificate of inspection and permit to remove shall be by the holder thereof exhibited to any person or persons demanding to see the same.

Trespass on Unfenced Lands

Where a livestock owner, claiming a strip of land thirty feet wide and one-half mile in length within plaintiff's inclosure, turned his cattle loose under circumstances which showed that it was intended that they should go into plaintiff's inclosure and grazed upon his lands, he was liable for the damage done by them to plaintiff's pasture, the fact that plaintiff did not maintain any fence between the strip and defendant's land being no defense. Dorman v. Erie, 63 M 579, 583 et seq., 208 P 908.

A lawful fence entirely surrounding his lands is a condition precedent to the right of a land owner to recover damages from owners of livestock trespassing thereon, unless the latter with knowledge of the private ownership of unfenced land willfully herds them thereon or drives them to a point so near the boundaries that they are certain to go upon and feed thereon. Schreiner v. Deep Creek Stock Ass'n., 68 M 104, 110, 217 P 663.

3375. Penalty for violation. Any person constructing or maintaining any fence of any kind not described in the next preceding section is liable in a civil action for all damages caused by reason of injury to stock resulting from such defective fence.

3376. Barbed wire fences to be kept in repair. The owners of barbed wire fences must keep the same in repair, and any person receiving notice in writing that his barbed wire fence or any part thereof is down, or in such condition as to be likely to injure any livestock, and fails or refuses to repair such fence, is liable to pay damages in an amount equal to the value of any cattle, horse, mule, or other domestic animal which may be injured by coming into contact with the fence.

History: En. as Secs. 1112 to 1120, 5th Div. Comp. Stat. 1887; re-en. Sec. 3252, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 2084, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3376, R. C. M. 1921.

3376.1. Fallen wire fencing declared nuisance—abatement. All barbed wire and other wire fencing which has sagged or fallen to the ground so as to be ineffectual for the purpose of turning stock, and a menace to any person riding or walking over the same is declared to be a public nuisance, and subject to abatement in the manner hereinafter provided.

History: En. Sec. 1, Ch. 84, L. 1927.

3376.2. Notice to owner to repair fence—duty of county commissioners. Upon ascertaining the existence in the county of any nuisance specified in the preceding section of this act, the board of county commissioners shall notify by registered mail the owner of such wire, if such owner be known to said board and within the state, to remove same. If such owner shall fail to remove said wire or to rebuild said fence within sixty days following receipt of said notice, the board of county commissioners shall have authority to remove and dispose of said wire in the manner provided by the next section of this act.

History: En. Sec. 2, Ch. 84, L. 1927.

3376.3. Procedure when owner unknown or not resident of state—sale of wire removed. If there be no known owner of such wire within the state, or if such owner be unknown to the board of county commissioners, said board shall have authority to collect and remove said wire at the expense of the county. All such wire or other fencing as in the opinion of the board of county commissioners can be sold at a price sufficient to cover at least the expense of removal and sale, shall be sold by the county commissioners in the manner now provided by law for the sale of county property, except that notice of such sale need be published only once and need be given only ten days before such sale.

History: En. Sec. 3, Ch. 84, L. 1927.

3376.4. Disposal of proceeds of sale of wire after payment of expense.

The proceeds of such sale shall be used to defray the cost of collecting and selling said wire, and the balance, if any, be placed by the county treasurer in a special fund, and shall be held by him subject to claim by any person establishing to the satisfaction of the board of county commissioners that he was the lawful owner of said wire and entitled to the remaining proceeds of such sale. If no person claims said money within one year of the date of sale, the same shall be deposited in the general fund of the county.

History: En. Sec. 4, Ch. 84, L. 1927.

3377. Damage to planted trees. In case of any damage done to planted trees by animals, the owner of the trees may recover damages from the owner of the animals, if said trees are planted inside of a lawful fence or boxed to a height of not less than five feet.

History: En. Sec. 3281, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 2096, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3377, R. C. M. 1921.

3378. Liability of owners of stock for trespass. If any cattle, horse, mule, ass, hog, sheep, or other domestic animal break into any enclosure, the fence being legal, as hereinbefore provided, the owner of such animal is liable for all damages to the owner or occupant of the enclosure which may be sustained thereby. This section must not be construed so as to require a legal fence in order to maintain an action for injury done by animals running at large contrary to law.

History: En. Sec. 1119, 5th Div. Comp. Stat. 1887; re-en. Sec. 3258, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 2090, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3378, R. C. M. 1921.

Complaint—Sufficiency

In an action on an implied contract to recover the reasonable value of the pasturage of livestock, the complaint alleging ownership and right of possession in plaintiff, the ownership of the animals in defendant, that the lands were inclosed by a fence which defendant broke down and pastured them thereon, and the reasonable value of the pasturage per head per month, stated a cause of action. Dorman v. Erie, 63 M 579, 584, 208 P 908.

Operation and Effect

A reasonable and substantial compliance with the statute is all that is required, and an immaterial variation in the height of the fence from that of a lawful fence will not defeat the action. Smith v. Williams, 2 M 195, 202.

The provisions of this section apply to all domestic animals, but have no application to animals in charge of a herder. Herrin v. Sieben, 46 M 226, 232, 127 P 323.

Trespass on Unfenced Land

A lawful fence entirely surrounding the grounds or premises entered, or some obstruction equivalent thereto, is a condition precedent to the right to bring an action against the owner of trespassing animals for damages sustained by reason of such trespass. Smith v. Williams, 2 M 195, 201.

There can be no recovery for damages sustained to the owner of uninclosed lands by reason of sheep straying or being driven thereupon and destroying the grass and verdure, unless it appear that they were maliciously driven upon such lands for the purpose of causing injury. Fant v. Lyman, 9 M 61, 62, 22 P 120.

This section, and the custom of the state making the maintenance of a legal fence by a land owner a prerequisite to recovery for trespass by domestic animals of another, do not charge the landowner with the duty to keep cattle lawfully at large from coming on his land, or make their entry thereupon rightful, so as to make him liable for injuries to such animals caused by the existence of dangerous agencies on the land, but not wantonly or intentionally caused. Beinhorn v. Griswold, 27 M 79, 88, 69 P 557.

This section applies to trespasses committed by animals running at large without the knowledge of the owner, and not to a case where one knowingly and wilfully appropriates the use of another's land. Monroe v. Cannon, 24 M 316, 320, 61 P 863. See, also, Musselshell Cattle Co. v. Woolfolk, 34 M 126, 132, 85 P 874; Rea Bros. Sheep Co. v. Rudi, 46 M 149, 161, 127 P 85; Light v. United States, 220 U. S. 523, 537, 55 L. Ed. 570, 31 Sup. Ct. 485.

The owner of animals may not knowingly and wilfully drive or herd them upon the lands of another, whether such lands are protected by an inclosure or not, and to avoid encroaching upon his neighbor he must at his peril ascertain the line at which his rights end and his neighbor's begin. Herrin v. Sieben, 46 M 226, 233, 127 P 323.

Where a livestock owner, claiming a strip of land thirty feet wide and one-half mile in length within plaintiff's inclosure, turned his cattle loose under circumstances which showed that it was intended that they should go into plaintiff's inclosure and graze upon his lands, he was liable for the damage done by them to plaintiff's pasture, the fact that the plaintiff did not maintain any fence between the strip and defendant's land being no defense. Dorman v. Erie, 63 M 579, 584, 208 P 908.

Held, that where plaintiff, the owner of uninclosed lands within a forest reserve in which defendants had a permit to graze their cattle, in his action for damages for depasturing his land relied upon the allegation in the answer that defendants were running their cattle "under herd" and "in charge of herders" as an admission that the animals were placed upon his premises by defendants' agents and did not introduce evidence that they were willfully or negligently driven or permitted to remain thereon, it appearing on the contrary that the herders endeavored to keep them off of his premises and drove them therefrom when found there, a judgment in his favor was unwarranted under the above rules. Schreiner v. Deep Creek Stock Assn., 68 M 104, 110, 217 P 663.

Unlawful Fencing of Public Domain

A person who unlawfully fences a portion of the public domain acquires only a tortious possession, which does not authorize him to maintain an action against another for depasturing such land, nor entitle him to restrain the latter, by way of injunction, from continuing to depasture the land. Clemmons v. Gillette, 33 M 321, 328, 83 P 879.

3379. Stock trespassing may be retained. If any such animal breaks into an enclosure surrounded by a legal fence, or is wrongfully upon the premises of another, the owner or occupant of the enclosure or premises may take into his possession the animal trespassing, and keep the same until all damages, together with reasonable charges for keeping and feeding are paid. The person taking any such animal into his possession shall, within seventy-two hours thereafter, give written notice to the owner or person in charge of the animal, stating that he has taken up such animal; said notice shall also give the date of such taking, the description of the animal or animals taken up, including marks and brands, if any, the amount of damages claimed and the charge per head per day for caring for and feeding the same, and shall describe, either by legal subdivisions or other general description, the location of the premises upon which said animals are held. In all cases a copy of said notice shall likewise be posted at a point where said stock was taken up. Such notice shall be given to the owner or person in charge only when said owner or person in charge of the animal or animals is known to the person taking up the same and resides within twenty-five miles of the premises upon which such animals have been taken up. In case the owner or person in charge of such animals resides more than twenty-five miles from the place of such taking, notice as aforesaid shall be mailed to him, and in such case, and also in case the owner be unknown, a like notice shall be mailed to the Montana livestock commission and the sheriff of the county in which such animals have been taken up. Upon receipt of such notice, the sheriff shall post a copy thereof at the court house and shall send by registered mail a copy thereof to the owner of the stock, if known to him; if unknown to him, the sheriff shall send a copy of such notice to the nearest state livestock inspector. In case the parties do not within five days thereafter agree as to the amount of damages, the lien claimant must within ten days thereafter institute a civil action to foreclose his lien in any court of competent jurisdiction, pending the outcome of which suit, the person taking up said stock may, at the expense of the owner, retain a sufficient amount of such stock to cover the amount of damages claimed by him; provided, however, that the defendant may, after the institution of an action as aforesaid, upon filing in said cause a bond executed by two or more sureties and approved by the court, in double the sum sued for, conditioned for the payment to the plaintiff of all sums, including costs that may be recovered by said plaintiff, have the return to him of all livestock held as aforesaid, and said person shall be liable to such owner for any loss or injury to said stock occurring through his fault or neglect. If the person taking up said stock shall fail to recover in said action a sum equal to that offered him by the owner of the stock, the former shall bear the expense of keeping and feeding same while in his possession.

Any person taking or rescuing any such animal from the possession of the person taking the same, without his consent, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punishable by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars.

ardless of whether the said sheep so trespassing strayed thereon on their own inclination and without being driven, or whether said sheep were herded or driven on said land; provided, that no person or persons can claim exemption for trespassing under the provisions of this section where such person or persons shall have actual knowledge of the boundary lines of any lands herein referred to; but in no event shall damages other than nominal damages be assessed against said trespass, unless the land owner or his duly authorized agent shall within six months after said trespass has been committed, give said trespasser written notice demanding a sum certain for damages sustained by reason of such trespass.

- 3389.8. Existing statutes not affected.

3384. Herd districts—creation, size, location—dissolution—exclusion of government land—records. (a) Herd districts may be created in any county in the state of Montana to contain fifty-four square miles or more, lying not less than three miles in width, outside of the incorporated cities; excepting only that herd districts may be created containing not less than six nor more than fifty-four square miles, lying not less than two miles in width, when such territory joins and is contiguous with the boundaries of a city having a population of ten thousand or more and such territory so to be created in a herd district has a suburban population of not less than two hundred people; upon petition of owners or possessors of fifty-five per centum (55%) of the land in such district, and providing twenty-five per centum (25%) or more of the land in such district is in actual cultivation, and such petition shall designate the months of the year when herd district is effective, and upon presentation and filing of such petition, properly signed, giving outside boundaries and description of proposed district and the post office address of the signers thereto, with the clerk and recorder in the county in which the said district is being created, the county commissioners of such county, upon receipt thereof, shall set a date for hearing protests and verifying the signatures thereto, and shall give not less than twenty days' notice of the same by three publications in a newspaper of general circulation in the county of the proposed district, and should it appear to such county commissioners after such hearing that the signatures attached to such petition were genuine, they shall immediately declare such herd district created and established; after which the county commissioners must give notice by four weekly publications in some newspaper nearest the district of the creation of such districts, also stating period such districts will be in effect, and such districts shall not be in effect until thirty days have expired after the order. Upon petition of any owner or possessor of lands lying contiguous and adjoining any herd district theretofore created, and upon like hearing and notice as hereinabove provided for, such lands shall be included in said herd district and become a part thereof. Should the signature of lessee appear on the petition creating or abolishing any herd district, the owner or owners of said land may appear either in person or agent and enter their protest. And the board of county commissioners shall remove the name of the lessee from said petition, and no person shall be permitted to withdraw his name after the hour set for hearing same.

(b) When a petition praying that any established herd district be dissolved is filed with the county clerk and recorder of the county wherein such district has been established, and it is set forth therein that such petition is signed by the owners or possessors of fifty-five per cent (55%), or more of the lands lying within such district, and that less than twenty-five per cent (25%) of the lands included in such district is in actual cultivation, the said county clerk and recorder shall call such petition to the attention of the board of county commissioners of the county at its next regular meeting; and at said meeting by its order the said board shall set such petition for hearing at a specified time on a day certain of which notice shall be given by publication at least once in each week for three successive weeks in some newspaper of general circulation in the county. At the time fixed for hearing the board of county commissioners shall first require proof of publication of the notice of said hearing to be made and thereafter shall consider the petition and hear all interested parties. At the conclusion of any such hearing if the board of county commissioners shall find that notice of the hearing has been given in the manner and for the time prescribed herein and that the owners or possessors of fifty-five per cent (55%), or more of the lands lying within such herd district have signed the petition and request that such district be dissolved, and that less than twenty-five per cent (25%), of the lands included in such district are in actual cultivation, then the said board shall forthwith spread such findings upon its minutes and thereupon shall enter an order in terms that by reason of such findings and of the proceedings had upon such petition the said herd district is thereby dissolved. Forthwith upon the making and entry of any such order aforesaid the herd district affected thereby shall be dissolved for all purposes thereafter.

(c) Any tract of land embraced within any established herd district and which contains eighteen government sections of land, or more, so located that at least one-fourth of the perimeter of such tract coincides with the existing boundaries of such herd district, may be excluded therefrom upon proceedings had before the board of county commissioners of the county wherein the said district has been established on a like petition, notice and hearing and by a like order as in the case of proceedings for dissolving herd districts; provided that when the exclusion of any such tract of land from an existing herd district is sought the petition shall describe the tract to be excluded with common certainty and shall set forth that it is signed by the owners or possessors of fifty-five per cent (55%), or more of the lands lying within the boundaries of the tract to be excluded, and that less than fifteen per cent (15%), of the lands included in such tract is in actual cultivation; and provided further that in any such case if the board of county commissioners at the conclusion of the hearing had shall find that the tract of land to be excluded conforms to the requirements of this section and that the allegations of the petition are true its findings to that effect shall be spread upon the minutes and the board shall thereupon enter its order in terms that by reason of such findings and of the proceedings had upon such petition the tract of land described in the petition which shall be further set forth with common certainty in the order is thereby excluded from such herd district for all purposes thereafter. Forthwith upon the making and entry of any such order of exclusion the tract of land therein described shall be deemed for all purposes thereafter to be excluded from and to form no part of the herd district affected thereby.

Notice to Land Owners Jurisdictional

Citing prior to amendment by chapter 171, laws of 1931, the notice required by this section to be given by the board of county commissioners of the presentation of a petition for the creation of a herd district, to land owners in the proposed district, is jurisdictional, substantial compliance with the requirements of the statute being indispensable to action by the board. State v. Board of County Commissioners, 83 M 540, 547, 273 P 290.

Width of District at Point Where City Located

Where the record on appeal from a judgment dismissing a writ of certiorari asking that an order of the county commissioners creating a herd district be annulled for lack of jurisdiction did not show that a county seat lying within the district was an incorporated city, the contention of relator that upon elimination of the area embraced within the city limits the district was less than three miles in width, contrary to the provision of this section requiring such a district to be at least that width "outside of incorporated cities," may not be upheld. State v. Board of County Commissioners, 83 M 540, 547, 273 P 290.

Width of District Where Boundary from Which Measurement Made a River

This section provides that a herd district must be at least three miles in width. A petition for the creation of such a district, lying north and south, showed that its eastern boundary was a river bank and that its width, measured at right angles to the base line (a line projected as nearly parallel to the course of the river) was at all points at least three miles in width and at some more than three miles. The sufficiency of the petition was attacked on the ground that at the point where the river formed a bend toward the west extending about two miles within the territory of the proposed district, the distance between the peak of the bend and a point on the western boundary, when measured at an acute angle northwestward, was but a mile and a half. Held that the width of a tract of land must be measured at right angles to its length; that so measured the width was all that was required by the above section and that the width at the point mentioned did not render the petition insufficient. State v. Board of County Commissioners, 83 M 540, 547, 273 P 290.

3385. Penalty for permitting animals to run at large in herd districts—permitting bull to run at large in herd districts constitutes misdemeanor. Any person who is the owner, or entitled to the possession of any horses, mules, cattle, sheep, or goats, who shall wilfully permit same to run at large within any herd-district, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one dollar, nor more than five dollars for each offense; and each day that each five head, or less, of such horses, mules, cattle, sheep, or goats, are wilfully permitted to run at large shall constitute a separate offense.

Any person, who is the owner, or entitled to the possession of any bull over one (1) year of age who shall wilfully permit same to run at large within any herd-district shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten ($10.00) dollars, nor more than fifty ($50.00) dollars for each offense; and each day that such bull be permitted to run at large shall constitute a separate offense.

History: En. Ch. 74, L. 1917; amd. Sec. 3, Ch. 167, L. 1919; re-en. Sec. 3385, R. C. M. 1921; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 45, L. 1925.

Strict Compliance Necessary

The provisions of the herd law must be strictly followed in order to afford protection to those responsible for the impounding and sale of animals under its authority, and where they are not so followed, the taking constitutes a taking of private property without due process of law and a conversion of the property. Jorgenson v. Story et al., 78 M 477, 487, 254 P 427.

3386. Trespassing animals in herd district—retention for damages and keep. If any such animal or animals wrongfully enter upon premises of any person within such district, the owner or person in control of such animal or animals shall be liable for care and feed and for any damages occasioned by such livestock to the landowner. The owner or occupant of the land upon which such wrongful entry is made may take into his possession such animal or animals, and reasonably care for the same, and may retain possession thereof and be entitled to a lien thereon as security for the payment of damages and charges occasioned by such livestock. If the owner of such livestock, or the person entitled to the possession thereof, can be found or is known to the person who takes it up for trespass, it shall be his duty to notify the owner, owners, or persons in charge thereof, within forty-eight (48) hours after taking possession thereof, by a notice in writing, duly mailed as a registered letter, directed to such owner or person in charge at his post office address or by serving such notice on him personally, which notice shall give a particular description of the livestock and state the amount of damages claimed, and demand that within forty-eight (48) hours after receipt of such notice the damages and costs be paid and that the animal or animals be taken away from the property of the complainant. Upon demand, the owner or occupant of the land shall release and deliver possession of such stock to the owner or person entitled thereto, upon payment of the damages and charges, and if the parties cannot agree upon the amount, then and in that event, the owner or person entitled to said stock shall give a receipt to the owner or occupant of the land having possession of the same, which receipt shall fully describe the animal or animals so that they may at any time be easily identified, and thereupon the owner or occupant of the land shall give possession of such livestock to the owner or person entitled thereto, making claim therefor. The owner or person so receiving possession of such livestock shall not dispose of the same but shall retain and keep the same in his possession as the legal custodian thereof in order to meet and pay the amount of the lien thereon for damages and charges due in consequence of any such trespass. The party entitled to such damages or charges shall within ten (10) days after delivery of possession of such livestock commence an action in any court having jurisdiction to recover such damages and charges, and such livestock shall be held for the payment of any judgment as effectually as though held under a writ of attachment. At any time after such action is commenced, the owner or person entitled to the stock, to whom delivery of possession was made, may furnish and file a bond conditioned to pay the damages, charges and costs incurred in the action and upon approval of the bond by the justice of the peace, if the action is commenced in a justice court, or by the judge or clerk of the district court, if the action is commenced in the district court, the lien and claim upon the livestock shall thereupon be discharged. If the owner or person entitled to such livestock does not furnish such a bond within ten (10) days after the service of summons in the action, an order may be issued authorizing and directing the constable or sheriff to take possession and hold the stock to satisfy any judgment which may be recovered in the action, and such stock, when so taken possession of by the officer shall be held, treated and sold under execution the same as though seized and held in the first instance by writ of attachment. The owner or person entitled to the stock may, in lieu of furnishing a bond, deposit an amount of money sufficient to pay any judgment which may be recovered in such action, the amount to be determined by the justice or judge of the court in which the action is pending. If the owner or person entitled to the livestock, after delivery of possession to him without payment of damages and charges herein provided for, shall sell or dispose of the same or any part thereof, or permit the same to be taken from his possession, or shall in any manner prevent the seizure of the same by the constable or sheriff, as herein provided, before the lien thereon is fully discharged, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and in addition thereto shall be liable to the party entitled to such damages and charges in double the value of the stock. At the time of delivery or possession of such stock, the owner or person entitled thereto, a written statement of the amount of the damages and charges shall be furnished to the owner or person entitled to the possession of the stock by the person claiming such damages and charges. Strict Compliance Necessary strictly followed in order to afford protection to those responsible for the impounding and sale of animals under its authority, and where they are not so followed, the taking constitutes a taking of private property without due process of law and a conversion of the property. Jorgenson v. Story et al., 78 M 477, 487, 254 P 427.

3387. Former proceedings for the formation of herd districts validated. All herd districts heretofore formed or attempted to have been formed under section 1, chapter 74 of the session laws of the fifteenth legislative assembly of the state of Montana, where the proceedings taken have complied with requirements of section 3384 of this code, shall be and are hereby declared to have been properly formed and valid, and said proceedings are hereby expressly validated, and such districts shall constitute herd districts, and be subject to all the provisions of this act and of law affecting said districts.

3388. Rescue of impounded animals a misdemeanor—penalty. Any person who takes or rescues any animal impounded as provided in section 3386 from the possession of the person in whose custody the same may be, without his consent, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction therefor be subject to a fine of not more than one hundred dollars, or shall be confined in the county jail not more than sixty days, or both such fine and imprisonment.

3389.1. Changing time when herd districts will be in effect—petition—notice—hearing. The time of year or period, when any herd district heretofore or hereafter created under the provisions of the laws of this state, is effective or will be in effect, may be changed as herein provided, by the board of county commissioners of the county in which such herd district has been created, upon the presentation and filing with the clerk and recorder of such county, a petition signed by the owners or possessors of fifty-five per centum (55%) of the land in such district. Such petition shall designate the months of the year when such herd district is effective and designate the contemplated change. Upon receipt thereof, the county commissioners of such county, shall set a date for hearing protests and verifying the signatures thereto, and shall give not less than twenty (20) days' notice of the same by posting five (5) notices of hearing in five (5) public places in the county, one (1) of which shall be at the place such hearing is to be held, and at least two (2) of such notices to be posted within such herd district. Should it appear to the board of county commissioners after such hearing that the signatures attached to such petition are genuine, they shall immediately make an order changing the period of time such herd district will be in effect, as designated in such petition; after which the county commissioners must give notice by four (4) weekly publications in some newspaper in the county, nearest such district, stating the period such district will be in effect; providing, the change of time shall not become effective until such notice has been published as herein provided. Upon the fourth publication of such notice such change of time shall become effective and violation thereof shall be punished as provided under the laws of the state of Montana relative to herd districts.

3389.2. Horse herd districts—size—location—petition—notice and hearing—abolishment. Horse herd districts may be created in any county in the state of Montana to contain twelve square miles or more lying not less than one mile in width outside of incorporated cities or towns, upon the petition of owners or possessors of fifty-five per centum of the land of such district, and such petition shall designate the months of the year when horse herd district regulations are effective and upon presentation and filing of a petition properly signed and reciting the outside boundaries and description of the proposed district, together with the postoffice address of the signers thereof, with the clerk and recorder in the county in which the said district is being created; the county commissioners of such county upon receipt thereof shall set a date for hearing protests and verification of signatures thereto, and shall give not less than twenty days' notice of the same by three publications in a newspaper of general circulation in the county of the proposed district, and should it appear to such county commissioners, after such hearing, that the signatures attached to such petition were genuine, they shall immediately make an order declaring such horse herd district created and established; after which the county commissioners must give notice by two weekly publications in some newspaper in the county, nearest the district, stating the period when such horse herd district will be in effect and when such district shall not be in effect; providing such order shall not be effective until thirty days have expired after the order; provided that such herd districts may be abolished at any time upon proceedings as hereinbefore set forth for the establishment of such herd district, the estimated expense of all publications required by this act shall be paid by the petitioners, and no part thereof shall be paid by the county.

Upon petition of any owner or possessor of land lying contiguous and adjoining any herd district heretofore created, and upon like hearing and notice as hereinabove provided for, such lands shall be included in such herd district and become a part thereof.

Should the signature of a lessee appear on the petition creating or abolishing any herd district, the owner or owners of said land may appear either in person or by agent and enter their protest, and the board of county commissioners shall remove the name of lessee from said petition, and no person shall be permitted to withdraw his name after the hour set for hearing same.

If any such horse or horses wrongfully enter upon premises within such district of any person, the owner or person in control of such horse or horses shall be punished according to the provisions of section 3389, and in addition to said punishment shall be liable for all damages sustained thereby to the party entitled thereto.

History: En. Sec. 3, Ch. 119, L. 1931.

3389.5. Retention and sale of horses for damages and care—procedure—classification of horses for sale—disposal of proceeds—“horses” defined. The owner or occupant of the land upon which such wrongful entry is made may take into his possession such horse or horses, and shall reasonably care for the same while in his possession, and may retain possession of said horse or horses, and shall have a lien and claim thereon as security for payment of such damages and reasonable charges for the care of said horse or horses while in his possession. The person taking up said horse or horses shall within forty-eight hours after taking possession thereof notify said owner, owners or persons in charge thereof by a notice in writing, describing said horse or horses taken up, including marks and brands, if any, the amount of damages claimed, and the charge per head per day for caring for and feeding the same, and describing, either by legal sub-divisions or other general description, the location of the premises upon which said horse or horses are held, and requiring him within forty-eight hours after receiving said notice to take the said horse or horses away after making full payment for all damages and costs of said horse or horses. Such notice shall be given by personal service on the said owner, owners or person in charge thereof, or by leaving said notice at his usual place of residence with some member of his family over the age of fourteen years, or by sending said notice by prepaid registered mail addressed to his last known place of residence. Said service by registered mail shall be deemed complete upon the deposit of the notice in the postoffice. Upon demand, the owner or occupant of the land shall release and deliver possession of such horse or horses to the owner or person entitled thereto upon payment of damages and charges, but said payment of damages and charges shall not act as a bar to the prosecution of said person, owner, or person in control of such horse or horses, as hereinbefore provided. If the owner or claimant of such horse or horses is not known to the person taking up such horse or horses, or the said owner or claimant shall refuse to pay the amount of damages and charges as herein provided, the said person taking up such horse or horses shall within seventy-two hours, from the time said horse or horses were so taken up, deliver to the sheriff or a constable of the county in which the horse or horses were so taken up, a statement containing the information required to be given in the notice hereinbefore set out, and in addition thereto, he shall mail by prepaid registered mail a copy of said statement addressed to the nearest state livestock inspector. Upon receipt of such statement, the sheriff or constable shall proceed to advertise and sell at public auction the horse or horses so taken up. That prior to such sale the sheriff shall have said horses classified as follows:

Class one shall include (a) horses not bearing a registered brand and which in the opinion of the stock inspector are of a value not to exceed ten dollars per head, and (b) horses bearing a registered brand, but which the owner has failed to redeem as herein provided, after notice given, and which in the opinion of the stock inspector are of a value not to exceed ten dollars per head.

Class two shall include horses bearing registered brands and which in the opinion of the stock inspector are of a value in excess of ten dollars per head.

Horses in class two shall be sold on notice posted for twenty-one (21) days, and otherwise as notices are required to be posted for the sale of horses in class one, and such notice shall likewise be published once a week for two successive weeks before said sale in some newspaper published in the county seat of each county including any part of said district, if there be such newspaper, and if there be no newspaper published in any county comprising a part of such district, then such notice shall be published in any newspaper of general circulation in the county or counties including such district. The notice required to be published for the sale of horses in class two shall describe each horse to be sold, giving the approximate age, description and brands, if any. The proceeds of the sale shall be applied by the sheriff to the discharge of the claim and the costs of the proceedings in selling the property and enforcing the claim, and the remainder, if any, shall be deposited with the county treasurer who shall keep the same in a special fund to be designated as the "horse herd district fund" (giving number of district if more than one). A separate fund, styled as above specified, shall be kept by the county treasurer for each of said districts created in his county. The county treasurer shall make a record of the description of each horse, the amount received for same, and the amount of deductions, which record shall be open to public inspection; and any person making claim to the board of county commissioners at any time within one year from the date of sale, of ownership of such horse, and submitting proof of ownership to such board with such claim, to the satisfaction of such board, shall be entitled to receive such excess received from the sale of such horse. Any money received from the sale of any such horse which shall not be so claimed within one year after such sale, shall at the expiration of said period be transferred to the general fund of the county.

At the time fixed for hearing the board of county commissioners shall first require proof of publication of the notice of said hearing to be made and thereafter shall consider the petition and hear all interested parties. At the conclusion of any such hearing if the board of county commissioners shall find that notice of the hearing has been given in the manner and for the time prescribed herein and that the owners or possessors of fifty-five per cent (55%), or more of the lands lying within such herd district have signed the petition and request that such district be dissolved, then the said board shall forthwith spread such findings upon its minutes and thereupon shall enter an order in terms that by reason of such findings and of the proceedings had upon such petition the said horse herd district is thereby dissolved. Forthwith upon the making and entry of any such order aforesaid the horse herd district affected thereby shall be dissolved for all purposes thereafter.

Operation and Effect

In an action for damages claimed to have been caused by defendant's neglect of duty imposed by this section and section 3392, plaintiff must plead non-observance of the statute and make a case bringing the defendant within the liability created thereby. Ball Ranch Co. v. Hendrickson, 50 M 220, 225, 146 P 278.

Id. Where simple negligence is relied on as a basis of recovery of damages caused by permitting rams to run at large, the plaintiff must prove, by a preponderance of the evidence, the negligence alleged, the defendant being held to the exercise of ordinary care only. Where, however, the damages are alleged to spring from non-compliance with the duty imposed by this section, disobedience in this respect constitutes negligence per se, and makes defendant liable, if the injury was proximately caused thereby.

Id. Where rams or he-goats run at large without the tacit consent of the persons in control, or such persons make a reasonable effort to hinder or prevent them from running at large, no offense is committed and no liability is incurred, either under this section and the two succeeding sections, or in an action based upon simple negligence.

3391. Penalty. Any person violating the provisions of the preceding section is guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof must be punished as provided in section 8837 of the penal code.

3406.1. Definitions. The term “abandoned horse” as used in this act means any horse, mare, gelding, filly, jack, mule or any other animal of the genus equus, of the age of one (1) year or over, and unbranded, or if branded, which escaped assessment for taxation for the year next preceding its impounding as hereinafter provided for, and running at large upon the open range of this state, and including foals running with dams coming within the above definition. An animal not bearing a decipherable brand which is recorded in the office of the recorder of marks and brands shall be deemed unbranded.

The term “open range” means all lands in the state of Montana not enclosed by a fence. The term “open range” includes all highways outside of private enclosures and used by the public, whether the same have been formally dedicated to the public or not.

The term “person” shall include individuals, associations or persons and corporations.

Operation and Effect

One has no right to so use his property as to injure others and no vested right to the enjoyment of property if he fails to pay taxes thereon; hence this section, designed to rid the public range of abandoned horses, i.e., such as are unbranded or escaped taxation the previous year and as such declared a public nuisance, held not objectionable as retroactive legislation as interfering with the owner's vested right in the animals, the law affording him an opportunity to protect his right if he sees fit to do so and in effect doing no more than providing a further means of enforcing his obligations not to use his property so as to injure others and to pay taxes on the animals. Durocher v. Myers, 84 M 225, 230, 274 P 1062.

Id. To afford protection to those in charge of a round-up of abandoned horses and their subsequent sale, the provisions of this section must be strictly followed, and if not and the sale is held before the hour of 8 o'clock in the forenoon it is illegal and constitutes a conversion of the animals.

3406.3. Roundup of abandoned horses—petition—expenses. For the purpose of speedily clearing abandoned horses from the open range in any county or in any district thereof, the board of county commissioners of any such county must, upon the petition of at least five (5) responsible property owners, inhabitants of the proposed roundup district, engaged in the livestock business and paying taxes upon livestock in such county, or upon the petition of a reputable local live stock association, authorize a roundup of abandoned horses in any district within such county, any such roundup to be conducted in such manner as to cause as little disturbance as reasonably possible to horses running lawfully on the open range. All expense of any such roundup shall be paid by the petitioners at whose request the same is initiated, and no county officer or board shall have any power to expend any moneys of the county or incur any obligation on its behalf in connection with any such roundup. Such petitioners, however, shall be reimbursed for the expense of such roundup, as and when moneys may be available for that purpose, in the abandoned horse fund, by warrants issued upon claims filed as in the case of other claims against the county. Upon the filing of such petition the board shall make an order authorizing such roundup, which order shall describe generally such district with reasonable certainty; provided, that said district shall not include more nor less territory than that described in the petition; and such order shall also specify the date on or within ten (10) days after which the roundup shall begin and shall designate the place within the district, at which the headquarters of such roundup shall be maintained.

3406.4. Notice of holding roundup—publication—form. Notice of the holding of any such roundup shall be given by the board of county commissioners at least thirty (30) days prior to the date when the same shall begin, such notices to be published at least once a week for three (3) successive weeks in some newspaper of general circulation, printed and published in the county in which such roundup is to be held, (if any such newspaper be printed and published within such county) and such notice shall be posted in at least five (5) public places, outside of the county seat of such county on public highways in such county or district, as the case may be, in which such roundup is to be held, and three (3) notices shall be posted in three (3) public places in such county seat, one of which notices shall be posted at the front door of the court house, such notices as posted outside of the county seat to be posted not less than two (2) miles apart and all posted notices to be posted at least twenty (20) days before the date upon or after which the roundup shall begin as stated in such notice. If no newspaper be printed and published in such county, publication in a newspaper shall not be required. At least twenty (20) days before the date upon or after which the roundup is ordered to begin, a copy of such notice shall be, by the clerk of said board of county commissioners, filed with the Montana live stock commission. All roundups shall be under the control and supervision of the board of county commissioners of the county in which the same shall be held. Roundup districts shall be numbered in the order of their creation. Each roundup shall be conducted by some person designated by the board of county commissioners, whose official designation shall be "roundup foreman, roundup district,, county, state of Montana," and such person shall maintain his headquarters at the place designated by the board of county commissioners in its order as the headquarters of such roundup. Such roundup foreman shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations in all matters coming within the scope of his official duties. The board of county commissioners shall require from such roundup foreman an official bond, in an amount not less than two thousand five hundred dollars ($2,500.00) and not to exceed five thousand dollars ($5000.00), which bond shall be conditioned as official bonds of county officers, and shall be subject to all provisions of law applicable to such bonds. All abandoned horses taken up in any such roundup shall be delivered to the roundup foreman in charge of such roundup and shall be by him offered for sale at public auction and sold to the highest bidder for cash, if there be any bidder or bidders therefor, and any such abandoned horses so offered for sale, and for which no bid is made, shall be destroyed or otherwise disposed of in the discretion of the board of county commissioners, unless reclaimed as herein provided.

3406.6. Claim of owner—cost of keeping and feeding horses. Any person claiming to be the owner of any such abandoned horse or horses may serve written notice upon the roundup foreman in charge of such roundup of his claim of ownership, at any time before sale, or other final disposition of such horse or horses, such claim of ownership to be verified by the oath of the claimant or some one on his behalf, and the sale or other final disposition of such horse or horses shall, as to such horse or horses, be postponed from time to time as may be necessary, to enable the claimant to make proof of his claim as herein provided; provided that such postponement shall not be had unless the claimant shall pay to the roundup foreman in charge of such roundup, or deliver to him satisfactory security for, the estimated cost of keeping and feeding such horse or horses until sale or other final disposition, or delivery to the owner.

3406.7. Proof of ownership—payment of taxes and penalties—decision of commissioners on claim. Any person claiming any abandoned horse or horses as provided in section 3406.6 shall, within five (5) days after serving the notice provided for in said section 3406.6, or within such further time as the board of county commissioners shall allow, upon good cause shown, submit to such board proof of his ownership, and shall deposit with said board the amount of any unpaid taxes and penalties which may be assessed against such horse or horses, together with the sum of five dollars ($5.00) roundup fee. The board shall decide all such cases in preference to all other matters coming before it and at the earliest possible moment. If the claim shall be allowed, the roundup foreman in charge of such roundup shall immediately be notified of such decision and he shall forthwith deliver such horse or horses, as to which ownership shall be so proved, to the owner upon payment of any amount due from such owner for the estimated cost of keeping and feeding such horse or horses as aforesaid, and the deposit made by such owner of taxes, penalties, and roundup fee, shall be by the board delivered to the county treasurer; but if such board shall deny the claim of ownership it shall forthwith notify the person in charge of such roundup of its decision, and such horse or horses as to which such claim shall be denied shall be offered for sale at the earliest convenient session of the sales being held under such roundup, and if not sold the same shall be destroyed or otherwise disposed of as though no claim had been presented.

All moneys received from the sale of any such horses shall be paid to the county treasurer and if such sum received from the sale of any such horse shall not exceed the taxes, penalties, and the roundup fee, the whole thereof shall be immediately deposited in the abandoned horse fund for the district in which such horse or horses were rounded up; but if the sum received from the sale of any such horse shall exceed such taxes, penalties and roundup fee, the amount of such taxes, penalties and roundup fee shall be forthwith deposited in the abandoned horse fund for such district, and the excess shall be kept by the treasurer in a separate fund, and he shall make a record of the description of such horse, the amount received for the same, and the amount of deductions for taxes, penalties and roundup fee, which record shall be open to

Any money received from the sale of any such horse in excess of taxes, penalties, and roundup fee, which shall not be so claimed within six (6) months after such sale, shall at the expiration of said period become the property of such county and shall be transferred to the abandoned horse fund for the district in which any such horse was rounded up.

Operation and Effect

The owner of abandoned range horses seeking to recover funds in the county treasury realized from their sale, can under this section, only claim the balance in the county treasury over and above the charges against the horse for taxes, penalties and roundup fees; therefore where there was no balance to be claimed, the owner's property rights were not affected by failure of the round-up foreman to make the report required by the next section within the proper time and his contention that the two sections construed together, are unconstitutional if not construed in a certain way may not be considered. Durocher v. Myers, 84 M 225, 230, 274 P 1062.

3406.11. Report of roundup foreman—disposal of copies. The roundup foreman in charge of any such roundup shall keep an accurate record of all proceedings had under the order for such roundup and within thirty (30) days after such roundup shall be completed he must prepare, in triplicate, and verify by his oath, a full, true and accurate report of all the proceedings taken or had under the order for the roundup, among other things, particularly including a complete financial statement, the number and description of horses impounded and how disposed of. Within said thirty (30) days one of such triplicates of such report shall be filed with the clerk of the board of county commissioners and such filing shall be notice to the world of all the contents of such report and prima facie proof of the facts herein stated. Within said thirty (30) days one of such triplicate shall also be filed with the county assessor and one with the county treasurer for their information and appropriate action.

The owner of abandoned range horses seeking to recover funds in the county treasury realized from their sale, can under the preceding section, only claim the balance in the county treasury over and above the charges against the horses for taxes, penalties and round-up fees;

therefore where there was no balance to be claimed, the owner's property rights were not affected by failure of the round-up foreman to make the report required by this section within the proper time and his contention that the two sections construed together, are unconstitutional if not construed in a certain way may not be considered. Durocher v. Myers, 84 M 225, 230, 274 P 1062.

3406.12. Transfer of moneys of abandoned horse fund to general fund. On the 30th day of November of each year the county treasurer shall, if all claims against any such abandoned horse fund are paid and a balance remains in such fund, transfer all moneys so remaining in such fund to the general fund of the county, subject to the usual division with the state as to any portion of such balance which shall consist of taxes collected on the abandoned horses; but no part of the roundup fee of five dollars ($5.00) shall be paid to the state; and any portion of the taxes so collected which shall be used in paying claims against said fund is hereby declared to be a part of the cost of collection of such taxes.

3406.15. Effect of partial invalidity of act. If any clause, sentence, section, paragraph or part of this act shall for any reason be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid or inoperative, such judgment shall not affect, impair or invalidate the remainder of this act but shall be confined in its operation to the clause, sentence, section, paragraph or part hereof directly adjudged to be invalid or inoperative.

3418. Inspectors of quartz mines—appointment, term, and compensation.

3419. Duties of mine inspector—annual inspection.

It is the duty of the inspectors of quartz mines to visit every mine in the state once every year and inspect its workings, timbering, ventilation, means of ingress and egress, and the means adopted and in use for the preservation of the lives and safety of the miners employed therein. For this purpose the inspectors at all times shall have access to any mine and all parts thereof. All mine owners, lessees, operators, or superintendents must render such assistance as may be necessary to enable the inspectors to make the examination. When upon such inspection any mine or portion thereof is found to be in an unsafe condition, the inspector shall at once serve a notice in writing upon the owner, lessor, lessee, agent, manager, or superintendent thereof, setting forth the nature of the defects which render such mine unsafe, and the point or place in such mine where such defects exist, and requiring the repairs necessary to remedy such defects to be made within a specified time, and if in his judgment the circumstances so require, he shall forbid the operation of such mine or portion thereof as has been declared unsafe, save and except for the purpose of making the repairs necessary for the purpose of remedying such defects and making such mine safe for the laborers employed therein.

History: En. Sec. 1, Ch. 98, L. 1903; re-en. Sec. 1713, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3419, R. C. M. 1921.

NOTE.—In this and succeeding sections the words “inspector of mines” have been changed to “inspectors of quartz mines” to conform to later enactments.

3420. Duty to inspect mine upon complaint. Whenever an inspector of mines receives a complaint in writing signed by one or more parties, setting forth that the mine in which he or they are working is dangerous in any respect, he must in person visit and examine such mine. Every complaint must set forth the nature of the danger existing at the mine, and the time the cause of such danger was first observed.

History: En. Sec. 2, Ch. 98, L. 1903; re-en. Sec. 1714, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3420, R. C. M. 1921.

3421. Notice to owner of defects. After such complaint has been received by an inspector of mines, he must, as soon as possible, visit such mine; and if from such examination he ascertains that the mine is from any cause in a dangerous condition, he must at once notify the owner, lessor, or agent thereof, such notice to be in writing, and to be served by copy on such owner, lessor, lessee, or agent, in the same manner as provided by law for the serving of legal process, and the notice must state fully and in detail in what particular manner such mine is dangerous or insecure, and require all necessary changes to be made without delay, for the purpose of making such mine safe for the laborers employed therein; and in any criminal or civil procedure at law against the party or parties so notified, on account of loss of life or bodily injury sustained by an employee subsequent to such notice and in consequence of a neglect to obey the inspectors' requirements, a certified copy of the notice served by the inspector is prima-facie evidence of the gross negligence of the party or parties so complained of. If the owner, lessor, lessee, or agent of any such mine shall neglect or refuse to obey or comply with the instructions of the inspector as contained in such notice, or shall neglect or refuse to cause the repairs necessary to remedy such defect to be made within a reasonable time, or shall refuse to cause work to be stopped when so ordered, such party or parties so refusing may be prosecuted criminally by the inspector.

History: En. Sec. 3, Ch. 98, L. 1903; re-en. Sec. 1715, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3421, R. C. M. 1921.

3422. Annual inspection—report. It is the duty of the inspectors of mines, at least once in each year, to visit each mining county in the state, and examine as many of the mines in the different counties as practicable, and make such recommendations as in their judgment are necessary to insure the safety of the workmen employed therein; and whenever, from his examination an inspector finds any mine to be in an unsafe condition, he shall at once serve a notice upon the owner, lessor, lessee, or agent thereof; and if any such owner, lessor, lessee, or agent fails to comply with such notice, he may prosecute them or any of them as provided in the next preceding section.

History: En. Sec. 4, Ch. 98, L. 1903; re-en. Sec. 1716, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3422, R. C. M. 1921.

3423. Investigation after accidents. Whenever a serious or fatal accident occurs in any mine, it is the duty of the person in charge thereof to immediately notify the industrial accident board, and upon receiving such notice an inspector must at once repair to the place of the accident and investigate fully the cause of such accident, and whenever possible to do so, the inspector shall be present at the coroner's inquest held over the remains of the person or persons killed by such accident and testify as to the cause thereof and state whether, in his opinion, the accident was due to the negligence or mismanagement of the owner or person in charge. If the inspector cannot be immediately present in case of a fatal or serious accident occurring, it is the duty of the owner or person in charge of the mine to have written statements made by those witnessing the same, and duly sworn to. In case no person was present at the time of the accident, then the verified statement of those first present after the accident must be taken, and such statement must be given to the inspector. If after making such investigation the inspector deems the facts warrant it, he may prosecute criminally the owner, lessor, lessee, or agent of the mine in which such accident occurred.

History: En. Sec. 5, Ch. 98, L. 1903; re-en. Sec. 1717, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3423, R. C. M. 1921.

3424. Report. The industrial accident board must make an annual report to the governor on the first Monday of November, and in the report must state all the accidents that have occurred in the mines of the state which have occasioned serious injury or resulted fatally, together with the nature and cause of such accidents. Such report must also contain statistical and other information which may tend to promote the development of the mineral resources of the state, and must set forth the result of the inspector's labors.

History: En. Sec. 588, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 1719, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3424, R. C. M. 1921.

3425. To what mines act is applicable. The provisions of sections 3419 to 3431 of this chapter do not apply to mines in which less than five men are employed. But all owners, lessors, lessees, agents, or managers operating any metalliferous mine in this state in which five or more men are employed shall report the same to the inspector of mines, state the name of the mine, the location of the same, the name of the company, person, or persons owning or operating the same, postoffice address, and number of men employed.

History: En. Sec. 6, Ch. 98, L. 1903; re-en. Sec. 1720, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3425, R. C. M. 1921.

3426. Penalties. All violations of the provisions of sections 3419 to 3431 of this chapter are provided for in section 11280 of the penal code.

History: En. Sec. 590, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 1721, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3426, R. C. M. 1921.

3427. Safety apparatus must be used in mines. It is unlawful for any person to sink or work through any vertical shaft, where mining cages are used, at a greater depth than two hundred feet, unless the shaft is provided with an iron bonneted safety-cage to be used in lowering and hoisting employees or any other persons. The safety apparatus, whether consisting of eccentrics, springs, or other device, must be securely fastened to the cage, and of sufficient strength to hold the cage loaded at any depth to which the shaft may be sunk. The iron bonnet must be made of boiler sheet-iron of good quality, at least three-sixteenths of an inch in thickness, and must cover the top of the cage in such manner as to afford the greatest protection to life and limb, from any debris or anything falling down the shaft.

History: En. Sec. 3650, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 1722, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 3427, R. C. M. 1921.

3429. Code of signals in mines. It is made the duty of the inspector of mines of Montana, and he is hereby required to prepare a complete code of signals for use in all mines in this state, worked through a shaft of seventy-five feet or more in depth, and employing ten or more men, and cause the same to be made known to each owner or operator of a mine in Montana by printed circular instructions, to the end that a uniform code of mine signals may prevail. The said inspector of mines of Montana may add to or change such code of signals as circumstances may require, but no change of signals shall go into effect until a time specified by him, not less than sixty days nor more than ninety days from the time such change shall be ordered by him; provided, that the code of signals first prepared by him shall be used in all said shaft mines from and after June 1, 1895.

NOTE.—Throughout the entire act the necessary changes have been made to conform to subsequent legislation placing the office of coal-mine inspector under the control of the industrial accident board.

Operation and Effect

The common-law rule that the master must exercise ordinary care and diligence to provide his employees with a reasonably safe place in which to work, though not applying when they and their fellow-servants are creating the place to work, when it is constantly being changed in character by their work, or when it only becomes dangerous by their carelessness or negligence, does obtain where the place is a completed one, such as that part of a mine tunnel behind the miner driving it, and is applicable to coal mines as well as to any other place of employment. Kallio v. Northwestern Improvement Co., 47 M 314, 321, 132 P 419.

Id. The provisions of this and following sections, the purpose of which is to reduce as far as possible the hazards incident to coal mining, cannot be nullified by any agreement between employer and employee, or any rule or custom in derogation of the duties imposed.

3449. Qualifications of inspector. No person shall be eligible to the office of state coal-mine inspector until he shall have attained the age of thirty years. He shall be a citizen of the United States, a qualified resident of the state of Montana, shall have been actually employed at coal mining ten years prior to his appointment, and shall possess a competent knowledge of all the different systems of coal mining and working and properly ventilating coal mines, and the nature and constituent parts of noxious and explosive gases of coal mines, and of the various ways of expelling the same from the said mines. He shall have passed a successful examination by the board of examiners, and his certificate of qualification shall have been filed with the governor by the said board of examiners, as provided by law.

3450. Powers and duties of inspector. The state coal-mine inspector shall have the right, and it is hereby made his duty, to enter, inspect, and examine any coal mine or any shaft, drift, or slope in the process of sinking for the purpose of mining coal in this state, and the workings and the machinery belonging thereto, at all reasonable times, either by day or night, but not so as to impede or obstruct the workings of the mine, and when such inspection is contemplated he shall first notify the person in charge of his intention to make such examination. He shall also have the right and it is his duty to make inquiry into the condition of such mine, workings, machinery, scales, ventilation, drainage, method of lighting or using lights, and into all methods and things connected with or relating to, as well as to make suggestions providing for the health and safety of persons employed in or about the same, and especially to make inquiry whether or not the provisions of the laws providing for the regulation of coal mines, or other acts which may hereafter be enacted governing coal mines, have been complied with. The owner, operator, or superintendent of such mine is hereby required to furnish the means necessary for such entry, inspection, examination, inquiry, and exit. It shall also be the duty of the said coal-mine inspector to carefully examine all the coal mines in operation in this state at least every three months, and oftener if necessary, to see that every precaution is taken to insure the safety of all the workmen that may be engaged in said coal mine. The said inspector shall make a record of the visit, noting the time and the material circumstances of the inspection. At the time of making his regular quarterly inspection, in the event of the inspector having in his possession any complaint in writing to the effect that the mining code is being violated, he shall notify the employees that he is about to make such inspection, and if the employees, in some proper manner, select one of their number to accompany the inspector on such inspection, he shall permit such employee to so accompany him. In the event of no such selection being made, the inspector may, if he so desire, request some employee to accompany him. The owner or operator shall at all times have the right to personally accompany the inspector while inspecting his property, or to designate some one to so accompany him.

3451. Inspector must not be employed by companies—report to governor. The said state coal-mine inspector, while in office, shall not act as agent for any corporation, superintendent or manager of any mines, and shall in no manner whatever be under the employ of mining companies, nor shall he be interested in any coal-mining operation, either as owner, lessee, or otherwise. It shall be the duty of the industrial accident board, on or before the first day of January of every year, to make a report to the governor of the proceedings of such state coal-mine inspector and the conditions of each and every coal mine in the state, stating therein all accidents that have happened in or about said mine or mines, and to set forth in said report all such suggestions as he may deem important as to any further legislation on the subject of coal mines.

History: En. Sec. 6, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3451, R. C. M. 1921.

3452. Instruments to be furnished to inspector. For the more efficient discharge of the duties herein imposed upon him, the said state coal-mine inspector shall be furnished, at the expense of the state, with an anemometer, a safety-lamp, and whatever other instruments or other appliances may be necessary in order to carry into effect the provisions of the acts regulating coal mines.

History: En. Sec. 7, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3452, R. C. M. 1921.

3453. Inspector to post statement of mine at entrance. The state coal-mine inspector shall post up in some conspicuous place at the top of each mine visited and inspected by him a plain statement of the conditions of such mine, showing what, in his judgment, is necessary for the better protection of the lives and health of persons employed in such mine; such statement shall give the date of inspection, and be signed by the said inspector. He shall also post a notice at the landing used by the men, stating what number of men may be permitted to ride on the cage, car or cars at one time, and at what rate of speed men may be hoisted and lowered on the cage, car or cars in accordance as hereinafter provided for in this act. He must observe especially that the code of signals provided in the act of regulating coal mines between engineer and topmen and bottom-men is conspicuously posted for the information of all employees.

History: En. Sec. 8, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3453, R. C. M. 1921.

3454. Inspector ex-officio sealer of weights and measures. The state coal-mine inspector is hereby made, equally with the secretary of state, ex-officio sealer of weights and measures, in so far as the same relates to coal mines and coal mining, and as such is empowered to test and compare all weights and measures used in weighing and measuring coal at any coal mines, or used in measuring air-passages or other openings in coal mines, with the standards of weights and measures kept by the state sealer of weights and measures. Upon the written request of any coal-mine owner or operator, or ten coal miners employed at any one mine, it shall be his duty to test and prove any scale or scales at such mine against which complaint is directed, and if he shall find that they or any of them do not weigh correctly, he shall call the attention of the mine owner, lessor, or operator to the fact, and direct that said scale or scales be at once overhauled and readjusted so as to indicate only true and correct weights, and he shall forbid the further operation of such scale until such scales are adjusted. In the event that such test shall conflict with any test made by any other sealer of weights and measures, or under and by virtue of any municipal ordinance or regulation, then the test by such state coal-mine inspector shall prevail.

3455. Standard test weights to be furnished to inspector. For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act, the state coal-mine inspector shall be furnished by the state with such sets of standard weights suitable for testing the accuracy of track-scales, and of all smaller scales at mines, as may in the judgment of the state coal-mine inspector be necessary; said test weights shall remain in the custody of the state coal-mine inspector for use at any point within the state, and for any amounts expended by him for the storage, transportation, or the handling of the same, he shall be fully reimbursed upon making proper entry of the proper items in his expense voucher.

3456. Refusal of mine operator to allow examination or to furnish facilities for examination. If any owner, lessor, or operator shall refuse to permit such inspection, or to furnish the necessary facilities for making such examination and inspection, the inspector shall file his affidavit setting forth his refusal with the judge of the district court in said county in which said mine is situated, either in term-time or vacation, and obtain an order on such owner, operator, or agent so refusing as aforesaid, commanding him to permit and furnish such necessary facilities for the inspection

History: En. Sec. 12, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3456, R. C. M. 1921.

History: En. Sec. 13, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3457, R. C. M. 1921.

3458. Removal of coal-mine inspector—procedure—cost. If the court finds that the said state coal-mine inspector is neglectful of his duties or incompetent to perform the duties of his office, or that he is guilty of malfeasance or misfeasance in office, the court shall certify the same to the industrial accident board, who shall declare the office of said state coal-mine inspector vacant, and proceed in compliance with the provisions of this act to fill the vacancy; and the costs of such investigation shall, if the charges are sustained, be imposed upon the said state coal-mine inspector.

Each candidate, before receiving the examination, shall pay to the state coal-mine inspector the sum of two dollars as an examination fee, and those who pass the examination for which they are entered, before receiving their certificate, shall also pay to the state coal-mine inspector the further sum of three dollars each as a certificate fee. All such fees shall be duly accounted for by the state coal-mine inspector, and turned into the state treasurer at the close of the fiscal year.

3478. Violations. Any person who acts in the capacity of mine foreman, mine examiner, or fire-boss, without a certificate of competency as provided for in this act, shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act; provided, however, the state coal-mine inspector shall have the power to grant permits to persons to perform the duty of mine foreman, mine examiner, or fire-boss as provided for in this act, who may be employed by any company, corporation, association, person, or persons engaged in the operating of any coal mines in the state of Montana, until such time as the person so employed has had an opportunity to be examined as to his competency by the board of examiners provided for in this act, but no longer.

Every company, corporation, association, person, or persons operating any coal mine or coal mines in the state of Montana, who employs any uncertified mine foreman, mine examiner, or fire-boss, except as provided for in section 3475 of this code, shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act; provided, however, that in cases of emergency any competent man may be employed and act as a temporary mine foreman, examiner, or fire-boss, until a certificate or permit can be obtained, not to exceed a period of thirty days, without violating this act or incurring any of its penalties.

3479. Necessary to have maps of coal mines. Every operator of every coal mine in this state shall make or cause to be made an accurate map or plan of such mine, drawn to a scale of not less than two hundred feet to one inch, and as much larger as practicable, on which shall appear the name of the state, county, and township in which the mine is located, the designation of the mine, the name of the company or owner, the certificate of the mining engineer or surveyor as to the accuracy and date of the survey, the north point, and the scale to which the drawing is made.

History: En. Sec. 37, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3479, R. C. M. 1921.

3480. Underground survey. For the underground working the said map shall show all shafts, slopes, tunnels, or other openings to the surface or to the workings of a contiguous mine, all excavations, entries, rooms, and cross-cuts, the rise or dip of the seam from the bottom of the shaft, mouth of drift, or slope in either direction to the face of the workings, the location of the fan or furnace, the location of the permanent pumps, hauling engines, engine-planes, and fire-walls, the location of any standing water which might prove a menace to life or danger to property from flood, and the line of any contiguous surface outcrop of the seam.

History: En. Sec. 38, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3480, R. C. M. 1921.

3481. Map for every seam. A separate and similar map, drawn to the same scale in all cases, shall be made of each and every seam, which, after the passage of this act, shall be worked in any mine, and the maps of all such seams shall show all shafts, drifts, tunnels, incline planes, or other passageways connecting the same.

History: En. Sec. 39, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3481, R. C. M. 1921.

3483. Copies of maps for state coal-mine inspector. The original or true copies of all such maps shall be kept in the office at the mine, and true copies thereof shall also be furnished the state coal-mine inspector within thirty days after the completion of the same. The maps so delivered to the inspector shall be the property of the state, and shall remain in the custody of the said inspector during his term of office, and be delivered by him to his successor in office. They shall be kept at the office of the inspector and be open to inspection by all persons interested in the same, but such examination shall only be made in the presence of the inspector, and he shall not permit any copies of the same to be made without the written consent of the operator or owner of the property, under penalty of removal from office.

3484. Annual surveys. An extension of the last preceding survey of every mine in active operation shall be made once in every twelve months prior to July 1st of every year, and the result of said survey, with the date thereon, shall be promptly and accurately entered upon the original maps so as to show all changes in plan or new work in the mine, and all extensions of the workings to the most advanced face or boundary of said workings which have been made since the preceding survey. The said changes and extensions shall be entered upon the copies of the maps in the hands of the state coal-mine inspector, or new copies thereof be furnished him, within thirty days after the last survey is made. Whenever the operator of any mine shall neglect or refuse, or for any cause not satisfactory to the state coal-mine inspector fail, for a period of three months, to furnish the said state coal-mine inspector the map or plan of such mine, or a copy thereof, or of the extension thereto, as provided for in this act, the said state coal-mine inspector is hereby authorized to make or cause to be made an accurate map or plan of such mine at the expense of the owner or leaser thereof, and the cost of the same may be recovered by law from said owner, leaser, or operator, in the same manner as other debts by suit in the name of the state.

3485. Abandoned mines. When any coal mine is worked out, or is about to be abandoned or indefinitely closed, the operator of the same shall make or cause to be made a final survey of all available parts of such mine, and the results of the same shall be duly extended on all maps of the mine and copies thereof, so as to show all excavations and the most advanced workings of the mine, and their exact relations to the boundary or section lines on the surface.

The state coal-mine inspector may order a survey to be made of the workings of any mine which is about to be abandoned, or of which he has reason to believe the maps are inaccurate, whenever in his judgment the safety of the workmen, the support of the surface, the conservation of the property, or the safety of an adjoining mine requires it. Such survey shall be paid for by the state.

3486. Mine operators to furnish wash houses for employees. It shall be the duty of the owner, operator, or superintendent of any coal mine in the state of Montana to provide a suitable building, not an engine or boiler house, for the use of the persons employed in such mine, for the purpose of washing themselves and changing their clothes when entering the mine and returning therefrom. The said building shall not be over eight hundred feet from and convenient to the principal entrance of such mine when practicable to do so. When not practicable to build the wash house within the said distance and still conform to the other requirements of this section, the state coal-mine inspector may give written permission to place the building at a greater distance from the mine than that herein specified, and the operator shall not be guilty of violation of this section. The said building shall be maintained in good order, be properly lighted and heated, and supplied with pure cold and warm water, and be provided with facilities for persons to wash, and a suitable locker for each person to be used by him as a repository for his clothes.

If any person shall maliciously injure or destroy, or cause to be injured or destroyed, the said building or any part thereof, or any of the appliances or fittings used for supplying light, heat, or water therein, or doing any act tending to the injury or destruction thereof, he shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act and subject to a fine as hereinafter provided for.

3487. Oath of weighman—check weighman. The weighman employed at any mine shall subscribe to an oath or affirmation before some officer authorized to administer oaths, to do justice between employer and employee, and to truly and correctly weigh the output of coal from the mines as herein provided. The miners employed by or engaged in working for any mine owner, operator, or lessee of any mine in this state shall have the privilege, if they desire, of employing at their own expense a check weighman, who shall have like equal rights, powers, and privileges in the weighing of coal as the regular weighman, and be subject to the same oath and penalties as the regular weighman. Said oath or affirmation shall be kept conspicuously posted in the weight office, and any weigher of coal or person so employed, who shall knowingly violate any of the provisions of this section, or any owner, operator, or agent of any coal mine in this state, who shall forbid or hinder miners employing or using a check weighman as herein provided, or who shall prevent or wilfully obstruct any such check weighman in the discharge of his duty, shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act. Whenever the state coal-mine inspector, or his deputy, shall be satisfied that the provisions of this section have been wilfully violated, it shall be his duty to forthwith inform the prosecuting attorney of any such violation, together with all the facts within his knowledge, and the prosecuting attorney shall thereupon investigate the charges so preferred, and if he is satisfied that the provisions of this section have been violated, it shall be his duty to prosecute the person or persons guilty thereof.

3488. Must not use false weights. Any person or persons having or using any scale or scales for the purpose of weighing the output of coal at mines must not arrange or construct them so that fraudulent weighing may be done thereby, and must not knowingly resort to or employ any means whatsoever by reason of which such coal is not correctly weighed and reported in accordance with the provisions of this act.

History: En. Sec. 46, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3488, R. C. M. 1921.

3489. General equipment of shafts. Every hoisting shaft must be equipped with safely constructed substantial cages fitted to guide rails running from the top to the bottom of shaft. Said cages must be furnished with suitable boiler iron covers to protect persons riding thereon from falling objects, and with sheet-iron or steel casings on each side, not less than one-eighth inch in thickness, or wire netting of not less than one-eighth inch in diameter. They must be equipped with safety-catches, said safety apparatus, whether consisting of eccentrics, springs, or other devices, must be securely fastened to each cage, and must be of sufficient strength to hold the cage loaded at any depth to which the shaft may be sunk. Every cage must be fitted with iron bars, chains, or rings in proper place, and sufficient in number to furnish a secure hand hold for every person permitted to ride thereon. Gates not less than four feet high from the bottom of the cage shall be fitted to each cage, and must be used during the regular hoisting or lowering of men; provided, that when such cage is used for sinking only it need not be equipped with such doors as are hereinbefore provided for. At the top landing cage supports, when necessary, must be carefully set and adjusted so as to act automatically and securely hold the cage when at rest.

History: En. Sec. 47, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3489, R. C. M. 1921.

3490. Passageway around the bottom of shafts. At the bottom of every shaft and at every caging place therein a safe and commodious passageway must be cut around such landing place to serve as a travel-way, by which men or animals may pass from one side of the shaft to the other without passing under or on the cage.

History: En. Sec. 48, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3490, R. C. M. 1921.

3491. Gates at the top of shafts. The upper and lower landings at the top of each shaft, and the opening of each intermediate seam from or to the shaft, shall be kept free and clear from loose materials, and shall be securely fenced with automatic or other gates, so as to prevent either men or materials from falling into the shaft.

History: En. Sec. 49, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3491, R. C. M. 1921.

3492. Two places of egress. For every coal mine in this state, whether worked by shaft, slope, or drift, there shall be provided and maintained, in addition to the hoisting shaft, slope, or drift, or other place of delivery, a separate escapement shaft, slope, or drift, or opening to the surface, or an underground communication passageway between every such mine and some other contiguous mine, such as shall constitute two distinct and available means of egress to all persons employed in such coal mine. The time allowed for completing such escapement shaft or drift or making such connections with an adjacent mine, as is required by the terms of this act, shall be three months for shafts, slopes, or drifts, two hundred feet or less in depth or length, six months for shafts, slopes, or drifts less than five hundred feet in depth or length, and more than two hundred, and twelve months for all other shafts, slopes, or drifts or connections with adjacent mines. The time to date in all cases from hoisting of coal from main shaft, slope, or drift.

3493. Unlawful to employ more than ten men until escapement connection completed. It shall be unlawful to employ at any one time more men than in the judgment of the state coal-mine inspector is absolutely necessary for speedily completing the connections with the escapement shaft, slope, or drift, or adjacent mine, and said number must not exceed ten men at any one time for any purpose in said mine until such escapement connection is completed.

History: En. Sec. 51, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3493, R. C. M. 1921.

3494. Passageways to escapement. Such escapement shaft or opening, or communication with an adjacent mine aforesaid, shall be constructed in connection with every seam of coal worked in such mine, and all passageways communicating with the escapement shaft or place of exit, from the main hauling ways to said place of exit, shall be maintained free of obstructions, at least five feet wide and five feet in height. Such passageways must be so graded and drained that it will be impossible for water to accumulate in any depression or dip of the same, in quantities sufficient to obstruct the free and safe passage of men. At all points where the passageway to the escapement shaft or other place of exit is intersected by other roadways or entries, conspicuous sign-boards shall be placed indicating the direction it is necessary to take in order to reach such place of exit. Where pillars are being drawn on any entry outside of where other men are working, or where more than fifty per cent. of the coal is taken out in rooms, connections for escapement shall be made with some adjoining entry to provide a safe exit for the men.

3495. Distance of escapement from main shaft. The distance between the main shaft and escapement shall not be less than one hundred feet where steel head-frames are used, nor less than three hundred feet where wooden head-frames are used; provided, that where slops or drifts are driven in or on the coal strata, the distance between the escapement road or travelway and the slope drift or hauling way shall not be less than fifty feet.

3496. Buildings on surface. It shall be unlawful to erect any inflammable structure or building in any space intervening between the main shaft, slope, or drift and the escapement shaft, slope, or drift on the surface, or any powder-magazine in such location or manner as to jeopardize the free and safe exit of the men from the mine by said escapement shaft, slope, or drift, in case of fire in the main shaft, slope, or drift buildings.

History: En. Sec. 54, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3496, R. C. M. 1921.

3497. Stairway or cages in escapement shaft. The escapement shaft at every mine which does not exceed one hundred feet in vertical depth shall be equipped with safe and ready means for the prompt removal of men from the mine in time of danger, and such means shall be a substantial stairway which shall be provided with the hand-rails and with platforms or landings not more than ten feet apart. Where the escapement exceeds one hundred feet in vertical depth, in place of the stairway, it may be equipped with a cage for hoisting men, and such cage must be suspended between guides and be so constructed that falling objects cannot strike persons being hoisted upon it. Such cage must be operated by steam or electricity, which power shall be kept available for immediate use at all times, and equipment of said hoisting apparatus shall include a depth indicator, a brake on the drum, a steel or iron cable and safety-catches on the cage; and all such hoisting machinery must be inspected at least once each week by some competent person representing the operating company or owner.

3498. Obstructions in escapement shaft. No accumulation of ice or obstruction of any kind shall be permitted in any escapement shaft, nor shall any steam be discharged into said shaft; and all surface or other water which flows therein shall be conducted by rings or otherwise to receptacles for same, so as to keep the stairway or cage free from falling water.

History: En. Sec. 56, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3498, R. C. M. 1921.

3499. Weekly inspection of escapements. All escapement shafts and passageways leading thereto or to the works of a contiguous mine must be carefully examined at least once each week by the mine foreman, or by a man specially delegated by him for that purpose, and the date and findings of such inspection must be entered in a record book in the office at the mine. If obstructions are found, their location and nature must be stated, together with the date on which they were removed.

History: En. Sec. 57, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3499, R. C. M. 1921.

3500. Communication with adjacent mines. When operators of adjacent mines have by agreement established underground communication between said mines as an escapement outlet for the men employed in both mines, the roadways to the boundary on either side shall be regularly patrolled once each week and kept clear of all obstructions to travel by respective operators, and the intervening door shall remain unlocked and ready at all times for immediate use. When such communication has once been established between adjacent mines, it shall be unlawful for the operator of either mine to close the same without the consent of the contiguous operator and the state coal-mine inspector; provided, that when either operator desires to abandon mining operations, the expense and duty of maintaining such communication shall devolve upon the party continuing operations and using the same.

3501. Ventilation of mines. The owner, operator, or superintendent of every coal mine, whether operated by shaft, slope, or drift, shall provide and hereafter maintain ample means of ventilation for the circulation of air through the main entries, cross entries, and all other working places, to an extent that will dilute, carry off, and render harmless the noxious or dangerous gases generated in the mine, affording not less than one hundred cubic feet per minute for each and every person employed therein, and not less than six hundred cubic feet per minute for each and every animal in the mine; but in any mine, or section of a mine, where fire-damp is generated, not less than one hundred and fifty cubic feet of air per minute shall be provided for each person, or as much more as may be necessary to keep such section free from fire-damp. The quantities of air in circulation shall be ascertained with an anemometer or other efficient instrument; such measurement shall be made by the foreman or his assistants once a week at the inlet and outlet airways, and also at or near the face of each entry, and shall be recorded in the book kept for that purpose at the mine office. The quantity of air as provided for in this act for each person shall be conducted to each working place.

In rooms generating fire-damp, the volume of air required by this act shall be conducted to the face thereof by the use of brattice-cloth or other suitable means.

3502. Pressure-gauges. At each mine generating fire-damp so as to be detected by a safety-lamp a water-gauge for the purpose of recording the pressure of vacuum of the main air current shall be provided and maintained, which shall be kept in constant use, and records preserved subject to the inspection of the state coal-mine inspector or his authorized representative.

History: En. Sec. 60, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3502, R. C. M. 1921.

3503. Number of persons permitted to work in same air current. The current of air in mines must be split or subdivided so as to give a separate current to a number not exceeding one hundred men at work, and the inspector has the discretion to order a separate current for a smaller number of men if special conditions render it necessary.

History: En. Sec. 61, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3503, R. C. M. 1921.

3504. Cross-cuts and brattices for ventilation. Cross-cuts between the entries, except where the same are within the confines of shaft bottom pillars, or are hereafter provided for, shall be made not exceeding sixty (60) feet apart, unless sufficient brattice is used to keep the air current up to the entry face, in which case they shall not exceed one hundred (100) feet apart. Where entries or rooms are being driven by entry driving machines, or any other mechanical loading device, or where local mechanical methods of ventilation are installed to furnish air to the workmen at the face, cross-cuts may be driven at not exceeding three hundred (300) feet apart, provided that brattice, tubing or some other device is used sufficient to give at the face twice the amount of air per man and animal provided for in section 3501, and to clear said face of powder smoke before the men are required to return to work therein. In mines or sections of a mine where no local mechanical methods of ventilation are installed, when there is a solid block on one side of a room, cross-cuts shall be made between such room and the adjacent room not to exceed sixty (60) feet apart; where there is a breast or group of rooms, a cross-cut shall be made on one side or the other of each room, except the room adjoining said block, not to exceed fifty (50) feet from the outside corner of the crosscut to the nearest corner of the entrance of the room, and on the opposite side of the same room a cross-cut shall be made not to exceed ninety (90) feet from the outside corner of the cross-cut to the nearest corner of the entrance of the room, and thereafter cross-cuts shall be made not to exceed eighty (80) feet apart on each side of the room. The required air current shall be conducted to the cross-cut nearest the face of each entry or room.

Brattices between permanent inlet and outlet airways shall hereafter be constructed in a substantial manner of brick, blocks, masonry, concrete, or non-perishable material. Rooms must not be worked in advance of the ventilating current.

3505. Operation of ventilating fans—furnaces, etc. All ventilating fans, furnaces, and any means in use to ventilate mines shall be kept in constant operation, day and night, in mines generating fire-damp, or where two shifts are being worked. Where no fire-damp is generated, or only one shift is worked, the fan, furnace, or other means of ventilation shall be started and kept running not less than two hours before the time to begin work. Should it at any time become necessary to stop the fan or other means of ventilation on account of accident or needed repairs to any part of the machinery, furnace, or other means of ventilation connected therewith, or by reason of any unavoidable cause, it shall then be the duty of the mine foreman, or any official in charge, after first having provided as far as possible for the safety of the persons employed in the mine, to order said fan or other means of ventilation to be stopped so as to make the necessary repairs or to remove any other difficulty that may have been the cause of such stoppage. All ventilating furnaces in mines shall, for two hours before the appointed time to begin work and during working hours, be properly attended by a person employed for the purpose.

History: En. Sec. 63, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3505, R. C. M. 1921.

3506. Overcasts, air-bridges and doors—how to be constructed. In all mines, all main air-bridges or overcasts built after the passage of this act shall be constructed of masonry or other incombustible material of ample strength, or be driven through the solid strata. In all mines the doors used in guiding and directing ventilation of the mine shall be so hung and adjusted that they will close themselves, or can be supplied with springs or pulleys so that they cannot be left standing open, and an attendant shall be employed at all principal doors through which cars are hauled, for the purpose of opening and closing said doors when trips of cars are passing to and from workings, unless an approved self-acting door is used. Necessary room shall be provided at each door so as to protect said attendant from being run over by the cars while attending to his duties, and persons employed for this purpose shall at all times remain at their post of duty during working hours. On every inclined plane, or where haulage is done by machinery, and where a door is used, an extra door shall be provided to use in case of necessity.

3507. Underground stables. Where livestock is kept underground, the stables or stalls shall be separated from the main air-course by not less than twenty feet of solid strata, or a solid wall of brick masonry or concrete not less than twelve inches in thickness. The construction of the stable shall, as far as possible, be free from all combustible material. No hay or straw shall be taken into the mine unless same be compressed into compact bales, and only from time to time in such quantities as will be required for two days' use. No greater quantity of hay or straw shall be stored in the mine or stable, and when such is taken inside the mine it shall be taken to the stable at once and placed in a separate room provided therein for the same. The stable must be so placed that the air ventilating the same is returned immediately to the main outlet air-course, and not allowed to go further into the mine to where men are working. The connections between the air-courses and the stables must be fitted with substantial doors, placed so that they can be readily reached in the event of fire in the stable. Where conditions prohibit the use of entirely incombustible material in the construction of the stable, the doors leading to or from the same shall be made of iron or steel plate, not less than one-quarter inch in thickness, set in masonry or concrete walls. The lights used in the stable shall be incandescent lamps placed so that same will not be injured by the stock or the persons required to enter the stable, or lanterns of railroad type suitable for using lard or signal oil, and only such oil shall be used therein. All refuse and waste shall be promptly removed from the stable in the mine, and shall not be allowed to accumulate.

Stables constructed underground after the passage of this act shall be located not nearer than one hundred and fifty feet to any opening to the mine used as a means of ingress or egress.

3508. Precautions when approaching abandoned workings. Whenever any working place of a mine approaches within one hundred feet of the abandoned workings of another mine, as indicated by an accurate survey, or while driving any working place parallel with the workings of such abandoned mine within one hundred feet thereof, and such abandoned mine cannot be explored, or when same contains fire-damp or water which may inundate such working place, the mine foreman shall not permit such working place to be advanced until a drill hole has been extended not less than twelve feet in the center of such working place, and a flank hole not less than twelve feet extended on each rib, starting at the working face after taking out each cut of breaking.

Whenever the limits of an abandoned mine are not known by actual survey, the above rule shall apply whenever any working place approaches within two hundred feet of the supposed limits of such abandoned mine.

3509. Timber and supplies. The operator of any mine shall keep an adequate supply of suitable timber constantly on hand, and deliver to the working place of each miner the props of approximate length, caps, and other timbers necessary to securely prop the roof thereof. Such props, caps, and other timbers shall be delivered in mine cars at the point where the miner receives his empty cars, or unloaded at the entrance to the room.

3510. Hauling roads. On all hauling roads or entries on which the hauling is done by machinery, where men have to pass to or from their work, and on all entries on which the hauling is done by draft-animals, there shall be a clearance on one side of at least two and one-half feet between the car and the rib of such entry. This place shall be kept free from all obstructions, and no material shall be placed thereon. In mines already opened prior to the passage of this act where such clearance does not exist, or in mines where mining conditions prohibit the driving of entries wide enough to give such clearance, places of refuge must be cut in the side wall at least three feet wide, two and one-half feet deep, five feet high, and not more than twenty yards apart, but such places of refuge shall not be required in entries from which rooms have been driven at regular intervals not exceeding twenty yards. All such places of refuge must be kept clear of obstructions, and no material shall be stored nor allowed to accumulate therein.

3511. Airways. It shall be the duty of the owner, lessee, or operator of every coal mine to provide and maintain airways of sufficient dimensions, and in no case shall the area of the air-course be less than twenty-five feet in mines operated on the room and pillar system.

History: En. Sec. 69, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3511, R. C. M. 1921.

3512. Drainage—traveling ways—obstructions. Standing or stagnant water shall not be allowed to remain in traveling ways, nor shall the intake airways be used by miners or other persons as a depository for excrement or any other refuse. Obstructions of any kind must not be placed in cross-cuts, rooms, or entries used as main airways. Where necessary to provide a traveling way other than the main entries, slope, or drift in any mine for men going to or returning from their work, the same shall be kept clear from debris or obstructions of any kind, and all loose coal, slate, and rock overhead or in rib in traveling ways, where miners have to travel to or from their work, must be taken down or carefully secured.

History: En. Sec. 70, Ch. 120, L. 1911;
re-en. Sec. 3512, R. C. M. 1921.

3514. Removal of combustible matter. It shall be the duty of the mine foreman or his assistant in charge of any coal mine where coal dust or any other inflammable material may accumulate, to cause the same to be properly saturated with water or with some compounds or chemicals used for such purpose as often as necessary in either air-courses or entries, and all accumulated matter, explosive in its nature, shall be removed from the mine.

3515. Mine foreman and his duties. In order to secure efficiency in the coal mines, the operator or superintendent shall employ a competent and practical foreman; said mine foreman shall have passed an examination and obtained a certificate of competency as required by this act, and said mine foreman shall devote the whole of his time to his duties at the mine when in operation.

The mine foreman or his assistant shall visit and examine every working place in the mine at least each alternate day while the miners of such places are or should be at work, and shall examine and see that each working place is secured by timbering so that the safety of the mine is assured; he shall see that a sufficient supply of timbers and material is always on hand at the working places in compliance with this act.

When the mine foreman is personally unable to carry out the requirements of this act as pertaining to his duties, on account of sickness or of other unavoidable conditions, a competent person shall be appointed to act in his place. The said person so appointed shall possess a certificate of competency, either as mine foreman or mine examiner, as provided for in this act, or shall receive a permit to act as such from the state coal-mine inspector's office within thirty-days after taking charge.

Whenever such mine foreman, his assistant, or assistants, shall have an unsafe place reported to him or them, he or they shall order and direct that the same be placed in a safe condition, and until such is done no person or persons shall enter such unsafe place except for the purpose of making it safe.

Operation and Effect

Defendants being aware of the existence of a pot-hole in a coal mine for a sufficient time before an accident to an employee to enable them to make a proper examination and repairs, they were bound by this section and were liable in damages for their failure to perform their duty in this respect. McInness v. Republic Coal Co., 49 M 112, 118, 140 P 235.

3516. Mine examiners and their duties. A mine examiner shall be required at all coal mines generating dangerous and explosive gases.

His duty shall be to visit the mine before the men are permitted to enter it, and, first, he shall see that the air current is traveling in its proper course and quantity. He shall inspect all places where men are expected to pass or to work, and observe if there are any recent fall or obstructions in rooms and roadways or accumulations of fire-damp or other unsafe conditions.

He shall especially examine the edges and accessible parts of recent falls and old gobs and air-courses. As evidence of such examination, he shall mark with chalk upon the face of the coal his initial and the date of the month and year; if there is any standing gas discovered he shall leave a danger-signal across every entrance to such place.

He shall make a report on a blackboard provided on the outside of the mine, or at some other convenient place for that purpose, and arranged so that the men can inspect it while passing to their work, showing the conditions of the mine as to the presence of fire-damp, and indicating the place or places where present, if any is present, before he permits any person or persons to enter the mine. He shall complete his inspection before the time for the day-shift men to go to work, and shall personally check each miner or loader into the mine, advising each as to the condition of his working place, and holding back any man whose working place is in dangerous condition. He shall return to the mine with such miners or loaders thus held back, and remain there attending to the removal of any standing gas.

He shall examine parts of the mine not in actual course of working and available, not less than once each three days. He shall see that every part of the mine is kept free from standing gas and all old workings are properly fenced off. He shall examine the mine on idle days and Sundays if any men are required to work in any part of it, and, if any time elapse between the day turn leaving and night turn starting, the places to be worked by night turn must be examined by him with a safety-lamp and reported safe before persons go to them. He shall make a daily record of the conditions of the mine as he has found them, in a book kept for that purpose, which shall be preserved in the office of the company. No miner or loader, when advised by the mine examiner that his working place is dangerous, shall leave the bottom of the shaft or the main partings on slopes or drifts until accompanied by the mine examiner.

3517. Safety-lamps. At any mine where fire-damp or other explosive gases are being generated so as to require the use of safety-lamps in any part thereof, the operator of such mine, upon receiving notice from the state coal-mine inspector or the mine examiner that one or more lamps are necessary to the safety of the men in such mine, shall at once procure and keep for use such number of the most improved safety-lamps as may be necessary. All safety-lamps used for working therein shall be the property of the operator, and shall remain in the custody of the mine foreman or other competent person, who shall clean, trim and fill, examine, and deliver the same, locked and in safe condition, to the men when entering the mine, and shall receive the same from the men at the end of their shift. Persons using such lamps shall be responsible for the conditions and proper use of safety-lamps while in their possession.

3518. Only safety-lamps to be used. In every working approaching any place where there is likely to be an accumulation of explosive gases, or in any working where danger is imminent from explosive gases, no light or fire other than a locked safety-lamp shall be allowed or used.

History: En. Sec. 76, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3518, R. C. M. 1921.

3519. Keys for safety-lamps. No one except a duly authorized person shall have in his possession a key or other contrivance for the purpose of unlocking any safety-lamp in any mine where locked safety-lamps are used. No lucifer matches or any other apparatus for striking light shall be taken into said mine or parts thereof.

History: En. Sec. 77, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3519, R. C. M. 1921.

3520. Firing of blasts where safety-lamps are used. In any mine where locked safety-lamps are used, no blast shall be fired in such portion of the mine except by permission of the mine foreman or his assistants, and before a blast is fired the person in charge must examine the place and adjoining places and satisfy himself that it is safe to fire such blast before such permission is given.

History: En. Sec. 78, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3520, R. C. M. 1921.

3521. Storing of explosives in mines. No workman shall have at any time more than one twenty-five pound keg of black powder in the mine, nor more than five pounds of high explosives. Every person who has powder or other explosives in a mine shall keep it or them in a wooden or metallic box or boxes, securely locked, and said boxes shall be kept at least five feet from the track, and no two powder-boxes shall be kept within twenty-five feet of each other, nor shall black powder and high explosives be kept in the same box.

3522. Manner of handling explosives. Whenever a workman is about to open a box or keg containing powder or other explosives, and while handling the same, he shall place and keep his lamp at least five feet distant from such explosive, and in such position that the air current cannot carry sparks to it, and no person shall approach nearer than five feet to any open box containing powder or other explosives with a lighted lamp, lighted pipe, or other thing containing fire.

History: En. Sec. 80, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3522, R. C. M. 1921.

History: En. Sec. 81, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3523, R. C. M. 1921.

3524. System of blasting. A workman who is about to explode a blast with a squib shall not shorten the match, saturate it with oil, or ignite it except at the extreme end. He shall see that all persons are out of danger from probable effects of such shots, and shall take measures to prevent any one from approaching by shouting "Fire" immediately before lighting the fuse or squib.

When firing shots in close proximity to other workmen on rib or in cross-cut driven for air or other purposes, he or they, firing such shots, shall notify in person or by signals the workmen in adjoining rooms or other place or entry.

When a squib is used and a shot misses fire, no person shall return until five minutes shall have elapsed. When a fuse is used and a shot misses fire, no person shall return until one hour for each foot of fuse used shall have elapsed. When it is necessary to tamp dynamite, nothing but a wooden tamper shall be used.

No hole shall be drilled to a greater depth than the cut or shearing, neither shall fine coal, coal dust, or any combustible material be used for tamping any hole.

No workman shall put off any blast in any mine known as a "following shot."

At all coal mines where the coal is loaded by hand by individual miners or loaders the firing of shots shall be restricted to a specific time at the end of each shift, except that in entries, slants and room necks, when necessary, one snubbing shot may be fired in each at the middle of the shift. No miner shall fire a shot until the time appointed for him to do so, and then only in such rotation as designated by the proper authority. After each blast he shall exercise great care in examining the roof and coal and shall secure them safely before beginning to load coal. Where shooting is done by shift work the same precaution shall be used by some person or persons designated by the operator.

In any coal mine, or any section of a coal mine, where the coal is loaded out by any mechanical means, conveyor, power shovel, entry driving machine, scraper loader or other loading device, or where new methods of mining are being developed that require shooting more than once per shift, the firing of shots may take place at any time during the shift, when necessary, after proper inspection by competent men as may be designated by the operator, provided that efficient means are employed to carry the powder smoke as directly and as quickly as possible to the return air-way and also that the workmen are not required to work in a smoky atmosphere.

When draw slate is over the coal, the miner shall not go underneath the draw slate until it is made safe from falling by securely posting it, and he shall not remove the posts until the coal is removed and he is ready to take down the draw slate. He shall not place in the gob or refuse pile any fine coal or coal dust but shall load same into cars. When more than one shot is to be fired at the same time with fuse, in the same working place, different lengths of fuse shall be used so as to prevent any possibility of the shots going off simultaneously.

3525. Care of working places. Each miner shall examine his working place upon entering the same, and shall not commence to mine or load until it is made safe. He shall be very careful to keep his working place in safe condition at all times.

Should he at any time find his place becoming dangerous from any cause or condition, to such an extent that he is unable to take care of the same personally, he shall at once cease work and notify the mine foreman or his assistant, as provided for hereinbefore in this act, of such danger, and upon leaving such place he shall place some plain warning at the entrance thereof to warn others from entering into the said danger, and he shall not return to his place until ordered to do so by the mine foreman or his assistant. Each miner, or other person employed in a mine, shall securely prop the roof of the working place therein under his control, and shall obey any order or orders given by the superintendent or mine foreman relating to the width of his working place or safety of the same. Such miner or other person shall not be held to have violated the provisions of this section if the owner, lessee, agent, superintendent, or mine foreman fail to supply the necessary props, caps, timber, or necessary material as provided for in this act.

Each miner or other person shall avoid waste of props, caps, timber, or other material. When he has props, caps, timber, or other material unsuited for his purpose, he shall not cover them up or destroy them, but shall place same near the track where they can be readily seen.

Definition of Working Place

The "working place," within the meaning of the above section, of a miner engaged in loading coal, was the place where he was about to load the coal previously blasted down by him, and not the place in the tunnel where the accident occurred. McInness v. Republic Coal Co., 49 M 112, 115 et seq., 140 P 235; Kallio v. Northwestern Improvement Co., 47 M 314, 132 P 419.

Operation and Effect

A positive duty is imposed upon the employee to examine and keep in a safe condition his working place, or in the event of his inability to do so, to cease operations and report to the employer, and in the event of his absence to observe this statutory duty, recovery cannot be had for injuries sustained, where no examination was made prior to commencing work, though the employer had failed to discharge its duty in keeping the place safe, since both were in pari delicto. Kallio v. Northwestern Improvement Co., 47 M 314, 323, 132 P 419; McInness v. Republic Coal Co., 49 M 112, 115, 140 P 235.

3526. Duties of machine-men. Machine runners and helpers shall use care while operating mining machines. They shall not operate a machine unless the shields are in place, and shall warn all persons not engaged in the operating of a machine of the danger in going near a machine while in operation, and shall not permit such persons to remain near the machine while in operation. They shall examine the roof of the working place and see that it is safe before starting to operate the machinery. They shall not move the machine while the cutter-chain is in motion.

When connecting the power cable to electric wires, they shall make the negative or grounded connections before connecting to the positive, and, when disconnecting the power cable, shall disconnect from the positive line before disconnecting the negative, or grounded. When positive feed wires extend into rooms, they shall connect such wires to the positive wire on the entry before connecting the power cable, and as soon as the power cable is disconnected shall disconnect such wire from the wire on the entry. They shall use care that the cable does not come in contact with metallic rails of the track, and shall avoid, where possible, leaving the cable in water. If any machine-men remove props which have been placed by the miner for the security of the roof, they shall reset such props as promptly as possible.

3527. Duties of motormen, trip riders, and drivers. Motormen and trip riders shall use care in handling the motors and cars, and shall see that signals or markers, as provided for, are used as provided, and shall be governed by the speed provided for in this act in handling cars. They shall not run the motors with the trolley ahead of the motors, except in case where they cannot do the alternative, and then only at a speed of two miles an hour. They shall warn persons forbidden to ride on the motors or cars, and shall not permit such persons to ride on motors or cars contrary to the provisions of this act.

Drivers shall use care in handling cars, especially when going down extreme grades and at junction points.

Motormen, trip riders, and drivers in charge of hauling trips, passing through doors used as a means of directing the ventilation, shall see that such doors are closed promptly after the trip passes through.

3528. Duties of other employees. No person shall enter a mine generating fire-damp so as to be detected by a safety-lamp until the mine examiners make a report on the blackboard for that purpose, as hereinbefore provided for in this act.

No person, unless accompanied by the mine examiner, shall go beyond a danger-signal until all standing gas discovered has been removed or diluted and rendered harmless by a current of air. Any person, being ordered to withdraw by the mine foreman or mine examiner from the mine on account of the interruption of the ventilation, shall not re-enter the mine until given permission to do so by the mine foreman.

No person other than the mine examiner shall remove any caution board or danger-signal placed at the entrance to any working place, or at the entrance to any old workings in a mine.

No person shall erase or change a mark of reference or monument made in connection with a measurement; change marks or dates or any caution board, or erase or change the dates at room or entry face, when made by the mine examiner; change the checks on cars, wrongfully check a car, or do any act with intent to defraud. No person shall take a lighted pipe or other thing containing fire, except lanterns as provided for in this act, into any underground stable or barn.

No person shall place refuse in or obstruct any airway or break-through used as an airway. No workman or other person shall injure a water-gauge, barometer, air-course, brattice equipment, machinery, or livestock; obstruct or throw open any airway; handle or disturb any part of the machinery of the hoisting-engine of a mine; open a door of a mine and neglect to close it; endanger the miners or those working therein; disobey an order given in pursuance of law, or do a wilful act whereby the lives and health of persons working therein or the security of a mine or machinery connected therewith may be endangered.

3529. Persons permitted to ride on haulage trips. No person or persons, except those in charge of trips, superintendents, mine foremen, mine examiners, electricians, mechanics, and blacksmiths, when required by their duty, shall ride on haulage trips, except where by mutual agreement in writing between the superintendent or agent and the employees a special trip of empty cars is run for the purpose of taking employees into or out of the mine, or empty cars are attached to loaded trips, which shall not be run at a speed exceeding six miles per hour.

3530. Employees shall not loiter around mines—intoxication or possession of intoxicants forbidden. Each employee of a mine shall go to or from his place of duty by the traveling ways provided; shall not travel around the mine or the buildings, where duty does not require, and when not on duty shall not loiter at, in, or around the mine, the buildings, or machinery connected therewith, except by permission of the owner, lessee, operator, superintendent, or foreman.

No person shall go into or around a mine, the buildings, or the machinery connected therewith, while under the influence of intoxicants. No person shall use, carry, or have in his possession, at, in, or around a mine, the buildings, or the machinery connected therewith, any intoxicants.

3531. Top and bottom men. At every shaft, operated by steam or other power, the operator must station at the top and the bottom of such shaft a competent man, charged with the duty of attending to signals, preserving order, and enforcing rules, during the carriage of the men on cages.

History: En. Sec. 89, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3531, R. C. M. 1921.

3532. Lights on landings. Whenever the hoisting or lowering of men occurs before daylight or after dark, or when the landing at which men leave or take the cage, car, or cars is at all obscured by steam or otherwise, there must always be maintained at such landing a light sufficient to show the landing and surrounding objects distinctly. Lights shall also be maintained at each landing and the bottom of all shafts while men are at work underground.

History: En. Sec. 90, Ch. 120, L. 1911; re-en. Sec. 3532, R. C. M. 1921.

3533. Regulations for hoisting or lowering of men. Cages in shafts, or cars in any slope, on which men are riding, shall not be lifted or lowered at a rate of speed greater than six hundred feet per minute.

No more than twelve persons shall ride on any cage or car at any one time, except where especially constructed man-cars are used on a slope.

No person shall carry any explosives, tools, timber, or other material with him on a cage, car, or cars in motion, in any shaft or any slope or incline plane while the men are being hoisted or lowered, except for use in repairing the shaft, slope, or incline plane.

No cage having an unstable or self-dumping platform shall be used for the carriage of men or materials, unless the same is provided with some device by which the platform can be securely locked, and unless it is so locked whenever men or materials are being conveyed thereon.

The rope-rider on any slope or incline plane shall, during working hours, see that all ropes and signals are in perfect working order, and, if he perceives anything wrong, he shall at once report the same to the mine foreman or his assistant.

He must be cautious when men are being hoisted out of or lowered into any slope, and shall see that all safety appliances are properly attached, and that all cars are securely coupled. He shall pay strict attention to all signals.

When more than twelve persons get on a cage or on one car on a slope or incline plane, except as above provided for, the bottomman, topman, or rope-rider in charge of the lowering and hoisting of such persons shall order a sufficient number to get off to reduce the number to twelve persons on the cage or car, and the person or persons so ordered shall immediately comply.

The car or cars used to hoist or lower men into or out of any slope or on any plane shall be connected by safety-chains, or some safety appliance must be used to maintain the trip in case of breakage of coupling or other connection.

3534. Rights of men to come out. Whenever men who have finished their day's work, or who have been prevented from further work for any cause, shall come to the bottom of any shaft to be hoisted out, a cage shall be given them for that purpose, unless there is an available exit by slope or stairway in an escapement shaft, and providing there is no coal at the bottom to be hoisted. Whenever the designated number of persons for a cage load shall arrive at the bottom of the shaft in which persons are regularly hoisted or lowered, they shall be furnished with an empty cage and be hoisted.

3535. Stretchers, blankets, bandages, oil, ambulance to be provided. At every mine where men are employed underground, it shall be the duty of the operator thereof to keep always on hand and at some readily accessible place, a properly constructed stretcher, a woolen and water-proof blanket, and roll of bandages, in good condition and ready for immediate use, for binding, covering and carrying anyone who may be injured at the mine; also to provide a comfortable apartment near the mouth of the mine in which anyone so injured may rest while awaiting transportation home, and to provide for the speedy transportation of anyone injured in such mine to his home. When more than one hundred and fifty men are employed in any one mine two stretchers, two woolen and two water-proof blankets, with a corresponding supply of bandages, shall be provided and kept on hand. There shall also be provided and kept in store a suitable supply of linseed or olive oil, for use in case men are burned by an explosion or otherwise. There shall also be provided at any mine where more than five hundred men are employed an ambulance of standard make or kind to be used for the purpose of transporting sick or injured workmen from the mine to the hospital or home of such sick or injured workmen; provided, however, that mines employing less than five hundred men may jointly, when located within a radius of six miles of each other, provide an ambulance as provided in this section for the joint service of such mines, which ambulance shall be kept at the mine or garage that is most centrally or conveniently located for the service of the joint users.

3536. Oils to be used in coal mines. No person, firm, or corporation shall compound, sell, or offer for sale, for illuminating purposes in any coal mine, any oil, other than oil composed of not less than eighty-four per cent. of pure animal or vegetable oil, or both, and not more than sixteen per cent. pure mineral oil. The gravity of such animal or vegetable oil shall not be less than twenty-one and one-half and not more than twenty-two and one-half degrees Baume scale measured by Tagliabue or other standard hydrometer, at a temperature of sixty degrees Fahrenheit; the gravity of such mineral oil shall not be less than thirty-four and not more than thirty-six degrees Baume scale, measured by Tagliabue or other standard hydrometer, at a temperature of sixty degrees Fahrenheit, and gravity of the mixture shall not exceed twenty-four degrees Baume scale, measured by Tagliabue or other standard hydrometer, at a temperature of sixty degrees Fahrenheit. It is provided, however, that any material that is as free from smoke and bad odor, and of equal merit as an illuminant as a pure animal or vegetable oil, may be used at the pleasure of mine operators and miners.

Each person, firm, or corporation compounding oil for illuminating purposes in a coal mine or mines, shall, before shipment thereof is made, securely brand, stencil, or paste upon the head of such barrel or package, a label which shall have plainly printed, marked, or written thereon the name and address of the person, firm, or corporation compounding the oil therein contained, the name and address of the person, firm, or corporation having purchased same, the date of shipment, the percentage and gravity in degrees Baume scale, at a temperature of sixty degrees Fahrenheit, of each of the component parts of animal, vegetable, and mineral oil contained in the mixture, and the gravity in degrees Baume scale of the mixture, at a temperature of sixty degrees Fahrenheit.

Each label shall have printed thereon, over the facsimile signature of the person, firm, or corporation having compounded the oil, the following: "This package contains oil for illuminating purposes in coal mines in the state of Montana, and the composition thereof as shown herein is correct."

No person, firm, or corporation shall sell or offer for sale any oil for illuminating purposes in any coal mine, unless the barrel or package in which such oil was received bears the label of the compounder as provided for in this act.

Each person, firm, or corporation selling or offering for sale any oil for illuminating purposes in any coal mine, shall, upon request of the state-coal-mine inspector, or of any officer or duly authorized agent of any owner or lessee of a coal mine located within five miles of the point where such oil is offered for sale, or of any coal-miner, submit such oil for examination, and upon request give a sample of such oil from one or more original containers selected by such inspector, officer, agent, or miner for the purpose of making a test thereof.

No person shall adulterate any oil, either before or after taking same from original containers, and shall not alter, transfer, or reuse any label placed upon any container.

No person shall use for illuminating purposes in any coal mine any oil other than oil specifically provided for in this act. Each person while in a coal mine shall, upon the request of the inspector of mines, or any officer or duly authorized agent of the owner or lessees, submit his lamp and supply of oil for examination, and upon request give sample of oil for purpose of making test thereof, and state from whom purchased.

The provisions of this act relating to compounding, sale, and use of oil for illuminating purposes in coal mines shall apply to oil used in lamps for open lights only, but do not apply to drivers, rope-riders, or motormen while acting in such capacity. The oil used in safety-lamps may be of such composition as will best serve the purpose.

3537. Boundary lines. In no case shall the workings of a coal mine be driven nearer than ten feet to the boundary line of the coal rights pertaining to said mine, except for the purpose of establishing connecting workings between properties owned by the same person, or an underground communication between contiguous mines as provided for elsewhere in this act.

It shall, moreover, be the duty of every operator of a coal mine, or his agent, to make and preserve for the information of the inspector, upon uniform blanks furnished by the said inspector, a record of all injuries sustained by any employees in the pursuance of their regular occupation.

The state coal-mine inspector may also make any original or supplementary investigation which he may deem necessary as to the nature and cause of any accident within his jurisdiction, and shall make a record of the circumstances attending the same and of the result of his investigations for preservation in the files of his office.

To enable him to make such investigation, he shall have the power to compel the attendance of the witnesses and to administer oaths or affirmations to them, and the cost of such investigation shall be paid by the county in which such accident has occurred, in the same manner as the cost of coroner's inquest is paid.

He shall permit no one to handle or meddle with any machinery under his charge, nor suffer anyone who is not a certified engineer to operate his engine except for the purpose of learning to operate it or repair same, and then only in the presence of the engineer in charge, and when men are not on the cages, car, or cars.

At least five (5) days prior to the date of said hearing the board shall cause notice of the time and place of said hearing to be published in a newspaper of general circulation printed and published in each county in which it is alleged that waste is being committed, or that such rules, regulations, or notice is being violated, or notice may be given by posting for at least five (5) days before such hearing in at least three (3) conspicuous places in each field or locality in which it is alleged that such waste or violation is being committed; provided, however, that in lieu of notice by posting or by publication, personal service of such notice upon any person, firm, or corporation, at least five (5) days prior to the date of said hearing, shall be sufficient notice of such hearing to such person, firm, or corporation. History: En. Sec. 1, Ch. 216, L. 1921; re-en. Sec. 3555, R. C. M. 1921.

Operation and Effect

Held, that, in effect, there is no difference between the general provision of the constitution (sec. 7, art. VII) that the governor shall nominate and “by and with the consent of the senate” appoint all constitutional appointive officers, the provision authorizing the creation of the department of agriculture, labor and industry (sec. 1, art. XVIII) declaring that a commissioner shall be appointed by the governor “subject to the confirmation of the senate,” and the provision of the act creating the department (this section), and that the commission shall “be appointed by the governor, by and with the consent of the senate”; but that, if there be a difference, the constitution must prevail over the declaration of the legislature, and, as between the two constitutional provisions, the special (sec. 1, art.

XVIII) controls the general one (sec. 7, art. VII). State ex rel. Nagle v. Stafford et al., 97 M 275, 279, 34 P 2d 372.

Provisions Are Exclusive

Held, in a proceeding in quo warranto, that where the commissioner of agriculture, labor and industry was holding over until his successor should be appointed and qualified, and the appointment of his successor was not made until after adjournment of the legislature, preventing confirmation by the senate, there was no “vacancy” in the office as defined by section 511, the provisions of which are exclusive and do not cover a contingency such as the one presented in the instant case, to be filled by appointment, and that therefore the judgment of the district court that the claim of the appointee was without foundation was correct. State ex rel. Nagle v. Stafford et al., 97 M 275, 279, 34 P 2d 372.

3556. Commissioner of agriculture—appointment and term. The chief executive officer of the department of agriculture, labor, and industry, hereinafter referred to as the commissioner of agriculture, shall be a commissioner of agriculture, to be appointed by the governor, by and with the consent of the senate, and such commissioner shall hold office for a term of four years or until his successor is appointed and qualified.

3557. Bond, salary, and office of commissioner. Before entering upon the duties of his office, the commissioner of agriculture shall take and subscribe the constitutional oath of office, and shall give a surety company bond in the sum of five thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties, the cost of said bond to be paid by the state. The commissioner shall receive an annual salary of five thousand dollars, payable in the same manner as the salaries of other state officers, and shall be allowed such expenses as may be actually and necessarily incurred in the performance of his duties. He shall maintain his office at the state capitol.

The commissioner of agriculture is empowered to prescribe regulations not inconsistent with law for the government of his department, the conduct of its employees and clerks, the distribution and performance of its business and the custody, use, and preservation of the records, papers, books, documents, and property pertaining thereto. He shall also have authority to designate the form of and to use a seal to authenticate his official acts.

3559. Appointment and compensation of assistants. The commissioner of agriculture shall have the authority to appoint for the performance of the work of said department such number of secretaries, assistants, clerks, and other employees as he shall deem necessary for the performance of the work of the department, subject, however, to the approval of the state board of examiners. All persons so employed shall receive the compensation fixed by law or fixed by the board or department to whom may be entrusted the power to fix the compensation of deputy state officers and employees; if not so fixed, the commissioner of agriculture shall determine the amount of said compensation. No employee of the department of agriculture, labor, and industry who is paid a fixed compensation shall receive pay for any extra services rendered by him unless expressly authorized by law.

Definition of Wheat

"Wheat" as used in the storage act in determining the storage charges connotes wheat of the highest grade. Attorney General's Opinions, No. 154, Vol. 15.

Operation and Effect

Plaintiff delivered a quantity of grain to an elevator. Three months later he sold it to the elevator company; at that time, while section 3585 requires the warehouseman to charge storage, and this section prescribes the penalty for failure to do so, none was charged when the sale was made. In an action to recover the balance of the sale price due, the buyer contended that no storage having been charged, the contract of sale was invalid as against public policy. Held, that the contract of storage, one of bailment and the contract of sale were separate and distinct contracts, and in the absence of proof that the waiver of storage was an inducement for the sale, the latter transaction was valid. Spurgeon v. Imperial Elevator Co., 99 M 432, 43 P 2d 891.

3580. Establishment of standard grain grades—procedure. The commissioner of agriculture shall fix and establish standard grades to apply to all grain bought or handled by public warehouses in this state. The commissioner of agriculture shall adopt as state grade standards all grades for grain now or hereafter established by the United States department of agriculture. Standards for grain, other than those fixed as above, shall be established by the commissioner of agriculture after due notice and public hearing, notice thereof to be given by publication in three newspapers of the state, at least ten days prior to such hearing.

Grade standards, or any alteration or modification of such standards which the commissioner of agriculture may establish, shall not become effective within thirty days after publication, except in the case of grades established by the United States department of agriculture, which shall become effective ten days after publication.

All interested persons desiring to be heard shall be permitted to give testimony, and such other witnesses may be subpoenaed as the commissioner of agriculture may deem necessary, which witnesses shall be entitled to the same fees and mileage as are provided for witnesses in civil actions, and shall be paid out of the fund created by the provisions of this act. Such grain standards shall not apply to grain contracted for previous to their disposition.

The commissioner of agriculture shall, after such hearing, make and issue reasonable rules and regulations governing the dockage, which shall be made on inferior grades and in all executory contracts thereafter entered into; provided, that the same shall not conflict with the terms of the United States federal grain standard act. Where the price or amount to be paid therefor depends upon terminal weight or grade, such rules and regulations shall control the dockage in so far as the same affects the price to be paid, and such rules and regulations shall become part of the contract of sale. The commissioner of agriculture shall also make provisions for sample inspection of grain, make rules and regulations governing same and provide that such inspection when made shall be final.

The commissioner of agriculture shall have power to require, after personal notice of not less than thirty days served upon any warehouseman and a public hearing, cleaning apparatus to be established where none now exists to remove dockage and the return of same to the owner, or its equivalent in value, less cleaning charges, which may be fixed by the commissioner of agriculture.

The commissioner of agriculture shall, during the grain-marketing season, appoint such deputy inspectors as they deem necessary to visit the grain-growing districts for the purpose of investigating grain grading, dockage, and weighing, and enforcing the rules and regulations laid down by the commissioner.

It shall be the duty of the commissioner of agriculture, immediately after the establishment of such grades, and the promulgation of rules and regulations fixing dockage, as herein provided, to supply all public warehousemen which the records of his office show are then or thereafter engaged in operating such warehouses, with a copy of such grades, rules, and regulations. It shall be the duty of every public warehouseman to keep such copy on file in a convenient place in every such warehouse, and if an office is maintained in connection with such warehouse, a copy of such grades, rules and regulations shall be kept on file in such office, and a placard notice posted in a conspicuous place in every such warehouse and such office, reading as follows: "A copy of Montana grades, rules, and regulations is on file here for information of interested parties."

Every such warehouseman shall exhibit such copy of grades, rules, and regulations to any interested party applying therefor at any such warehouse or office, and permit such interested party to examine and consult such copy.

3581. Fees for inspection and weighing. The commissioner of agriculture shall fix the fees for inspection and weighing of grain, and such fees shall be a lien upon such grain until paid.

No commercial laboratory for public service shall certify to the grade or protein content of grain unless such commercial laboratory is licensed by the commissioner of agriculture under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe.

3582. Records of weighing and grading—certificate. The inspectors, samplers and weighers shall, at places provided for state inspection, have exclusive control of the weighing and grading of grain to be inspected, and the certificates of such officers relative to such weighing and grading, shall be conclusive upon all parties interested. Suitable books and records shall be kept, in which shall be entered a faithful and true record of every carload of grain inspected or weighed by them, and showing the number of and initial or other designation of the car containing such carload, its weight, the kind of grain and its grade, and if graded below standard No. 1 grade, the reason for such grade, if of inferior grade, the amount of such dockage, the amount of fees and forfeitures and disposition of the same, and for each car of grain they shall give a certificate of inspection, showing the kind and grade of the same and the reason for all grades below No. 1, the amount to be allowed for dockage, if any. They shall also furnish the agent of the railroad company, or other carrier over which such commodity was shipped or carried, a certificate showing the weight thereof, if requested to do so. They shall also keep a true record of all appeals, decisions, and a complete record of every official act, which books and records shall be open to inspection by any party in interest.

3583. Removal of inspectors, samplers or weighers for misconduct. Upon written complaint filed with the commissioner of agriculture, charging an inspector, sampler, or weigher with official misconduct, inefficiency, incompetency, or neglect of duty, the commissioner of agriculture shall investigate such charges, and, if it be found sustained, shall remove such officer.

3584. Appeals to commissioner of agriculture—hearing and order. In case any owner, consignee, or shipper of grain, or any warehouseman, shall be aggrieved at the grading of such commodity, such aggrieved person may appeal to the commissioner of agriculture from such decision within ten days from the date of certificate, by giving notice of appeal and paying a fee to be fixed by the commissioner of agriculture, which shall be refunded if the decision appealed from is sustained. Such notice of appeal may be given by letter or notice to the commissioner of agriculture, stating that such party appeals from the decision of the inspector, and specifying the initials and numbers of the cars in which such grain was contained when inspected and graded.

The appellant shall also file with the commissioner of agriculture a list containing the names and addresses of all parties interested in the subject matter. It shall be the duty of the commissioner of agriculture, upon receiving such notice and list of interested parties, to immediately notify the parties interested of the time and place designated by it for a hearing, and at such time and place, which shall be five days from the date of receiving such notice, hold a hearing and inquire into the reasonableness and correctness of such original grading, and such evidence shall be received as parties thereto may desire to offer. After such hearing, the commissioner of agriculture shall make such order affirming or modifying the grade so established by the inspector as the facts and evidence may justify.

3585. Discrimination in charges by warehousemen prohibited. If any public warehouseman subject to the provisions of this act shall, directly or indirectly, by any special charge, rebate, drawback, or other device, demand, collect, or receive from any person, or persons, a greater or lesser compensation for any service rendered, or to be rendered, in the handling or storage of grain, than he demands, collects, or receives from any other person or persons for a like and contemporaneous service in the handling or storage of grain, under substantially similar circumstances or conditions, or if any such public warehouseman shall make or give any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any person, company, or corporation in any respect whatever, or shall subject any particular person, company, firm, or corporation, to any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage, in any respect whatsoever, such warehouseman shall be subject to a penalty as herein provided.

Operation and Effect

Plaintiff delivered a quantity of grain to an elevator. Three months later he sold it to the elevator company; at that time, while this section requires the warehouseman to charge storage, and section 3579 prescribes the penalty for failure to do so, none was charged when the sale was made. In an action to recover the balance of the sale price due, the buyer contended that no storage having been charged, the contract of sale was invalid as against public policy. Held, that the contract of storage, one of bailment, and the contract of sale were separate and distinct contracts, and in the absence of proof that the waiver of storage was an inducement for the sale, the latter transaction was valid. Spurgeon v. Imperial Elevator Co., 99 M 432, 43 P 2d 981.

3586. Duty of warehousemen to receive grain—warehouse receipt. Every public warehouseman shall receive for storage and shipment without discrimination of any kind, so far as the capacity of his warehouse will permit, all grain tendered him in the usual course of business in suitable conditions for storage. A warehouse receipt, in form prescribed by law and the rules and regulations of the commissioner of agriculture, shall be issued and delivered to the owner, or his representative, immediately upon receipt of such load or parcel of grain.

Bailment

An operator of a grain elevator is a public warehouseman; delivery of grain for storage constitutes a bailment, and as bailee he must, under the Montana law, at all times keep on hand in bonded warehouses sufficient grain to make redelivery on all storage receipts, and may not sell or deliver it out of storage except as provided by law; he may not use it for purposes of speculation on the market. Whorley v. Patton-Kjose Co. Inc., 90 M 461, 477, 5 P 2d 210.

3587. Penalty for unlawful issue of warehouse receipt. It shall be unlawful for any public grain warehouseman to issue a receipt for grain, except on the actual delivery of the grain into the warehouse, or to issue a warehouse receipt for a greater amount of grain than that actually received.

Any person violating any of the provisions of this section, and any grain inspector knowingly permitting any grain to be delivered contrary to the provisions of this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail not less than thirty days nor more than six months.

3588. Regulation of sale and storage of grain—termination of storage contract—sale of grain for charges. In cases of grain being sold outright to the warehouseman at the time of delivery or grain placed in store with the warehouseman to be sold at a future time to the warehouseman to whom delivered, settlement shall be made on the basis of grade, quality, protein content and quantity. In cases of storage of grain with intent of future re-delivery of the grain the owner must so designate at time of delivery to enable the warehouseman to special bin. Failure to so designate at time of delivery, the grain will lose its identity in general storage. Therefore, owner agrees to accept quantity of like grade, kind and quality (as provided for under the United States federal grain standards act) from warehouseman's general storage. Upon the return of the receipt to the proper warehouseman, properly endorsed, and upon payment or tender of all advances and legal charges, grain of grade agreed upon, of equal quality or value and quantity equal to that placed by him in store shall be delivered to the holder of such receipt within forty-eight hours after the facilities for receiving the same have been provided, or at the option of the owner such warehouseman shall deliver such grain at terminal, or if mutually agreed, the equivalent market value thereof on said date, less any freight and storage charges to terminal, and such other charges as may be allowed by the commissioner of agriculture. Owners of warehouse receipts surrendered for shipment shall furnish the warehouseman with written instructions regarding the capacity of cars to be ordered from the transportation company, and as to the manner of loading and billing shipments made in such cars as are furnished by the transportation company. The warehouseman shall load and bill all such shipments in exact accordance with instructions given, and shall be liable to the owner of the warehouse receipt so surrendered for the amount of any excess freight paid, or for other damages suffered by the owner of the warehouse receipt, resulting from the failure of the warehouseman to follow accurately the loading and billing instructions as given him, provided that the owner of said warehouse receipt shall immediately furnish to said warehouseman a duplicate copy of the original state weighmaster's certificate of weight of said carlot shipment at terminal. If any dispute or disagreement arises between the party receiving and the party delivering the grain at any public warehouse in this state as to the proper grade or dockage, or both, of any grain, in accordance with standards at terminal points, an agreed average sample of at least one quart of said grain in dispute may be taken by the parties interested, and forwarded in an air tight tin container duly marked for identification by the interested parties, mail or express charges prepaid, with the names and addresses of the parties, to the chief grain inspector, Great Falls, Montana, or any state laboratory whose chief inspector has been qualified by the United States department of agriculture to grade grain, and make laboratory tests for protein, who will, upon request, examine said grain and adjudge what grade said sample is entitled to under the inspection rules and which amount of dockage it contains, and the findings of such inspection shall be binding upon both parties, subject to appeal, as hereinafter provided. If the grain in question is damp, musty, or otherwise out of condition, this fact, with any other necessary information, must accompany sample.

All storage contracts on grain in store in public local grain warehouses, as evidenced by a warehouse receipt, shall terminate on June 30th of each year.

Storage on any or all grain may be terminated by the owner at any time before the date mentioned herein by the payment or tender of all legal charges and the surrender of the storage receipt, together with a demand for delivery of such grain, or notice to warehouseman to sell the same. In the absence of a demand for delivery, order to sell, or mutual agreement for the renewal of the storage contract entered into prior to the expiration of the storage contract, as prescribed in this act, the warehouseman shall, upon the expiration of the storage contract, sell so much of such stored grain at the local market price on the close of business on said day as is sufficient to pay the accrued storage charges, and shall thereupon issue new storage tickets for the balance of the grain to the owner thereof upon surrender by him of the original storage receipts. Provided, further, that it shall be the duty of the warehouseman on the first day of June of each year to notice all storage ticket holders at their last known address of the provisions of this act.

3588.1. Disposal of grain without notice to department of agriculture and compliance with law forbidden—delivery of grain for warehouse receipts. No such warehouseman shall sell or otherwise dispose of, or deliver out of store, except to the owner, any stored grain, except upon notice, in advance, to the department of agriculture, and after complying in full with the laws of the state and the regulations of the department of agriculture relating to the handling of stored grain. Any person, firm, association or corporation owning or operating more than one public warehouse in this state shall be permitted to make delivery of wheat from one warehouse in settlement of warehouse receipts issued for grain stored in another warehouse, when grain for storage has been presented at any warehouse in excess of its available storage capacity. Provided, that this shall not be construed as conferring upon such warehouseman a right to make delivery of grain of substantially lower value than that delivered for store, though of the same technical grade, in settlement of warehouse receipts; and provided further, that such warehouseman shall, at all times, keep on hand in bonded warehouses grain of quality and quantity sufficient to settle all outstanding storage receipts. Provided, further, that freight and other charges shall be figured on the basis of the point of receipt.

3588.2. Possession by warehouseman considered bailment, when—prior right of warehouse receipt holder to grain. Whenever any grain shall be delivered to any person, association, firm or corporation doing a grain, warehouse or grain elevator business in this state, and the receipt issued therefor provides for the delivery of a like amount and kind, grade and quality to the holder thereof in return, such delivery shall be a bailment and not a sale of the grain so delivered, and in no case shall the grain so stored be liable to seizure upon process of any court in an action against such bailee, except action by owners of such warehouse receipts to enforce the terms thereof, but such grain shall at all times in the event of failure or insolvency of such bailee be first applied exclusively to the redemption of outstanding storage warehouse receipts for grain so stored with such bailee, and in such event grain on hand in any particular warehouse or elevator shall first be applied to the redemption and satisfaction of receipts issued by such warehouse.

3589. Annual report of warehouseman—special reports—penalty for failure to report—bond—license and fee—penalty for doing business without license. On June 30th of each year every warehouseman shall make report, under oath to the commissioner of agriculture, on blanks or forms prepared by him, showing the total weight of each kind of grain received and shipped from such warehouse licensed under the laws of Montana, and also the amount of outstanding storage receipts on said date, and a statement of the amount of grain on hand to cover the same. The commissioner of agriculture may also require special reports from such warehouseman at such times as the commissioner may deem expedient. The commissioner may cause every warehouse and business thereof and the mode of conducting the same to be inspected by his authorized agent, whenever deemed proper, and the books, accounts, records, papers and proceedings of every such warehouseman shall at all times during business hours be subject to such inspection. Any person, firm, or corporation, who shall knowingly falsify any of its reports to the department of agriculture, or who shall refuse or fail to make such reports when requested to do so by the commissioner of agriculture or his agents, or who shall refuse or resist inspection as provided in this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be punished by a fine of not less than fifty ($50.00) dollars nor more than five hundred ($500.00) dollars.

Each person, firm, corporation or association of persons operating any public warehouse or warehouses subject to the provisions of this act, and every track-buyer, dealer, broker, or commission man, or person or association of persons, merchandising in grain shall, on or before the first day of July of each year, give a bond with good and sufficient sureties to be approved by the commissioner of agriculture to the state of Montana, in such sum as the commissioner may require, conditioned upon the faithful performance of the acts and duties enjoined upon them by the law.

Every person or persons, firm, co-partnership, corporation, or association of persons, operating any public warehouse or warehouses, and every track-buyer, dealer, broker, commission man, person or association of persons merchandising grain in the state of Montana, shall, on or before the first day of July of each year, pay to the state treasurer of Montana, a license fee in the sum of fifteen ($15.00) dollars for each and every warehouse, elevator, or other place, owned, conducted, or operated by such person or persons, firm, co-partnership, corporation or association of persons, where grain is received, stored and shipped, and upon the payment of such fee of fifteen ($15.00) dollars for each and every warehouse, elevator or other place, where grain is merchandized within the state of Montana, the commissioner of agriculture shall issue to such person or persons, firm, co-partnership, corporation or association of persons, a license to engage in grain merchandising at the place designated within the state of Montana, for a period of one year. Any person, firm, association or corporation who shall engage in or carry on any business or occupation for which a license is required by this act without first having procured a license therefor, or who shall continue to engage in or carry on any such business or occupation after such license has been revoked (save only that a public warehouseman shall be permitted to deliver grain previously stored with him), shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not less than twenty-five ($25.00) dollars nor more than one hundred ($100.00) dollars, and each and every day that such business or occupation is so carried on or engaged in shall be a separate offense.

Indemnitors who assumed liability for losses sustained by a surety on a track buyer's bond (a trackbuyer being one engaged in the buying of grain for shipment or milling in earload lots but not operating a warehouse) under the impression that it was the bond required by this section, before amendment, which then did not make it the duty of a trackbuyer to pay the market price therefor as it did in the case of warehousemen. The bond executed as required by the state commissioner of agriculture, and of the contents of which the indemnitors were ignorant, was a common-law bond containing the provision that the surety would undertake to pay in full for all grain purchased if the trackbuyer failed to pay. The indemnity agreement contained a provision rendering the signers liable for all sums the surety would be required to pay under the bond. The trackbuyer went into bankruptcy; sellers of grain brought suit on the bond for moneys due them from the trackbuyer and had judgment. Held, in an action by the surety to recover upon the indemnity agreement, that since the bond was not the statutory trackbuyer's bond, but a common-law bond executed after the indemnity agreement had been entered into, and the indemnitors did not intend to indemnify against loss for failure of the trackbuyer to pay for grain and the statute did not make it his duty to do so, there was no meeting of minds as to the indemnity, therefore no contract in that behalf, and judgment for plaintiff surety was erroneous. American Surety Co. v. Butler et al., 86 M 584, 587, 284 P 1011.

Id. Legislative construction of a former statute is persuasive but will only be adopted when clearly expressed; but if in amending a former act upon the erroneous assumption that it contained a provision it did not, courts are at liberty to disregard such construction; hence the contention that, while this section did not contain a provision that a trackbuyer's bond should cover his faithful performance of his duty to pay for grain bought, by including trackbuyers in the provision imposing that duty upon warehousemen when it amended this section (ch. 42, laws 1925), it construed the original act as requiring that duty with relation to trackbuyers, has no merit.

The purpose of the legislature in enacting chapter 42, laws of 1925 (sec. 3589.1), was to authorize the state department of agriculture to do whatever is "lawful and needful" to have the proceeds of stored grain, upon insolvency of the warehouseman, applied to the redemption of storage tickets, and, when such proceeds are exhausted and there still remains a balance due them, to demand payment of the bond provided for in this section; if this shall prove insufficient to discharge the indebtedness, the holders of such tickets stand upon the same footing as do other creditors of the warehouseman. Department of Agriculture, etc. v. DeVore, 91 M 47, 51 et seq., 6 P 2d 125.

3589.1. Protection of holders of warehouse receipts by intervention of department of agriculture—authority of department—action on bond—attorney general and county attorneys to assist. Whenever any warehouseman, grain dealer, track buyer, broker, agent or commission man is found to be in a position where he cannot, or where there is a probability that he will not meet in full all storage obligations or other obligations resulting from the delivery of grain, it shall be the duty of the department of agriculture, through the division of grain standards, to intervene in the interests of the holders of warehouse receipts or other evidences of delivery of grain for which payment has not been made, and the department of agriculture shall have authority to do any and all things lawful and needful for the protection of the interests of the holders of warehouse receipts or other evidences of the delivery of grain for which payment has not been made, and when examination by the department of agriculture shall disclose that for any reason it is impossible for any warehouseman, grain dealer, track buyer, broker, agent or commission man to settle in full for all outstanding warehouse receipts or other evidences of delivery of grain for which payment has not been made, without having recourse upon the bond filed by said warehouseman, grain dealer, track buyer, broker, agent or commission man, it shall then be the duty of the department of agriculture for the use and benefit of holders of such unpaid warehouse receipts or other evidences of the delivery of grain for which payment has not been made, to demand payment of its undertaking by the surety upon the bond in such amount as may be necessary for full settlement of warehouse receipts or other evidences of delivery of grain for which payment has not been made. It shall be the duty of the attorney general or any county attorney of this state to represent the department of agriculture in any necessary action against such bond when facts constituting grounds for action are laid before him by the department of agriculture.

History: En. Sec. 3589-A by Sec. 6, Ch. 41, L. 1923; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 42, L. 1925.

Operation and Effect

While the status of holders of grain storage tickets with reference to the warehouseman is that of bailors, they are creditors within the meaning of this section, authorizing the state department of agriculture to intervene where the warehouseman becomes insolvent, for the purpose of protecting their interests. Department of Agriculture, etc. v. DeVore, 91 M 47, 51 et seq., 6 P 2d 125.

Legislative construction of a former statute is persuasive but will only be adopted when clearly expressed; but if in amending a former act upon the erroneous assumption that it contained a provision it did not, courts are at liberty to disregard such construction; hence the contention that, while section 3589 above, did not contain a provision that a track-buyer's bond should cover his faithful performance of his duty to pay for grain bought, by including trackbuyers in the provision imposing that duty upon warehousemen when it amended said section by adding this section, it construed the original act as requiring that duty with relation to trackbuyers, has no merit. American Surety Co. v. Butler et al., 86 M 584, 593, 284 P 1011.

3590. Special inspection of grain. In case grain is sold for delivery on Montana grade to be shipped from places not provided with state inspection under this act, the buyer, seller, or person making the delivery may have it inspected out by notifying an inspector, whose duty it shall be to have such grain inspected, and after it is inspected, to issue to the buyer, seller, or person delivering it, on request, an inspector's certificate showing the grade of such grain. The person or persons calling for such inspection shall pay for the same a reasonable fee, to be fixed by the commissioner of agriculture.

Grain that is shipped to points within the state where no inspection is maintained may be inspected on request of either the buyer or seller, and a certificate may be issued showing the grade of such grain. The charge for such service shall at least equal the entire cost thereof, and shall be paid by the party calling for the same.

3591. Sampling grain. From all grain shipped to terminal warehouses, and from all grain inspected or weighed, samples may be drawn, which samples shall become the property of the state, and subject to disposition by the commissioner of agriculture, under such rules and regulations as the commissioner may prescribe.

It shall be the duty of the commissioner of agriculture to transmit samples of grain, showing the standards thereof adopted, to such chambers of commerce, boards of trade, exporters and persons, firms, corporations, or associations handling and dealing in grain, as the commissioner may designate, and upon request he shall furnish such samples to smaller parties in this state or the United States, under such reasonable rules and regulations as the commissioner may prescribe.

3592. Examination of grain cars at destination—license of grain weighers. All inspectors, samplers and weighers, before opening the doors of any car containing grain, upon arrival at any of the places designated by the commissioner of agriculture for inspection, shall first ascertain the condition of such cars, and determine whether any leakages have occurred while said cars were in transit, whether or not the doors were properly secured and sealed at point of shipment, and shall make a record of such facts in all cases, giving seal numbers.

After such examinations have been made, the state officials shall securely close and re-seal such doors as have been opened by them, using the special seal of the commissioner of agriculture for the purpose.

A record of all original seals broken by said officials and the date when broken, and also a record number of said seals, shall be made by them. An inspector, weigher, or sampler shall break the seal, weigh and superintend the unloading of all cars of grain subject to inspection, and it shall be unlawful for any other person, or persons, to break the seal or weigh such cars of grain.

The commissioner of agriculture shall have power to require all persons, firms, corporations, or warehousemen engaged in weighing grain within the state of Montana to obtain a license, and prescribe rules and regulations governing the application for and the issuance of such licenses, but no fee shall be charged therefor, and any person, firm, corporation, or warehouseman, who shall weigh any grain without first having obtained said license, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than two hundred dollars.

All fees, licenses, and other charges collected under the provisions of this act shall be, by the person collecting the same, paid to the state treasurer of the state of Montana, and by said treasurer placed in the general fund.

3592.1. License for seed warehouses. That all persons, firms, co-partnerships, corporations and associations operating any public warehouse or warehouses in this state and which hold themselves out to the public as receiving agricultural seeds of any kind for storage for the public shall, on or before the first day of July of each year, pay to the state treasurer of Montana a license fee in the sum of fifteen dollars ($15.00) for each and every warehouse, elevator or other place owned, conducted or operated by such person or persons, firm, co-partnership, corporation or association wherein agricultural seed of any kind is received and stored, and upon the payment of such fee of fifteen dollars ($15.00) for each and every warehouse, elevator or other place where agricultural seed is received and stored within the state of Montana, the commissioner of agriculture shall issue to such person or persons, firm, co-partnership, corporation or association a license to engage in the storing of agricultural seed at the place designated within the state of Montana, for a period of one year.

History: En. Sec. 1, Ch. 50, L. 1927.

3592.2. Bond of seed warehousemen. Each such person, firm, co-partnership, corporation or association subject to the provisions of the act shall, on or before the first day of July of each year, give a bond with good and sufficient sureties to be approved by the commissioner of agriculture to the state of Montana, in such sum as the commissioner may require, conditioned upon the faithful performance of the acts and duties enjoined upon them by law. Any person, firm, association or corporation who shall commence the business aforesaid after the first day of July of any year shall be required to pay said license fee and furnish such bond before engaging in or carrying on any such business.

History: En. Sec. 2, Ch. 50, L. 1927.

3592.3. Penalty for conducting business without license. Any person, firm, co-partnership, corporation or association who shall engage in or carry on any business or occupation for which a license is required by this act without first having procured a license therefor, or who shall continue to engage in or carry on any such business or occupation after such license has been revoked, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars ($25.00) nor more than one hundred dollars ($100.00), and each and every day that such business or occupation is so carried on or engaged in shall be a separate offense.

History: En. Sec. 3, Ch. 50, L. 1927.

3592.4. Definition of "agricultural seeds." The term "agricultural seeds" as used in this act shall be held to mean and include the seeds of red clover, white clover, alsike, alfalfa, Kentucky bluegrass, timothy, brome grass, orchard-grass, redtop, meadow fescue, oatgrass, rye-grass, and other grasses and forage plants, corn, rape, buckwheat, beans, peas, and registered or certified seed grains in bags.

History: En. Sec. 4, Ch. 50, L. 1927.

3592.5. Warehouseman to receive seed for storage without discrimination. Every warehouseman subject to the provisions of this act shall receive for storage without discrimination of any kind so far as the capacity of his warehouse will permit all agricultural seeds tendered to him in the usual course of business in suitable conditions for storage providing, however, that he shall not be obliged to receive any agricultural seeds other than those which he holds himself out as dealing in and which he is equipped to handle.

History: En. Sec. 5, Ch. 50, L. 1927.

3592.6. Rules and regulations may be made by commissioner of agriculture—reports—form of warehouse receipts. The commissioner of agriculture shall prescribe such rules and regulations as he may deem necessary for the safe conduct of the business referred to in this act and to that end may if he deems it necessary, require reports from said warehouseman on blanks or forms that may be prepared by him and shall prescribe the form and contents of the warehouse receipt which shall be issued and delivered to the owner of such agricultural seeds, or his representative, upon the receipt of such agricultural seed. Among other things, said receipt shall indicate whether the agricultural seed is fancy, good, fair or poor.

History: En. Sec. 6, Ch. 50, L. 1927.

3592.7. Storage constitutes bailment. The storage of agricultural seed under the terms of this act shall constitute a bailment and not a sale and upon the return of the warehouse receipt to the proper warehouseman properly endorsed, and upon payment or tender of all advances and legal charges the holder of such warehouse receipt shall be entitled to, and it shall be compulsory for the warehouseman to deliver to such owner and holder of the warehouse receipt, the identical agricultural seed so placed in said warehouse for storage.

History: En. Sec. 7, Ch. 50, L. 1927.

3592.8. Additional bond required from grain warehousemen for seed storage. None of the provisions of this act shall be construed as requiring an additional license from a public warehouseman or other person, corporation or association, who is licensed to handle or store grain, but if any person, firm, co-partnership, corporation or association holding a license to handle or store grain shall also choose to engage in the business of storing any agricultural seed for the public it shall be necessary to furnish such additional bond as the commissioner of agriculture shall determine, and in the storage of such agricultural seed such person, firm, co-partnership, corporation or association shall be subject to the terms and conditions of this act.

History: En. Sec. 8, Ch. 50, L. 1927.

3592.9. Cooperative agencies' authority to store seeds—effect of partial invalidity of act. Co-operative associations or co-operative corporations when licensed to handle agricultural seeds as herein provided may reserve sufficient storage space to provide for the storage of such agricultural seeds that may reasonably be expected to be tendered for storage by their members before receiving seeds for storage from non-members. If for any reason the preceding part of this section shall be declared invalid, then cooperative associations and co-operative corporations when licensed to handle agricultural seeds shall be subject to the same terms and conditions as others licensed to handle seeds as in the other parts of this act provided and the remaining parts of this act shall not be affected.

History: En. Sec. 9, Ch. 50, L. 1927.

3592.10. Purpose of act. The purpose and object of this act is to provide the owners of grain the means of warehouse or storing the same on farms on or near railroad right-of-ways and other suitable places under proper safeguards, as a basis of farm credit on the grain so stored.

History: En. Sec. 1, Ch. 27, L. 1929.

3592.11. Farm storage commissioner. There is hereby created the office of farm storage commissioner, and the commissioner of agriculture, labor and industry for the state of Montana shall be ex officio such commissioner. Such commissioner shall manage, control and direct the operation of the provisions of this act, with full and complete power to make effective the provisions of this act and the rules and regulations which he may prescribe to carry out the purposes and objects thereof.

History: En. Sec. 2, Ch. 27, L. 1929.

3592.12. Bond of commissioner. By that chapter the legislature, after providing that the terms of the commissioners shall be four years, declared that they should be removable "for cause or the good of the commission." The governor without notice or hearing removed a member of the commission "for the good of the commission." Held, in a proceeding in quo warranto, that whenever the charges on which a fish and game commissioner is sought to be removed involve malfeasance, misfeasance or nonfeasance in office, or directly reflect upon the official or personal integrity of the incumbent proposed to be removed, the act requires notice and an opportunity to meet the charges, and that these requirements not having been met, removal of the incumbent was illegal. State ex rel. Nagle v. Sullivan et al., 98 M 425, 443, 40 P 2d 995.

3652. Meetings. The members of the commission shall within thirty days after their appointment and annually thereafter meet and organize by electing from its membership a chairman and shall hold quarterly or other meetings for the transaction of business, at such times and places it may deem necessary and proper, said meetings to be called by the chairman, or by a majority of the commission, and to be held at the time and place specified in the call for the same. A majority of the members of the commission shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business which may come before it. The said commission shall keep a record of all the business transacted by it. The chairman and secretary, hereinafter designated, shall sign all orders, minutes or documents for the commission.

3653. Powers and duties of commission. The commission hereby created shall have supervision over all the wild life, fish, game, and non-game birds, and waterfowl, and the game, and fur-bearing animals of the state, and shall possess all powers necessary to fulfill the duties prescribed by law with respect thereto, and to bring actions in the proper courts of this state for the enforcement of the fish and game laws of the state, and the orders, rules and regulations adopted and promulgated by the commission. It shall have full power and authority to enforce all the laws of the state of Montana, respecting the protection, preservation and propagation of fish, game, and fur-bearing animals, game and non-game birds, within the state. It shall have the exclusive power to expend for the protection, preservation and propagation of fish, game, and fur-bearing animals, and game and non-game birds, all funds of the state of Montana collected or acquired for that purpose, whether arising from state appropriation, licenses, fines, gifts, or otherwise, all sums collected or received from the sale of hunting and fishing licenses or permits, from the sale of seized game or hides, or from fines, damages collected for violations of the fish and game laws of this state, from appropriations, or received by the commission from any other sources are hereby appropriated to and placed under control of the Montana fish and game commission. It shall have power to discharge any appointee or employee of such commission for cause at any time. It shall have full power and authority to dispose of all property owned by the state of Montana, used for the protection, preservation and propagation of fish, game and fur-bearing animals, and game and non-game birds, which shall have been found to be of no further value or use to the state, and shall turn over proceeds arising therefrom to the state treasurer to be by him credited to the state fish and game fund. It shall have full power and authority to use so much of the fish and game funds of the state as may be necessary for the construction, maintenance, operation, upkeep, and repair of fish hatcheries, game farms, or other property or means and appliances for the protection and propagation of fish, game and fur-bearing animals, or game or non-game birds in the state of Montana, and it shall have the authority to appropriate moneys from the funds at its disposal for the extermination or eradication of predatory animals that destroy fish, game, or fur-bearing animals, or game or non-game birds. It shall have authority to provide for the importation of game birds and game and fur-bearing animals, and for the protection, propagation, and distribution of such imported or native birds and animals. It shall have authority to spend so much of the state fish and game funds as may be necessary to introduce and propagate wild waterfowl food and for that purpose may secure expert advice as to what kinds of waterfowl foods are adapted to the climate, soil, and waters of this state. It shall be its duty to furnish plans for, and to direct and compel the construction and installation and repair of fish ladders upon dams and other obstructions in streams, which, however, shall be installed and maintained at the expense of the owners of said dam or other obstruction. It shall have the authority to purchase and maintain at the expense of the state fish and game fund suitable fish screens or fish wheels, or other devices, to install them in irrigating ditches to prevent fish entering said ditches. It shall have authority to locate, lay out, construct and maintain nurseries and rearing ponds where fry can be planted, propagated and reared, and when of suitable sizes, liberated and distributed in the waters of this state, and may expend from the state fish and game funds such sums as may be necessary for this purpose. It shall have authority to acquire by gift, purchase, capture, or otherwise, any fish, game, game birds, or animals, for propagation, experimental or scientific purposes. It shall have authority to acquire by purchase, condemnation, lease, agreement, gift, or devise, lands or waters suitable for the purposes hereinafter enumerated, and develop, operate and maintain the same for said purposes: (a) For fish hatcheries, nursery ponds, or game farms; (b) Lands or waters suitable for game, bird, fish, or fur-bearing animal restoration, propagation, or protection; (c) For public hunting, fishing, or trapping areas to provide places where the public may hunt, trap, or fish in accordance with the provisions of law or the regulations of the commission; (d) To extend and consolidate by exchange lands or waters suitable for the above purposes; (e) To capture, propagate, transport, buy, sell, or exchange any species of game, bird, fish, fish eggs, or fur-bearing animals needed for propagation or stocking purposes, or to exercise control measures of undesirable species. It shall have authority to enter into cooperative agreements with educational institutions and state, federal, or other agencies, to promote wild-life research and to train men for wild-life management. It shall have authority to enter into cooperative agreements with federal agencies, municipalities, corporations, organized groups of land-owners, associations and individuals for the development of game, bird, fish, or fur-bearing animal management and demonstration projects. It shall have authority to fix seasons and bag limits, or shorten or close seasons on any species of game, bird, fish, or fur-bearing animal, in any specified locality or localities or the entire state, when it shall find, after said investigation, that such action is necessary to assure the maintenance of an adequate supply thereof. The statutes now governing such subjects shall continue in full force and effect, except as altered or modified by rules and regulations promulgated by the commission. It shall have authority to establish and close to hunting, trapping or fishing, game, bird or fish refuges on public lands and, with the consent of the owner, on private lands; and close streams and lakes, or parts thereof, to hunting, trapping, or fishing. It shall have authority to divide the state into fish and game districts, and to create fish, game, or fur-bearing animal districts throughout the state of Montana and to declare closed season for hunting, fishing, or trapping in any of said districts, so created, and later to open said districts to hunting, fishing, or trapping. It shall have authority to declare a closed season on any species of game, fish, or game birds, or fur-bearing animals threatened with undue depletion, from any cause, and to close any area or district or any stream, public lake, or public water, or portions thereof, to hunting, trapping, or fishing, for limited periods of time, when such action is necessary to protect recently stocked area, district, water, spawning waters, spawn-taking waters, or spawn-taking stations, or to prevent the undue depletion of fish, game and fur-bearing animals, and game and non-game birds, and later to open the same upon consent of a majority of the property owners affected. It shall have authority to establish game refuges for the purpose of providing safe sanctuaries in which game and fur-bearing animals or game or non-game birds may breed and replenish. Such refuges shall be established by order of the commission upon the petition and proper showing that such action is, in judgment of the fish and game commission, necessary and in the best interest of the wild-life within the area, to be included within such refuge, it being the purpose of this provision to establish small refuges rather than large preserves or rather than to close large areas to hunting or trapping. It shall have authority to designate and protect certain areas as resting, feeding and breeding grounds for migratory birds, in which hunting and molestation shall be forbidden; it being the purpose of this provision not to interfere unduly with the hunting of waterfowl, but to provide havens in which they can rest, feed, and breed without molestation. After petition has been duly filed with the secretary of the commission, praying that an area shall be set aside as a game refuge or haven, the said secretary shall immediately publish a notice in a paper of general circulation in the county in which said area is proposed, that a hearing in connection therewith will be held at such place in said county as may be designated on a day not less than fifteen (15) days from the date of the first publication, to be specified in said notice, at which time and place all interested parties shall have the right to appear and be heard. It shall have authority to establish and maintain an educational and biological department of their work for the collection and diffusion of such statistics and information as shall be germane to the purpose of this act. Said commission shall, in addition to the powers heretofore granted, have such other and further powers as may be necessary to fully carry out the purpose and intent of all the laws pertaining to fish, game, and fur-bearing animals, game and non-game bird propagation, protection, conservation and management of this act; provided, however, that it shall not have authority to issue permits to anyone to carry firearms within the confines of the state of Montana, except to regularly appointed officers and/or fish and game wardens who are paid by the state of Montana.

Fish and Game Commission Without Power to Condemn Site for Fish Rearing Pond

Held, prior to amendment by Ch. 200, L. 1935 that the statute granting certain powers to the fish and game commission

(sec. 3653) does not in express terms nor by necessary implication grant it the power to condemn a site for the purpose of constructing a fish rearing pond, and that, such being the case, the presumption obtains that the legislature intended that the necessary property should be acquired by contract. State et al. v. Aitchison et al., 96 M 335, 338, 30 P 2d 805.

3654. Compensation of commissioners. The members of the commission shall receive no compensation for their services as members thereof, except a per diem of ten dollars ($10.00) for each member for every day in actual attendance at the meetings of said commission, or in the execution of their duties as members of said commission; provided, however, that in no instance shall any member of said commission receive as said per diem a sum in excess of four hundred dollars ($400.00) in any one year, and the members of said commission shall be allowed their actual and necessary traveling expenses, while performing their duties as members of said commission, which shall be paid from the fish and game fund of the state, upon presentation of proper vouchers therefor.

He shall devote all his time to his official duties, and such state fish and game warden shall have all the powers and duties which are now or may hereafter be by law conferred upon and delegated to the state game warden or the state fish and game warden. His powers and duties shall include those of a deputy state fish and game warden hereinafter enumerated. He shall be subject to the supervision and control of said commission and may be removed from office by said commission for neglect of duty, incompetency, or other good cause. The state fish and game warden shall be paid a salary fixed by the commission not exceeding in amount three thousand six hundred dollars ($3,600.00) per year, and in addition thereto shall be allowed his actual and necessary traveling expenses while away from the seat of government upon official business connected with his office, but in no instance shall he be allowed as expenses a sum in excess of two thousand dollars ($2,000.00) in any one year, the same to be paid upon proper vouchers from the fish and game fund of the state.
